CITY OFFICIALS ARE IN BOSTON TODAY

Attending Mandamus and Equity Hearings on Hospital Matter—Council Meeting Adjourned

Today City Solicitor Hennessy, City Clerk Flynn and Alderman Cummings went to Boston to appear for the city in the mandamus hearing on the hospital site. After this hearing will be held the other on the bill in equity to prevent the city from purchasing the Ellsberry site for a contagious hospital.

Council Meeting Adjourned
The meeting of the council scheduled to be held this morning at 10 o'clock was postponed until 4.30 o'clock this afternoon as there were only two members in the meeting room at the time. Mayor O'Donnell and Commissioner Barrett. Mr. Donnelly was absent on account of a death in his family, and Mr. Cummings was in Boston.

HUERTA'S TROOPS ARE HEMMED IN FORTRESS

U.S. Cavalry Prepared to Force Back Beaten Federals Who Plan Flight to United States—Ojinaga is Expected to Fall—Desperate Fighting

MARFA, Texas, Jan. 2.—General Ortega's 6000 rebels besieging Ojinaga, Mexico, had approached nearer to the fortifications before daylight today and apparently the federals could not hold out much longer. The last word received from Major McNamee, commanding the United States border patrol at Presidio, was that the desertions from the federal army had slackened. The federals had received some of their back pay, Major McNamee said, and this had checked desertions.

Major McNamee had the situation well in hand in preparing for an expected flight of the entire federal army across the border. The danger of the federals drawing the rebel fire closer to the border in case of a flight was considered but the border patrol had received the promise of General Ortega that the fire would be directed away from the river. General Villa has more ammunition on the way from Chihuahua and hopes to replenish the rebel supply at Ojinaga before it was exhausted. The federals have no way of renewing their supplies.

The federals wounded at Presidio have all been removed to the mission church there in care of the Red Cross. The federal commander asked Major McNamee to permit the removal of the wounded to Ciudad Porfirio, Dins, Mexico, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, but the request was refused.

GEN. VILLA, REBEL LEADER, TRYING TO ARRANGE FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF BANK

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 2.—Brig. Gen. Scott, at El Paso, reported to army headquarters here last night that Gen. Villa, constitutionalist commander, who came to Juarez yesterday, was endeavoring to arrange with American bankers to establish a banking house in the city of Chihuahua.

HUERTA ARMY, AFTER CRUSHING DEFEATS, PLANS FLIGHT TO U. S.

PRESIDIO, Tex., Jan. 2.—The northern division of the Mexican federal army at Ojinaga, Mexico, with its 11 generals, other officers and about 4000 soldiers, after a mercurial three-day attack by General Ortega's 6000 rebels, last night appeared to be on the verge of fleeing in disorder across the river into the United States.

The ending of the Ojinaga battle, attended by the most horrifying scenes witnessed on the border in the present Mexican revolution, was said to have in store only one possible result—the momentarily expected flight of the whole federal army to American soil.

With a line of struggling wounded at the border to indicate the extent of the carnage, and deserters already appearing in numbers, Major M. N. McNamee, commanding the border patrol, made every plan in anticipation of the flight. Less than 500 cavalrymen, mostly from the Fifteenth Cavalry, form the border patrol here. To this small body of American soldiers would fall the task of surrounding and disarming perhaps 4000 foreign soldiers. The ability of the American soldiers to handle the refugees was based on the assumption that the rebels would pursue the federal army to the river.

"I expect at any time during the night that the greater part of the federal army, possibly two or more thousand, may be forced across the river. I have made dispositions to disarm and hold them if this takes place."

This was the message which Major McNamee sent out yesterday. Major McNamee's reference to "two or more thousand" implied the loss of a dead or wounded of the rest of the 1000.

U.S. SUPREME COURT MEETS ON MONDAY

Case Against Owners of Titanic and Contempt Case Against Compers to be Considered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—When the supreme court of the United States meets on Monday next it will face an amount of work that promises to make a record for the ensuing 12 months. In addition to the probable announcement of many decisions the court has set down for hearing on that day or as soon thereafter as possible, enough cases to consume the time of the sittings of the court for nearly a week. One of the most interesting of these involves the liability of the owners of the Titanic, which went down after striking an iceberg on April 11, 1912. The owner of the vessel, the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., a British corporation is seeking to have its liability for the million dollars worth of claims lodged against it for the loss of life and property in the catastrophe limited under American law to the value of the salvage, the freight and passenger fares received on the trip, in all about $90,000. A millionaire's non-roll will be heard when the court calls a series of cases during the week, involving the liability of the Paine Aldrich trust fund imposed on foreign built yachts.

The contempt case against Samuel Compers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor will be considered again by the court. About two years ago the court set aside the full sentences imposed on them by the local courts, because of the method of procedure. Among other cases to be argued is the Henry contempt case, growing out of the money trust hearing.

TO END STRIKE

Government Agent Declares Peace in Calumet

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 2.—John B. Densmore, solicitor of the United States department of labor, who went to Calumet early this week, telegraphed Gov. Ferris yesterday afternoon that he believed he was making progress toward a settlement of the copper strike and that certain plans which might mature favorably were under discussion.

The governor has asked Mr. Densmore for further details, and pending their receipt will not ask President Shaw of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company to come to Lansing for a conference.

The governor explained he did not want to interfere with any plan Mr. Densmore may have made that gave promise of leading to a settlement of the dispute.

Gov. Ferris gave no intimation as to what course he might pursue if Mr. Densmore failed to bring the warring factions together.

BERTHA ELDRIDGE

Companion of Young Prindle Was in Police Court Today

The case of Bertha Eldridge, the companion of James Prindle the "ax-man," came up in juvenile session this morning on continuance. The girl was accompanied by her mother and a Boston attorney.

The police were convinced this morning that the girl really does not know where any of the stolen articles which Prindle stole are now hidden. She promised to go back to her home and remain with her parents and upon these terms Judge Enright imposed a suspended sentence to the Industrial school at Lancaster.

Armand Guernard, the youth accused of breaking into the store of George Boucher, came up for a hearing this morning, but his case was held over for another week in order that the police may look up his record more thoroughly. On account of the large number of juvenile cases the regular session of police court did not open until a late hour.

ANOTHER FIRE GENERAL STRIKE

In Section of Montreal Of Coal Barge Men in New York—Want Their Wages Increased

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A general strike of coal barge men in New York was announced yesterday following a meeting of the barge men's union which began today. The coal barge men who demand an increase in wages from $50 to $60 a month recently presented their demands to the coal companies. The majority refused the demands.

It is estimated that a general strike of the barge men would tie up $500 coal barges and cut off the supply of the electric light and street railway powerhouses and other companies which handle the coal.

KILLED BY TRAIN
QUINCY, Jan. 2.—Andrew McIntosh, a granite manufacturer, was killed last night by a locomotive on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. His body, found by police officers at a late hour, was brought to his family while they were awaiting his return home. It is believed he tried to take a short cut across the tracks and was struck by a switching engine.

700 WORKING GIRLS

Attended Housewarming of New Club House of the Vacation Savings Fund of National Civic Association

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—More than 700 working girls yesterday attended the housewarming of the new club house of the Vacation Savings fund of the National Civic Association. Miss Anna Morgan, one of the leaders of the vacation committee, in explaining the objects of the new building, said it was hoped to make it a place of recreation for those of the 14,000 girls who are depositors in the vacation fund and who are taxpayers. A taxpayer, she explained, contributed one dollar yearly to the support of the house. There are to be few restrictions in the entertainments offered and the facilities, the one-story and the bungalow will be taught.

"We feel," said Miss Morgan, "that it is a great deal better to let these girls learn the new dances under the right conditions than to try to shut up the dance halls. If we do that it only results in driving the girls to places that are even more vicious."

"OH SUSANNAH" FEAST OF EPIPHANY

Funniest Play Ever in High School Hall This Evening

There is a great deal of suppressed excitement and anxious expectation in high school circles these days owing to the screamingly funny play, "Oh, Susannah," which will be given by a group of Miss Joyce's pupils tonight and tomorrow night at high school hall. It is difficult to get the real facts of the play in advance because the principals do not wish to spoil the effect by preparing the public for its side-splitting surprises, but enough has leaked out to prepare those who go for an evening of hearty laughter and genuine amusement.

"Oh, Susannah," is a royalty play, patterned along the lines of "Charley's Aunt," which has made thousands laugh for years, with the same bright lines and the deliciously comic situations. It is an English play, with typically English situations. Of course there is a love scene, in which Edward Martin outshines Jack Barrymore, Donald Brinn and the host of romantic romances, and in which "Miss Dorothy Hordern" is all that a beautiful and witty lady should be. Those who have asserted that it is difficult to get a bath on American lines in England are partially supported by the evidence in "Oh, Susannah," for while there is a bathroom scene, it is slightly different from our conception of the popular Saturday night institution. The gallant leading man undertakes to give a bath to somebody, but, horrors! there is a truly awful mistake. It is only one of several amusing mistakes, but when all is over the audience will feel that such mistakes make the world go round very smoothly.

NO MORE MIXED DANCES

Quincy School Committee and Woodward Institute Trustees to Veto Unorthodox Change

QUINCY, Jan. 2.—Not only have the modern dances been removed from the school functions by the school committee and the Woodward Institute trustees, but so mixed dances in the school buildings will be permitted until the present tendency is changed. The trustees of the Woodward Institute are clergyman, and many of the school board members are physicians.

The action of both bodies came yesterday as the result of a report made by A. L. Barbour, superintendent of schools, who said that while in his opinion the dancing he had observed at school functions was the cleanest and farthest removed from the current extreme dancing, this condition prevailed only as the result of ceaseless vigilance on the part of masters and teachers, and he questioned whether there was enough value attached to repay the rigid censoring which was involved.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Impressive ceremonies marked the inauguration today of Dr. John Huston Finley of New York as president of the university of the state and commissioner of education. "Noted educators" from all parts of the country and abroad participated.

The inauguration was held in the new $5,000,000 state education building.

In the Province of Szechuen, China in 1913—Mostly Robbers

PEKING, Jan. 2.—It is officially estimated today that 24,000 executions were carried out in the province of Szechuen alone in 1913. Most of those ordered to be killed were robbers, but in the total were included a large number of political offenders who had been concerned in various movements during the transition period from an empire to a republic. It is hinted by officials that the actual figures regarding the executions would if they could be known, exceed the estimate. The customs collections at the ports during 1913 amounted to approximately $29,829,500. Most of the ports showed an increase over the preceding year and the figures for Shanghai, Hankow and Canton actually constitute a record.

NOTES OF THE CHURCHES

The First Presbyterian church held an entertainment last evening and the affair was largely attended. It was mostly musical in nature but many readings were also given. Songs were sung by Miss Katherine Venard, John Melr, Miss Etta Thompson and Edward Wirt; Master Raymond Martin gave violin solos to the accompaniment of Miss Grace D. Martin. The Misses Bernice and Bertha Knight played piano duets, and Mrs. Isabella Lovejoy entertained by readings.

The regular church and prayer meeting will be held this evening at 7.45 Rev. Dr. Fisher will preach on "What the New Year will do for me." A large attendance is expected.

PRES. GOMEZ GREETED

CARACAS, Ven., Jan. 2.—President Gomez returned to the capital yesterday after an absence of five months. He brought with him the army of 1000 men with which he had been encamped at Maracay since early in August when General Cipriano Castro, the former dictator, made an unsuccessful attempt to bring about a revolution. The soldiers marched through the principal streets and were then drawn up in front of Miraflores palace, where they were reviewed by the president. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Some weeks ago the management of the Merrimack Square theatre distributed cards upon which was printed the question: "What play would you like to see produced?" The patrons were then requested to sign the name of their favorite play and deposit the card in a letter box passing out of the theatre after the current week's bill. Something like 3,000 cards were deposited in the box and of these a little over one-third chose Rose Stabbs' great play, "The Chorus Lady." So true to its promise, Manager Carroll will, on the coming week, give this splendid comedy and elaborate production with Miss Grace Young in the title role. It is a play which one could witness again and again and never grow tired of seeing, and that's probably one of the many reasons why patrons chose it. All the different members of the cast will be seen to excellent good advantage, while Miss Young, as "Patricia'Brien" with a heart of gold, should make the crowning triumph in her career. Watch for new scale of prices.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

That show at the Keith theatre this week has the requisite variety and vim to hold an audience pleased from the time the Peers do their wonderful comedy but especially until Madame Mary's circus closes its series of stunts. It really is one all-good show, without a slow moment in it. The headline is Madame Mary's circus, which holds plenty of first class acts. The ponies are small and sprightly, and the big horses are all thoroughbreds. The dogs, too, will please everybody. Several very funny clowns add to the variety of the act. "His Nerve," a highly dramatic sketch, is played admirably by the Broadway Players. If you like an instrumental act then the Military Maids and Stewart will prove to be the right sort. Kimball & Donovan, banjoists, click out the very latest of melodies, and the Turpin singers have a little surprise. The Peers are great bar performers, and Brooks and Bowen are funny blackface men. For more performances of this show, the box office phone is No. 28.

OPERA HOUSE TODAY

If you are in search of a hearty laugh go to the Opera House today and see the excruciatingly funny costume photo-comedy, "Kitty's Knight," from the home of the S. & A. "Pudge" Malone, an artist's model, is in love with Kitty Casey, but Mike McManus is fast making his way into the crevices of Kitty's heart. Mike isn't any better looking, but he makes a few dollars a week more than his rival. The night of the masquerade ball Kitty has trouble in eluding Mike, as she has promised "Pudge" she would go with him. Mike weighs only 70 pounds, while Mike is a big, strong, healthy fellow, so he just picks her up under his arm and carries her to the dance hall. "Pudge" is broke, so he borrows a suit of armor from his artist, and on every occasion the two are together. "Pudge" and his sweetheart win the first prize for their novel and beautiful costumes. This money they decide to use for a license and a ceremony, which causes Mike to make a disturbance, and results in his being placed in a cell in the police station for over night. The situations are exceedingly funny and there is action from the start to finish.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The most mirthful week known to the Playhouse will be closed with the final performance of "Madame Xausse Me." This is positively one of the funniest productions known to the burlesque stage, and with chorus working effectively, the entertainment is one of conspicuous merit. The Lander Brothers, Paddy Joyce and John Marion, contribute most of the

ARIZONA METAL MINING

Record Output in 1913—Increases in Gold, Silver, Copper, Lead, Tin and Zinc

In 1913 there was a record mine production of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc in Arizona, according to preliminary figures of V. C. Hodges, of the United States geological survey. The total value of the mine output was about $71,000,000, an increase of nearly 5 per cent. over the value of 1912, which was $67,050,784. The copper output was valued at nearly $41,000,000; the gold at about $3,948,000; the silver at more than $2,263,000; the lead at $612,000; and the zinc at $510,000.

The mine yield of gold in Arizona in 1913 was more than 151,000 ounces, an increase of 5 per cent. over the output of 1912, which was 151,006.31 fine ounces. Of this total, over 42 per cent. was taken from siliceous ores and most of the remainder came from copper ores, which are undoubtedly the source of the increased gold output in 1913.

The three largest producing gold mines were the Tom Reed, Gold Roads, and Vulture. The Tom Reed output was about the same as in 1912, the Gold Roads had a slight increase, and the Vulture a substantial increase. In Yuma county operations were resumed at the La Fortuna mine.

The mine production of silver increased about 3 per cent., amounting to more than 3,773,000 ounces, against 3,495,587 ounces in 1912. Most of the silver was derived from copper ore, but in 1913 the increase is due largely to shipments of lead ore and concentrates from Cochise and Mohave counties. Much silver also comes from siliceous ore. About 500 tons of ore per month was shipped from the Tombstone property and a large tonnage of old tailings was taken from the Commonwealth dump. A 350-ton cyanide mill at this property was completed during the year.

With a mine production of about 414,593,000 pounds of copper in 1913, Arizona led all other copper-producing states. The output in 1913 shows an increase of more than 49,000,000 pounds, or about 12 per cent. over that of 1912, which was 365,593,549 pounds. As the price of copper was slightly lower in 1913, the value of the metal increased only about $3,500,000. There were 11 active copper smelting plants in the state, and ore and concentrate were also sent to 6 copper and lead plants in other states. Of the former, the greatest increases in output were made at the Hayden, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Queen, Old Dominion, Consolidated Arizona, and Swansea plants. At the United Verde and Detroit plants there was little change from the figures of 1912. Those making less copper were the Shannon, Arizona Copper, and Pioneer plants. New plants were completed by the Arizona Copper and Calumet & Arizona companies, and another was in course of construction for United Verde ores. The disseminated copper mines in Gila, Pinal, and Greenlee counties yielded approximately 145,500,000 pounds of copper. Included in this estimate of copper produced are the outputs of the Miami, Ray, Arizona Copper and Detroit mines. The Miami product did not greatly exceed that of 1912. The 3900-ton concentration plant was active and the product went mostly to Cananea, Mexico. The International Smelting & Refining Co. will build a copper plant at Miami to treat this ore and that from the Inspiration mine. Test plants using the flotation process were operated at the Miami and Inspiration, as the saving by concentration alone is not sufficient. The Ray Consolidated Copper Co. greatly increased its output, from nearly 36,000,000 pounds of copper in 1912 to about 52,000,000 pounds in 1913, treating 6000 tons of ore per day. Production from Yuma and Pima counties was not what it could have been, since the Swansea and Pioneer plants were operated only a few months. At Globe greatly increased shipments were made from the Superior & Boston, Iron Cap and Black Warrior mines, and in Pinal county from the Magna mine.

With an increase of more than 104 per cent., the mine production of lead was larger than in any other year. The total output was nearly 14,000,000 pounds, valued at about $612,000, as against 6,896,443 pounds, valued at $306,290 in 1912. The mines at Bisbee produced much lead ore, and in 1913 there was a large increase. The Shattuck mine became a regular producer of silver-lead ore as well as copper ore. In Mohave county an increased tonnage was shipped regularly from the Tennessee mine to the concentration plant at Needles, California.

The mine production of recoverable spelter was about 9,100,000 pounds, valued at $510,000, which was an increase of about 310,000 pounds, or nearly 4 per cent., over the production of 1912. On account of the lower price paid for the metal, the total value decreased more than $90,000. The Golconda mine, in Mohave county, formerly the largest producer, was making shipments of zinc ore and concentrates only part of the year, and therefore had a greatly decreased output. Much ore was, however, shipped from the San Xavier mine in Pima county and much concentrate was made from Mohave county ores milled at Needles.

QUITS SMOKING

Solicitor Folk Consumed About Twenty Cigars a Day

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Joseph W. Folk, solicitor of the state department, has sworn off from smoking.

In doing so, he hopes, as he expresses it, to set a good example for the American.

Mr. Folk has for years been an inveterate smoker and his friends were greatly surprised when he declared that he had quit. His daily consumption of cigars averaged from 15 to 20.

BIG MEETING OF OWLS

The business meeting of the Owls in Elks hall last night was well attended. President J. Walter Bowers presided. Many propositions for membership were received and referred to committee and a large class of candidates were initiated. The officers elected at the last meeting of the next were duly installed by Past President Edward M. Bowers. The installation ceremony was very impressive. The toll ritual of the order was used. Many passages of Scripture were quoted and poems read.

Impressive and appropriate memorial exercises were then held, under direction of Past President E. M. Bowers. A memorial hymn by Thos. E. Boucher, dedicated to the members who have passed away during the year just closed, was read with much feeling by E. M. Bowers. After these exercises a smoke talk and concert were given, refreshments were served and cigars passed. Those who took part were: Thomas Baxter, William Carvel, James McManus, the "Jolly club" quartet, Edward Lane and James H. Rogers. McGuire's orchestra was in attendance.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was Chairman John McCallum, John H. Rogers, James McManus, Thos. F. Burns, Wm. Hollingsworth and Cornelius Harrington.

BLUNDER OF ILL HEALTH

WHAT PROFESSOR CANTY OF HARVARD SAYS OF OUR HABITS

Most sickness happens because someone has blundered—and that "someone" is apt to be you or me or all of us. Typhoid is a blunder in the water supply or the milk supply, or a blunder of someone who doesn't wash his hands.

Consumption is a blunder of schoolhouse construction and schoolhouse ventilation which makes school children breathe baked, stercid, vitiated air with all the life cooked out of it.

We need real air, not a substitute supposed to be "just as good." We need it in our homes and stores, our factories and offices; but we do not get it. We get furnace heated air, which is about as near to the real article as a furnace heated rose would be to a live rose.

Consumption is one of the punishments which we store up for ourselves when we make the stupid blunder of sleeping ourselves on sleep. Sleep, sufficient, sound sleep, in pure air with the windows open, strengthens every organ to resist disease and to throw it off. It fortifies us against the venustas and against every other germ disease as well. It helps us to digest our food; it tones up our nerves and muscles; it improves our temper and sharpens our ambitions. It doesn't cost a cent; yet it is worth more than the most expensive medicine. We need just as much of it as we can get—just as much as our system will soak in. If you are still sleepy when it is time to get up, you are making the stupid blunder of wasting vital power by going to bed too late. You are inviting disease to pay you a visit—perhaps a long one.

Public health laws and public health officials can see that our markets, factories and bakeries give us clean, fresh food. Make them do it. But remember that most of the germ diseases which are caused by our being starved of fresh air, starved of our full sleep and starved of sufficient nourishment, food, are our own fault for the most part. This is just as true of food as it is of sleep and fresh air—the three essentials of good health. We blunder about our food and our drink in the same foolish muddle-headed way that we blunder about air and sleep. Sometimes our food isn't properly cooked. Sometimes we under-eat because we are too tired to eat and have given ourselves no chance to rest. Many times we bolt our food like animals—unchewed. Many times we spoil our appetites with candy or tea or rum, late hours and dissipation.

The government (which means all of us) can do much to provide pure air in schools, stores and factories. Proper playgrounds and play masters for children, pure food and water. But government can't make us eat properly and sleep sufficiently. There, we must mind our own business. Public health will always be chiefly a question of private common sense.

Till mothers learn how to feed their babies and how to cook good meals, all the health laws in the world won't keep their families well. Till women learn to eat good food and men learn to drink pure water instead of poisoned rum, we shall never drive out disease through boards of health.

Meaning boards of health can do far more than they do if we, the taxpayers, will give them money and back them up. They can choke off disease in schools, in tenements and factories and stores by bringing the doctor and the nurse to our aid before we are sick. One of the greatest blunders of our present system is that we don't call the doctor until the disease is well under way. This is like calling the fire engine after the roof has fallen in. We must learn to use our doctors and nurses to keep us whole and not merely to patch us up after we have gone to pieces. This means:

(1) Efficient, well paid school physicians, school clinics and school nurses.

(2) Efficient, well organized insurance against sickness and accidents.

(3) The proper utilization by all the people of hospitals, district physicians and district nurses paid for by all the people for education and prevention as well as for cure.

Why should not the public and the doctors organize to take any steps in this direction which the people of Greater Boston can agree upon?

CONGRESSMAN MAKES REPLY TO ANDREW—NEVER SUGGESTED ANYONE WITHDRAW, HE SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Congressman Gardner yesterday made public the following letter which he has sent to Hon. A. Platt Andrew in answer to one which he has received from Mr. Andrew dated Dec. 30, 1913.

"My Dear Mr. Andrew: I am in receipt of your letter of Dec. 30, 1913. I am correct in my interpretation of your words, you raise no objection to my being a candidate for congress against you. If I am wrong in my interpretation, please advise me at once. Unless I hear from you to the contrary I shall expect to become a candidate for re-election to congress in 1914.

Very truly yours,
A. P. G.

Owing to unexpected difficulties, the recently organized Club L'Assomption in West Centralville, has postponed its opening. The new club which was to have taken possession of the Bolsovert building at the corner of West Sixth and Knoll streets, had elected George Boucher as president, and all the plans had been completed, but unforeseen difficulties will make the opening of the club impossible at least for the present.

GIRL IS MISSING

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Up to last night no information had been received of the whereabouts of Miss Rose V. Fallon, the 18-year-old telephone operator who disappeared Tuesday.

It has been learned that she was seen in Forest Hills square early Tuesday evening, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Fallon of 582 Washington street, Forest Hills, were informed yesterday that on Wednesday she was seen at the South station.

If she intended to leave the city, however, she divulged her plans to nobody. A friend and fellow-operator, Miss Susie Stearns of Lawrence avenue, Roxbury, received a postcard on Wednesday, postmarked at the Jamaica Plain office at 3:30 Tuesday evening, on which Miss Fallon wrote she was going away, but would first let her friend know where.

Miss Stearns, however, has heard nothing further, and neither the girls family nor the officials of the telephone company have the slightest clue as to what has become of her. Her parents and sisters are overcome with grief, and only pray that she may come home at once.

INVESTIGATES BANKING SYSTEM
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Confirmation of reports from Berlin that Julius Rosenberg of Chicago—who is at present investigating European banking systems for financing men of small means would soon establish in this country a chain of banks in an effort to aid small borrowers who are unable to obtain loans from ordinary financial institutions was given here last night by Dr. Edwin H. Gould.

Mr. Rosenberg is cooperating with Andrew Carnegie and Vincent Astor and others. Dr. Gould said. It is probable that

Dr. Gould will be head of the system of banks, the first of which is to be established in Chicago with a capital of several hundred thousand dollars.

Lowell People Are Not the Only Ones Who Are Using Coburn's Laundry Blue.
A Westford lady recently wrote an order directing us to send two packages of Coburn's Laundry Blue to a friend of hers in Sussex, King's county, N. B. She says the lady down East had tried it and was so well pleased with it, that it is the "only kind she will use." This store receives many orders for its Laundry Blue from remote places. Householders like it because it gives a beautiful finish to linens and faces, bleaches white goods, and preserves the textures. Just think, an ounce of this blue powder makes a quart of the most excellent liquid bluing.

There is No Room or Reason for Panic, Says John Wanamaker—
Scores Republican Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—"We have lots of room in this country for courage, energy and enterprise, but there is no room or reason for a panic. What the president wants and the country wants are strong men—unselfish and broad visioned able men—to help him and his cabinet to lead the way. The motto for the new year is: 'Don't be blue.'"

With these words, blunt at the end of a forceful and spirited address, the Hon. John Wanamaker, ex-postmaster general, yesterday at the Union League urged the members of that stalwart republican organization to give an opportunity to the democratic national administration to prove the worth of the new tariff and currency legislation.

Mr. Wanamaker sounded a note of optimism by declaring that he had no fear of any serious unsettlement of business or of any long disturbance of prosperity. He took to task the leadership of the republican party, which, by broken pledges, he said, had worn out the patience of good republicans.

Mr. Wanamaker expressed the opinion that the present tariff bill is far better legislation than either of the Cleveland bills, and he further expressed the belief that the manufacturers will be able to adjust themselves to the changed conditions in at least two-thirds of the items in the new schedules.

The address of Mr. Wanamaker was made at a private dinner given by the president, vice presidents and board of directors of the Union League. The dinner followed a reception held by members of the league. Mr. Wanamaker said: "I do not presume to speak to you as a manufacturer, but no other class of men is as closely allied to the user of raw materials who produces merchandise as the commercial men, of whom I am one."

"I have long been of the opinion that the rock bottom foundation of business prosperity is the manufacturer coupled with the distributor of the manufactured articles. Neither ships, railroads nor banking can play much, if any, paying game in any country during the still silences of mill wheels and forge hammers."

"Naturally, a change of a long established tariff has a disturbing influence."

WOMAN ST WINS CASE

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Samantha P. Curtis, 87 years old and for nearly 30 years a resident of the Quincy house, won her contention that she was mentally and physically able to look after her own affairs, when Judge George of the probate court yesterday dismissed a petition brought by relatives to have a conservator appointed for her.

SALEM LID STILL ON

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem did not resign yesterday, as in his opinion the WITCH CITY is in a state of drought. Some few weeks ago, when citizens were about circulating petitions demanding his resignation, Mayor Hurley issued a statement in which he said that he would resign on the first of the New Year if the "speak easies" were not closed.

"I shall not resign," said His Honor last night. "The lid is on and I am sitting on it."

PAWNSHOP HELPS CUPID

A young couple, exhibiting shyness, walked into the municipal pawnshop yesterday. They paused for an instant just inside the doorway. Ralph Perry, in charge, looked up from his work of making entries in a ledger. An assistant also looked up.

"I'll bet they think they can get a marriage license here," Perry remarked under his breath.

The couple approached the desk, and the man drew his watch from his pocket.

"I want to get $10 on my watch," said the man.

Perry examined the watch, and said he could give no more than $8 on it.

"That isn't enough. We want to get married, and then go down to her home," said the man, nodding to the young woman, indicating for whom the "she" was meant. "We want about $10."

At this juncture the young woman stepped forward.

"I can put my watch in too," she said, producing a small time piece.

The man cast a disapproving glance toward her.

"Will you give us $10 on both of them?" she asked of Perry.

Perry allowed them the $10, and the two started toward the court house.

INCREASED PRODUCTION IN 1913
IN MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, ALA.
BAMA AND TENNESSEE

The coal production of 1913 in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the southern Appalachian field showed a normal increase over 1912, according to advance estimates by Edward W. Parker, of the United States Geological Survey.

The production in Maryland was not materially different from that of the preceding year, approximating 5,000,000 short tons, and as the "big vein" of Maryland is approaching exhaustion in many of the larger operations, any state is not to be expected, although there still remain important resources of coal in the lower and thinner beds.

In Virginia and in West Virginia the output of coal in 1913 was from 5 to 10 per cent. in excess of that in 1912. Labor troubles in the Cabin Creek and Punt Creek districts of the Kanawha field were settled during the early part of the year and resulted in the securing of a foothold by the labor organizations in some of the coal-mining districts of the southern part of the state. During the spring in addition to the labor difficulties, shipments to the west were cut off to some extent by disastrous floods in the Ohio valley region. The supply of labor in West Virginia, as in Pennsylvania, was not equal to the demand, a condition which tended to restrict the production so that at times the railroads were in a position to handle considerably larger tonnages than the mines were able to furnish. During the first half of the year the demand for coke was insistent and spot prices were good, but the output was also somewhat restricted by the shortage in labor.

Increase in Southern Appalachian Field

In Alabama and Tennessee the production of some 35,000,000 tons, or 5 per cent. greater in 1913 than in 1912 and was somewhat evenly distributed throughout the entire year. Market conditions showed some improvement in 1913 over 1912. A number of companies in Alabama were forced into receiverships in 1912, but were able to have the receivership dissolved during 1913. Several new mines were opened in that state and increased output since a gradually increasing output had aided improvements and extended their workings to provide for an increased tonnage. An encouraging feature reported by some of the mining companies is a better labor supply than is reported from some of the other states, miners having been recruited from other lines of industrial pursuit. The output per man and the efficiency of the employees have shown an increasing tendency because of improved sanitary and living conditions, and because of increased wages put in force last February. The wages for mining and for mine labor which have prevailed during 1913 are said to be higher than ever before in the history of coal mining in Alabama. The slight increase in the output of coal in both Alabama and Tennessee appears to be attributable to the more satisfactory labor conditions and to a better supply of railroad cars that existed in 1912.

An increased demand for bunker coal in the Gulf trade also took a part of the increased production. The demand for domestic and steam coals was, if anything, slightly less than in 1912. The production of coal in eastern Kentucky showed a material increase over that of 1912.

Signs of Economy

"Pipes and pennies among the working people indicate the coming of hard times as surely as the flight of the wild birds to the southland points the coming of winter," said Joseph Bailey, of Muncie, Ind., at the Shoreham.

"I have noticed for a generation that whenever the wage-earner walks up to a bar and hands out five pennies for a glass of beer, then fills his pipe from a handful of tobacco he carries in his pocket, instead of using larger coin and smoking a cigar, business conditions are uncertain."

"Years ago a philosophical saloon-keeper pointed out to me that pennies and pipes instead of nickels and cigars in barrooms foreshadowed the coming of harder times. I have watched for a number of years to see whether that philosophical saloonkeeper was right in his theory, and I have found it so wherever I have been. The reason strikes him he not only pines for pennies to his kid, passing over the pennies to his kid, but sometimes even robs the children's banks."—Washington Post.

CHILDREN'S HOME EVENT

TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY WAS OBSERVED—ENTERTAINED BY THE CHILDREN

The Children's Home in Kirk street held its 12th anniversary yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 and during the afternoon a great many friends of the institution called to express their good wishes and congratulate the matron, Mrs. Ellen O'Leary on the splendid work she is doing.

The visitors first inspected the house and then attended an entertainment given by the children. The little ones had been well trained and they filled their parts with assurance. Following is the program:

Song, "Down From Heaven," chorus; recitation, "Twenty-third Psalm"; recitation, "Bethlehem," Mabelle L. Leonard; song, "Shine Out, O Blessed Star," chorus; recitation, "Pure White Room," Catherine Anderson; song, "Jesus Was Born as a Little Child," choir; recitation, "Santa Claus," Alice Morse and Loretta Anderson; chorus, "The Shepherd's Song," piano solo, Mabelle Leonard; chorus, "America."

In the twelve years of its existence the children's home has done a great deal of charitable work and from the business point of view it has been eminently successful. The home was at first rented but was afterwards purchased. The work has outgrown the quarter so that at present Mrs. O'Leary is looking round for a more suitable location. One that she has in mind in the same locality could be purchased for $23,000 and this sum she hopes to raise.

One gratifying feature of the anniversary yesterday was that generous friends of the institution remembered it by substantial donations.

A FARM HOUSE SCHOOL.

Complete freedom from restraint is the lot of the children who attend the experimental rural school at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., as described by Mrs. Betty Browne in a bulletin of the United States bureau of education. There are no seats or desks in this school; no class rooms; no rules of silence; but a free activity guided and directed by a woman who is in complete sympathy with country children and country life.

In this and other respects observers have noted a resemblance to the Montessori schools, but Mrs. Browne began her work several years ago quite independently of the theories of Madame Montessori. Furthermore, the Rock Hill school makes no claim to a liberate scientific basis. It is essentially an "experimental" school, where it is hoped to learn by actual experience what kind of a school is best adapted to rural life.

The school building is a farm house, with rooms fitted up as "sitting room," kitchen and workshop. A large veranda surrounding the house is used for the midday meal, which is served by the pupils at the school, and for other purposes. There is plenty of ground about the school, including space for a large garden.

The garden is the centre about which instruction revolves. From the study of soil and seed in the winter time to the actual planting, cultivating and harvesting at the other seasons, the garden remains the centre of the children's interest and activity.

Arithmetic, spelling, etc., are not taught as subjects, but only as the need for them arises in connection with the activities of home and garden. Laying out the garden involves arithmetic, and even geometry, both of which are absorbed by the children without effort. The making of towels for use at the school naturally develops new words having to do with sewing and many other things. And so on. Words and numbers are given the children only as the need for them develops, and then with as little formality as possible. The whole idea is for the children to find out things, if possible, without being told.

The children in this rural school are not assigned to "classes" and "periods," as in the traditional school. A visitor will see one group working in the garden, another group on the veranda sewing, another in the kitchen at a cooking task, and still another doing "numbers" or reading with the teacher in her room.

The aim of the Rock Hill school is thus summarized by Dr. A. P. Bourland in an introduction to the bureau's bulletin: "The resolve was to make a school that will train the farm children for their future work in the home, on the farm, and the school, and around them. Hence we began frankly with the activities of the farm. The aim was not a cut-and-dried plan, but rather a working idea, to enable the teacher to create a growing agency for the development of farm life."

LEWISTON AND AUBURN

Attempt is Being Made to Transfer Brockton Franchise to Maine Cities—Carrigan Behind Move

A group of business men in Lewiston and Auburn, the two live Maine cities which are just across the river from each other, are leaving no stone unturned in an endeavor to break into the playing circuit of the "little old New England league." The proposition is backed by Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox, whose home is in Lewiston, and the proposition is lent a great deal of weight on this account. For several years past there has been a remote rumor sent around each spring, that Lewiston would be the playing home of one of the poorer paying clubs but nothing has come of it. There is a strong possibility next season, however, that the Brockton franchise may be transferred to the Maine city.

In a way it would prove a good thing for the league to have a club established within a short distance of Portland. Last year the teams stayed in Portland for three days as a rule when they made the trip in order to save traveling expenses. With Lewiston a member of the circuit the jump could be made from Portland to Lewiston, or vice versa, without a great deal of expense to the clubs.

The Lewiston Journal has the following story concerning the situation there that will be read with much interest in local baseball circles: "M. J. McDonough and Bill Carrigan of Lewiston called at the Lewiston Journal office Tuesday about New England baseball."

Neither of them wants to make a dollar on the proposition but they want to put Lewiston and Auburn on the map.

The manager of the Red Sox said little, but the little he did say meant much. "Baseball is wholesome," said he. "It is good for all. Lewiston ought to have a New England team. I will do all I can to help it along."

Mr. McDonough is a known enthusiast for Lewiston and baseball.

"I want to see Lewiston and Auburn in this thing," says he. "This Brockton franchise can be brought to Lewiston. There's no question about it. We must have the grounds first. My idea is that we should secure a lease of the grounds on Skinner street, opposite the old Nichols Latin school. You land at the gate from the trolley and the street that runs east and west will be fine for automobile travel. The grounds could be easily leveled and sodded."

"Now what shall we do," continued Mr. McDonough, "to push the thing through. I think it should begin with the chamber of commerce. If these cities want to advertise they can't do it better, cheaper, more efficiently than by the constant repetition of the name of their ball club in all the newspapers of the east. Portland saw it and her business men crowded the first public meeting to talk New England baseball until you couldn't get into the rooms. They looked on it as a good business proposition. Is Lewiston and Auburn less enterprising?"

"Now the next thing is to enlist the city government," continued Mr. McDonough. "There is hardly a city in

New England of any size that does not provide an athletic field for the schools. Make this such a field. Let the city appropriate enough to build the larger part off. Let the chamber of commerce stand behind such action. You've got to make a city attractive to live in. You have to do it to keep help satisfied and make business come."

"Yes," interjected Mr. Carrigan, "you ought to do it, too, for the boys and girls. The influence of good sports on boys and girls is the most wholesome thing of the times. 'Tis a heap better than lots of other things they are learning nowadays."

"That's right," added Mr. McDonough. "We've got a good story to put to the city government and what's more everybody I see is ready to stand for it. If the city would appropriate a sum of money to build an athletic field the Lewiston and Auburn team of the New England league would guarantee the interest on the expenditure and more, too."

This is the first authoritative declaration regarding the possibility of a New England team in Lewiston and Auburn. Joe Burns, who holds the franchise, is ready to come here any day to meet the people. Tim Murnane, Bill Carrigan, Hugh Duffy and a big lot more of the leading New England baseball men will be here to help put it through.

Are we to pass this by?

"NO SWEEPING REDUCTION"

New Haven Road Replies to Report That It Contemplated Big Decrease in Working Force

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 2.—While "the number of engineers, firemen and trainmen fluctuates particularly with the amount of freight business handled," an official statement from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad here yesterday says "no sweeping reductions in working forces are contemplated."

"Great earnings for the first half of the fiscal year show a reduction. This means that less men are needed and there have been reductions of forces and hours to meet existing conditions."

The statement is a reply to reports that large reductions of the working forces of the road were contemplated.

Maine Law Court Decides About Insurance Policy Claimed by Son of Original Beneficiary

AUBURN, Me., Jan. 2.—A rescript was received from the law court yesterday in the Andrews county case of the A. O. U. W. against Harold M. Edwards and Maude M. Edwards. The two defendants was entitled to $126.18, due from the order on account of the death of the late Dr. Merton O. Edwards of Lewiston.

When the policy was taken out by Dr. Edwards it was made payable to his wife, Clara E. Edwards. She died in 1902, but Dr. Edwards never had his beneficiary under the policy changed.

In 1907, Dr. Edwards married again,

Maude M. Edwards, one of the defendants, being his second wife. The other defendant, Harold M. Edwards, was his son by the first wife.

Dr. Edwards died in 1911 and his wife and son both claimed the insurance.

The rescript gives the money to the widow. It is held that a by-law of the order, providing that if the beneficiary under a policy dies before the insured and the latter has made no other legal designation the policy shall be paid to his widow if living at the time of his death, governs in this case and compels the payment of the policy to the widow.

RECEPTION TO FRIENDS COLORADO METAL

Big Event in Nature of a General Jubilation Meeting and Entertainment at Y.M.C.A. Rooms

The Y. M. C. A. entertained its friends to the number of some twelve hundred last night at the spacious quarters of the association between the hours of eight and ten o'clock with the idea of demonstrating how much the association appreciated the help which was extended it in its recent struggle for financial assistance. The affair was more or less of a jubilee over the results of the campaign for funds.

The hosts of the evening were the men who were the most prominent in raising the fund and were headed by J. A. Bowen, president of the association. A large delegation from the Woman's Auxiliary was present and aided in serving refreshments and entertainment.

The evening's program was composed of contests in billiards, swimming, basketball and bowling. E. C. Earle and H. J. Corbin gave an exhibition billiard contest which was watched with interest. The basketball game between the Sherwood club and the second team of the Y. M. C. A. proved very exciting, the final score being 25 to 26 in favor of the team from the association.

The exhibition swimming events also were a big treat for the crowd. Wrenn, Barton, Johnson and Kenock gave demonstrations of how one should perform in all the various swimming strokes and fancy dives. Fawcett and Tibbels were also heard from in their particular events. Fawcett coming within a few inches of the record in his plunge for distance and Tibbels

Output of Over $36,-
of Zinc Decreased

The output of Colorado mines for eleven months of 1913 with an estimate for December, according to preliminary figures by Charles W. Henderson, of the United States Geological Survey, shows a production of $18,355,000 in gold, 9,150,000 ounces of silver, 53,500,000 pounds of lead, 7,634,000 pounds of copper and 123,630,000 pounds of zinc (in terms of spelter and zinc in zinc oxide) a total value of $36,000,000, compared with $27,320,000 in 1912. This shows a decrease of $29,000 in gold, an increase of 900,000 ounces of silver, an increase of 16,500,000 pounds of lead, an increase of 500,000 pounds of copper, and a decrease of 2,540,000 pounds of zinc. The heaviest decrease in value was $1,722,000 for zinc, and there were increases of $440,000 for silver and $377,000 for lead.

The tonnage treated by the Globe, Leadville, Pueblo, and Salida smelters showed an appreciable increase for the year. An increased tonnage was also shipped to the Murray, Gardiner, and Midvale plants in Utah. Cyanide precipitates were shipped to Ontario. The United States Zinc Co.'s magnetic plant and smelter at Pueblo was operated steadily.

The output of Cripple Creek showed an increase of $176,000 in gold. The Roosevelt tunnel continued to lower the water level gradually. In the Vindicator and Golden Cycle mines electric pumps were installed. Lower levels were opened during the year.

The Golden Cycle and Portland cyanidation mills at Colorado Springs were operated steadily, with an increased output. Cyanide mills in the district also made an increased yield. The standard chlorination and cyanidation plant at Colorado City was idle, but the Union cyanidation plant at Florence was operated part of the year on old tailings. The tonnage of smelting ore from Cripple Creek decreased slightly.

Value of Leadville Output Declines

Leadville (chiefly Leadville, but for 1913 including the Lackawanna (Bulch district) produced $3,414,118 in gold, 3,200,000 ounces of silver, 2,000,000 pounds of copper, 28,000,000 pounds of lead, and 95,000,000 pounds of zinc, with a total value of $10,000,000, against $11,750,000 in 1912. The output of zinc carbonate was 137,000 tons of approximately 27 per cent zinc, against 112,752 tons of 29.2 per cent zinc in 1912. The production of zinc sulphide shipped varied little from the 191,118 tons of 24 per cent zinc in 1912. The zinc carbonate was smelted at smelters in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin and the zinc sulphide was treated at the Empire Zinc Co.'s magnetic separation plant at Canon City, at the Western Chemical Co.'s wet concentration and magnetic separation plant at Denver, at the Empire Zinc Co.'s magnetic plant and smelter at Pueblo, and at the zinc oxide plant at Coffeyville, Kans.

The San Juan region of Dolores, La Plata, Ouray, San Juan, and San Miguel counties produced $1,116,000 in gold, 2,347,000 ounces of silver, 2,111,000 pounds of copper, 2,332,000 pounds of lead, and approximately 5,000,000 pounds of zinc, compared with $1,115,415 in gold, 2,362,000 ounces of silver, 2,032,156 pounds of lead, 3,006,173 pounds of copper, and 6,375,073 pounds of zinc in 1912. There was an increase for gold of $7,000 in Dolores, $123,000 in La Plata, $115,000 in San Juan, and a decrease of $51,000 in Ouray and of $221,000 in San Miguel county. There was an increase of silver of 103,000 ounces in Dolores, 260,000 in San Juan, and 71,000 in La Plata, while there was a decrease of 93,000 ounces in San Miguel county. Dolores county (Rico) made a large increase in the yield of copper, lead and zinc, but the production of lead fell off heavily in San Miguel and Ouray counties. The yield of gold bullion in Boulder county decreased one-half and there was also a decrease of 2,000 ounces of gold in our smelting, but the silver output increased 100,000 ounces and the lead 470,000 pounds.

Heavy Increase in Chaffee County

Chaffee county produced $290,000 in gold, 154,000 ounces of silver, 2,782,000 pounds of lead, and 300,000 pounds of copper, and a considerable quantity of zinc, a heavy increase for all the metals. Clear Creek county's output was $495,000 in gold, 424,700 ounces of silver, 1,250,000 pounds of lead, 521,000 pounds of copper and approximately 1,500,000 pounds of zinc, an increase for all the metals except zinc. Gilpin county's output decreased about $200,000 in gold and 600,000 ounces of silver, allowing for bullion produced in Clear Creek county mined through the Newhouse tunnel.

Lead Output of Aspen District Doubles

The Pitkin county (Aspen) yield was 591,000 ounces of silver, 17,750,000 pounds of lead, an increase of 22,000 ounces and of $370,000 pounds, respectively.

Creede (Mineral County) produced $2,000 in gold, 790,000 ounces of silver, 3,560,000 pounds of lead, 35,000 pounds of copper, and 510,000 pounds of zinc, which is an appreciable increase for gold and lead, but an increase for silver, copper, and zinc. The output from Hinsdale county showed a decrease of 400,000 pounds of lead. Owing to the closing of the Gold Lanes mine at Ohio, Gunnison county's output of bullion, ore, and concentrates showed a very heavy decrease for gold, lead and zinc production also decreased, but there was an appreciable increase in silver output, owing to the opening of mines at Whitepine and on Italian Mountain. The output of gold bullion from dredges and rock mines at Breckenridge, Summit County, increased $50,000, and gold in smelting ore from Kokomo, Breckenridge, and Montezuma showed an increase for the county of $14,000, while silver, lead, and copper yields also increased, but the yield of zinc decreased, owing to the closing of the wet mill of the Wellington Co. during the latter part of the year, although the magnetic plant continued to be operated. The output of Eagle County, from Red Cliff and from Eagle (a new producing silver district in 1913), was $42,000 in gold, 300,000 ounces of silver, 1,000,000 pounds of lead, and 550,000 pounds of zinc. Park County's output of silver, lead, and copper increased, more than balancing an appreciable decrease in gold.

STRONG BACKBONE

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Charles Dawson, who found the famous Piltdown skull, has made another discovery of considerable interest to anthropologists. He has discovered that the members of a certain Eskimo tribe have literally more backbone than the rest of humanity; that is to say they have an extra vertebrae to which small ribs are attached.

SILENT POLICY

N. Y. Mayor Wants Reformers to do Something First

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A policy of silence among department heads regarding the administration of the city government during their first few months in office was suggested to his appointees by John Purroy Mitchel, upon his inauguration as mayor yesterday as successor of Adolph L. F. Hall, who became mayor upon the death of William J. Gaynor.

"We will develop our program slowly," Mr. Mitchel announced in the presence of some of his cabinet, the retiring mayor and others who gathered at the city hall to see the new executive take office.

"I caution the new heads of the departments to self-restraint and simplicity, and I advise them to follow the policy which I have outlined for myself, namely, silence for a few months until we have developed our plans further and can come to the people and point to some accomplishment. I would rather have the government of this city for the next few months inconspicuous than have it heralded from day to day in the papers through rumors made as to what will be done."

Mayor Mitchel urged "team work" among the department heads, and promised the fulfillment of the campaign pledges given by the fusion party which elected him to office.

C.M.A.C. CLUB ACTIVITIES

NEW OFFICERS WILL BE INSTALLED NEXT WEEK—BOWLING LEAGUE

The newly elected officers of the C. M. A. C. will be formally installed at a meeting of the club which will take place next week. Plans are already under way, and it is the general belief that the new officers will be ushered into office with imposing ceremonies. A varied program, including both vocal and instrumental selections will be given by some of the best talent of the club.

Each one of the new officers as usual will be required to deliver a brief address, and at the close of the exercises, a general good time will follow. It is quite certain that nearly all the members will be present and the affair promises to be a success.

The C. M. A. C. bowling league, recently organized among the members of the club, announces the opening of an extensive schedule for next week. The plans for the opening are almost complete, and the teams have been chosen by the respective captains. Each team will be designated by a certain color chosen by the captain, and interesting matches are looked for as there are many exceptionally good bowlers among the members.

All the teams are well matched, and the different contests promise to be very interesting. The affair will last five weeks and the winner will be awarded a handsome silver cup.

Next week promises, therefore, to be an interesting one for the members of the C. M. A. C.

BALLOT FRAUDS

District Attorney Will Investigate Nomination Papers in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—An investigation will be ordered by the Boston Bar association into the conduct of William C. Pree, counsel for the Municipal league, who refused to testify before the ballot law commission yesterday in connection with the fraud charges which were brought against the nomination papers of Thomas J. Kenny on the ground he would incriminate himself.

This, together with discovery that some of the political leaders feel that regardless of whether Kenny or Curley is elected mayor, the legality of the election will be tested in the courts, are the latest developments in the majority tangle.

Chairman Milton of the election board said last night that all talk of a contest of the choice in the courts after the election would be futile. Judicial discussions, he said, had well established the fact that after the board had prepared the ballot no technical charges invalidating the election could be successfully raised.

Other important developments in the majority tangle yesterday were the withdrawal of the charges against the Kenny and Curley papers, the decision of both rival camps; the decision of the ballot law commission to refer the charges to the district attorney, and the announcement of the latter that he will immediately institute a grand jury probe into the whole matter.

Say Worker Trailor

To add to the sensations of the day, the Kenny forces declared that they were practically certain that one of the lieutenants in their camp was a party to a conspiracy to have Mayorally Candidate Kenny thrown off the ballot. This was not taken with great seriousness, however.

Yesterday morning the ballot law commission began the hearing it had scheduled for the presentation of the fraud charges against the majority nomination papers of Kenny and Curley.

Rabbi Charles Fleischer, Dr. Charles P. Putnam, a well known Back Bay physician, and other prominent Bostonians testified that although some of the Kenny nomination papers made it appear that they had sworn to the same, as a matter of fact they had not done this.

The name of Atty. William C. Pree appeared on these papers as a justice of the peace, who was supposed to have taken the oaths of the men in question. When Pree was asked to explain he declined to do so on the ground that he might incriminate himself. His testimony, which created a sensation, has been brought to the attention of the Bar association officials, and will be investigated by that body.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—New York bowlers are going to invade Berlin. Two hundred of them under the auspices of United Bowling clubs of New York have decided to take part in the coming tournament at Berlin.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of new downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

MONTANA METAL

The total value of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc produced by deep and placer mines in Montana in 1913 was somewhat over $53,000,000, a decrease from $54,754,515 in 1912, over 8 per cent, according to preliminary estimates of V. C. Helges, of the United States geological survey. Metal prices were slightly less than those of 1912, but there was also a large decrease in copper yield and quantity in gold. These were in part offset by a record increase in zinc production and silver output from zinc ore.

The gold yield decreased nearly 12 per cent, the mine figures being $2,625,225 in 1912 and $2,314,000 in 1913. There was no great change in the placer output, but decrease is noted in gold from copper ores and from siliceous ores. The North Meade mine in Fergus county was successfully operated by the Barnes King Development Co. and an average of 4000 tons of $10 ore was treated per month. The Ruby Gulch mine in Blaine county was productive until August 7, when the cyanide plant burned. In Deer lodge county the Southern Cross mine, owned by the Anaconda Copper Co., was producing the latter part of the year.

An increase of nearly 4 per cent was made in the silver output of the state, the mine figures being 12,731,638 ounces in 1912 and 13,303,000 ounces in 1913. A decrease of about 10 per cent in silver output from Butte copper ore was largely balanced by an unusual increase in silver from lead concentrate and zinc residues from the Butte & Superior mines. The average price of copper decreased from 15.5 cents in 1912 to about 15.37 cents in 1913, and it is presumed that no efforts toward a record output were made by the larger smelting establishments. According to monthly printed statements, the Anaconda Co. had made in 1913 an average of 23,000,000 pounds per month and the East Butte Copper Co. about 1,225,000 pounds per month. The February production of Butte was low on account of cold weather and fires in the West Colusa mine, which interrupted work in the Montana mine. The October yield was notably low since the fires were drawn at the Anaconda smelter to clean the flues. The East Butte Co. is fast getting out of debt by making $100,000 per month, and plans to enlarge the plant, according to the mining press.

The year in Montana was the leaching of low grade copper ores at Butte. At the Bullwhacker operators were experimenting and building a leaching plant. At the Butte and Duluth property the ore was quarried, crushed, treated by sulphuric acid, and the metallic copper precipitated. Leaching is also being tried at the Royal Basin mine at Maxville in Granite county. In Jefferson county the Bonito and Corbin Co. had a new 250-ton concentration plant in operation. The value of the copper yielded in 1913 was over 72 per cent of the total value of all metals produced in Montana.

The lead output increased from 7,446,749 pounds in 1912, according to mine figures, to 8,547,000 pounds in 1913, or nearly 15 per cent. This increase was largely due to shipments of lead concentrates and residues from zinc concentrates from the Butte & Superior mine at Butte. There was much activity south of Libby in Lincoln county, but principally in development work. At the King & Queen property in Sanders county, galena was shipped and a 75-ton concentration plant was being constructed.

A record production of recoverable spelter was made from zinc concentrates shipped from Montana mines in 1913. From 26,918,381 pounds of spelter in 1912, the output increased to 33,449,297 pounds in 1913, or 21 per cent. This was largely due to results at the Butte & Superior mine. The first half of the year the plant was treating 500 tons per day, but the tonnage treated was increased to 1000 tons per day the latter part of the year. In August the mill treated 30,416 tons of ore, which made 11,300 tons of concentrates having an average zinc content of 43.41 per cent, representing a recovery of 50.9 per cent, by concentration and oil flotation. Other zinc shipments were made from the Iron mountain mine in Missoula county and also from Jefferson county. At the Elm Orlu mine no zinc ore was treated or shipped, copper ore only being sold. There is, however, a large tonnage of zinc ore developed awaiting treatment by the new mill being erected south of Butte. Concentration and flotation will probably be used. At the present rate of increase Montana was the electrification of the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific during the year; and the use of electricity instead of steam in the mines was found to greatly reduce costs. A survey for railroad was made between Great Falls and Missoula by the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Co.; and the Butte, Wisdom & Pacific railway will build 100 miles of road to connect French Gulch and Elkhorn.

CENTRALVILLE CLUB

OFFICERS NOMINATED TO BE ELECTED AT THE NEXT MEETING

At a meeting of the Centralville Social club, held recently at the headquarters, Lakewood avenue, considerable business was transacted. President Joseph Ellis occupied the chair. The annual nomination of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following result: President, Edouard Pelouquin; vice president, Eugene Bolduc; recording secretary, Omer Ducharme; financial secretary, Ferdinand Lussier; treasurer, Adolphe Pouchard; parliamentarian, Severin St. George; directors, Godfroi Caron, Arsene Trudel, Arthur Couture, and Albert Branchaud. The election and installation of officers will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 7, and a general good time is assured for the occasion.

"HERE'S WHERE I THROW UP MY HANDS"

I have given up all hope of any profit whatsoever this season. My six great stores have just passed through the most backward season I have ever encountered. Frankly, the weather man has me on the run. The last four months of 1913 witnessed the most unreasonable temperature ever recorded by the weather bureau. I enter upon the new year frightfully overstocked. It is absolutely imperative that I force immediate selling.

$23 SAVED AS BOAT SINKS

Crew of Fishing Schooner in Night of Terror as Gale Pounds Vessel on False Spit

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Boston fishing schooner John J. Fallon sank late yesterday afternoon in four fathoms of water, just inside Kelley's ledge on False Spit. Her crew of 23 men were rescued by the wrecking lighter Salvor and brought in to T wharf.

In the heavy seas rolling in before the driving northeast gale which raged outside, the wreck of the Fallon was pointed all night long.

The Fallon was running into port at 1 a. m. yesterday morning at the end of Captain Thomas Furlong's first trip in her, with 15,000 pounds of groundfish and 2000 pounds of halibut. She was standing 100 feet to the northward after passing Bug Light, and grounded on False Spit near the spit. The tide was about an hour ebb, and when dawn broke she was discovered on the rocks by the Stey beach life savers who put out to her.

Two of her crew were brought into Boston for provisions, for the harder weather was down to barefaced workings of flour, black coffee and the last in her hold. A tug and a wrecking lighter were contacted for, and in the afternoon an effort was made to drag the stranded schooner off the bar. The strain of the terrible pulling and hauling she got sprang her hull from her keel and the vessel tilted and sank like a plummet. Her crew had barely time to grab a few of their belongings and scramble aboard the lighter before their vessel settled under to her decks. The Fallon had had luck on this her first trip out with Skipper Furlong, having snatched her main boom off 20 feet in a squall on the fishing grounds. She was making port under a jury sail rigged on her broken boom when she struck the rocks.

The John J. Fallon is the third fishing schooner in from the grounds to strike in the outer harbor in three consecutive days. The Tawana grounded on Flax Head Monday before dawn, the Juno struck at the same point Tuesday morning.

A complaint is being discussed for presentation before the Highhouse authorities early in the month in regard to a rearrangement of the gas lines in the outer bay.

PAY TEACHERS TO STUDY ABROAD

"Cities should grant leave with full pay to modern language teachers who will go the expense of study abroad," declares William H. Snow, of the Boston English high school, in a bulletin just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. On the whole Dr. Snow thinks modern language instruction in our best schools is as good as that abroad, in proportion to the time allowed. "We need more good teachers and an opportunity for selected pupils to begin the study of a foreign language under competent instruction in the grades. The colleges should give special attention to preparing teachers of modern languages."

In speaking of the various methods of language instruction, such with its ancient advocates, Mr. Snow says the reason the discussion waxes so warm is that all the methods have some good features; that nearly everything depends upon the teacher. "The worst of dozen methods employed by a strong teacher with underlying purpose we like mind, will give a more valuable training and better results than any method when employed by an inferior teacher."

"It is probable, too, that one method is better than another for doing some things, by less effective in securing a different end, so that the aim which seems most important will determine the method to be used in a particular case. Instead of trying to lay out in detail the 'best method,' we should consider various methods that have been found good, endeavor to see wherein their merit lies, and decide what method seems especially well suited to various conditions and to different types of classes and teachers."

On the question of whether conversation or translation should be emphasized in teaching modern languages, Mr. Snow insists that both demand teaching of the very highest type to be effective; that both are valuable. "Translation has its warm friends and its bitter enemies. Reformers have worked as hard to drive it out of the class as they have to drag conversation in. The difficulty is that the meat in the sandwich has a tendency to drop out and leave only the bare bread; translation comes to be a mechanical substitution of the words of one language for the words of another, with little or no thought in the process, while translation ought to mean the study of a passage until its thought is clearly apprehended, and then an effort to put that exact thought into the other language with all the force and beauty that our command of the second language makes possible."

Sparrow Alighted on Gun Deflecting Course of Bullet

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A sparrow alighted upon the gun of William G. Berry, 15, of 136 Jerome street, West Medford, as he was about to shoot at a target on the wall of a barn in the rear of his home yesterday, caused the weapon to discharge and the bullet struck his companion, Julian L. Fulton, 16, of 119 Sharon street, West Medford, in the back.

The Fulton youth was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in the Medford police ambulance, where it was said last night that unless blood poison develops he will recover. The bullet was of 22 calibre.

The two youths were trying out a new Christmas rifle for the first time and had placed a target upon the barn wall.

The Fulton boy was standing just in front of Berry as he was about to shoot, but out of the line of fire.

The second that the gun exploded a small sparrow alighted upon the barrel deflecting the course of the bullet, which lodged in the back of the Fulton boy.

BIG TONNAGE OF LIGNITE
WILLISTON FIELD OF NORTH DAKOTA ESTIMATED TO CONTAIN 13 BILLION TONS

The great deposits of lignite underlying what is known as the Williston lignite field in North Dakota form the subject of a report by Frank A. Herold, recently issued by the United States Geological Survey as Chapter E of Bulletin 531. Several mines are in operation in this field, and one of the plants using the lignite is unique—that of the United States Reclamation Service—in that it burns the lignite at the mines for the generation of electricity that is conveyed over cable lines to Buford, where electrical operated pumps are located. These pumps lift water from Missouri river to the canals of an extensive irrigation system, which waters a large section of the Missouri river valley. The plant, including the mine, is in operation during the irrigation season only, but it furnishes the basis of an important industry. Lignite seems well adapted to this work and can be cheaply mined. It is hauled in pit runs from the mine to a small crusher above bunkers which empty into the engine room. Some of the furnaces are fed by hand, but others are stoked automatically; the fuel is handled well either way.

Makes Good Domestic Fuel

The Williston lignite is used chiefly, however, as household fuel but also to some extent under stationary boilers. As a domestic fuel it is satisfactory when properly used, but the novice generally meets perplexing difficulties and is likely to underestimate its value. The most satisfactory results are obtained in ordinary cooking or heating stoves when the firebox is well filled with lignite that has been broken into small chunks and dried.

Lignite has been thoroughly tested under satisfactory when properly handled. Systematic tests were made at the Reclamation Service power plant in October, 1908, to determine the efficiency of the fuel and to learn the best methods of firing. These tests showed that the lignite is satisfactory for making steam when boilers and fireboxes are properly constructed and the fires are correctly fed and controlled. The results of these tests are set forth in Bulletin 2 of the Bureau of Mines.

Lignite as a Gas Producer

version of lignite into producer gas. Though producer-gas plants are numerous in Europe and are becoming common in this country, they are not yet wholly beyond the experimental stage. They have, however, been perfected sufficiently to prove their superiority in many points to ordinary steam boilers.

Some briquetting tests have been made with North Dakota lignite and have proved that the fuel can be treated successfully in that way. Tests at the Pittsburgh laboratory of the Bureau of Mines indicate that lignite from the Williston field can be economically briquetted, and lignite from this field has been briquetted successfully at the North Dakota Mining and Experimental station at Hebron. The Pittsburgh tests were made with high pressure and without binder, whereas the others were made with lower pressure and binder. As both methods gave favorable results, the experimenters believe that the lignite can be successfully briquetted on a commercial basis either with or without binders. When briquetted the lignite can compete with higher-grade coal, as the briquets withstand weathering and do not crumble badly when handled.

The future installation of briquet and gas-producer plants in this field seems probable. The rapid change in methods and machinery for such plants and the large initial cost are doubtless everywhere delaying the immediate introduction of producer-gas machinery.

but the installation of such plants must of course go along with the introduction of manufacturing industries to utilize the power developed.

A moderate estimate places the tonnage of the Williston field at about 13 billion tons of lignite, the basis of the estimate including only such seams or beds as are greater than 25 inches in thickness and which are found at a depth of less than 500 feet.

Harold MacGrath's

STARTS IN NEXT SUNDAY'S GLOBE

JANUARY 4, 1914

Harold MacGrath, the famous author of "The Man on the Box," has written a new story. It is a story so intensely human in its situations, so unusual in its setting, and is told so fascinatingly by this master writer of fiction that it holds you spellbound from the opening sentence to the happy finale on the last page. Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it the greatest novel that MacGrath has ever written.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn"

When the manuscript of this great story was finished the dramatic rights were purchased at once by the Selig Polyscope Co., a famous playwright prepared it for the motion picture stage, and the play is now being witnessed by millions of people at leading motion picture theatres all over the country, with the beautiful Kathlyn Williams—the greatest of all motion picture actresses—playing the part of the heroine. The play is so long that it takes 26 full-length reels to present it, and it is therefore being shown in instalments, two reels at a time, at intervals two weeks apart. It is the longest and most pretentious drama ever put on the motion picture stage.

So now you can get double the enjoyment from this fascinating story that you've ever gotten from a novel before. For you cannot only follow the heroine in the story through all her wonderful adventures—from her beautiful home in California to the dense jungles of Alabama and among the savage tribes of Hindustan—but you can also actually see her in your favorite motion picture theatre—see Kathlyn herself with your own eyes in every hairbreadth adventure and thrilling escape from jungle beasts and Hindu wizard. Installments of story will appear in the Globe every Sunday, keeping pace with the dramatized version as it appears at the motion picture theatres.

WE SHOULD WORRY
The supreme judicial court at Boston will have a rather unusual condition to deal with tomorrow and Lowell will be at the bottom of it. In the first place the city will have to answer to mandamus proceedings brought by the attorney general at the instigation of the state board of health to compel the city of Lowell to comply with the law.

ON THE HOSPITAL ISSUE

Movement to Force a Special Election to Allow the Voters of Lowell to Settle the Question

As citizens are aware, ever since the present city government voted to acquire the Dr. Pillsbury property for contagious hospital purposes, the Andover street residents have been seeking to prevent this property coming into the hands of the city for that purpose. For some days they have been circulating what they call the people are petitions for a referendum, and many people have signed these petitions in the belief that the voters would have an opportunity to vote upon this question. It now appears that some of these Andover street people are quietly stating that they do not expect the people will finally have an opportunity to vote on this subject, but that the referendum petitions will accomplish their object by suspending under the charter for another ten days the vote of the present city government to acquire the Pillsbury place.

But before these added ten days will have expired the new city government will have become inaugurated, and evidently the Andover street residents have faith to believe that the next city government will not permit the contagious hospital to be located in Belvidere, and the new government can accomplish that purpose by reconsidering and repealing the vote of the present government.

In order absolutely to secure a vote of the people on the location of the contagious hospital, petitions for the initiative under clause 60 of the charter are now being circulated for signatures, and upon the filing of the proper number of names (some 2500 or 2700) the new government will be required to submit to the voters the question whether the hospital shall be located on the Pillsbury property.

Therefore, every voter who wishes to vote upon the question of locating this contagious hospital should certainly sign the petition for the initiative, and many voters in their anxiety to secure an opportunity to vote on this subject are signing the referendum petitions also.

The new city government can if it sees fit take such action as will prevent a vote by the people if only referendum petitions are filed, but with the necessary number of names promptly filed upon petitions for the initiative, it is difficult to see how the matter can be prevented from coming before the voters.

In view of the trouble and delay the city government has had in locating this contagious hospital, the people in each section of the city objecting to every site mentioned in their locality. It begins to look as though the hospital would never be located until the people themselves had fixed the location by their votes. Meanwhile, the attorney-general, under the statute, is proceeding against the city to collect a $500 fine for delay and repeated fines can be imposed upon each added complaint. The Andover street people do not object to the location of this hospital in Centralville or the Highland or Pawtucketville or at the end of the Lawrence street car line or at the end of any line of street cars which does not pass through Andover street.

But their complaint is that a choice residential section like Andover street should not be chosen for contagious hospital purposes. If the people do not ratify the selection of the Pillsbury property, then the whole problem will be reopened and the final resting place for the hospital will become wholly uncertain. The Andover street people have alleged that the city would in the end save money by taking some of the poor farm land on Chelmsford street, but it is well known that this site was examined recently by the state board of health and was not one of the locations which in the report to the city government was called suitable. Perhaps this site was rejected because it stood only 20 feet above a large adjoining swamp which really constitutes the head of Hate's brook and would be a most unhealthful location for victims of tuberculosis.

Furthermore, people suffering from tuberculosis and from other contagious diseases such as measles, chicken pox, scarlet fever, etc., will not wish to be regarded as paupers, as would be the case if they were inmates of a contagious hospital located on the poor farm land. Many people have felt that for this reason the recent enthusiastic endorsement of the poor farm site for a contagious hospital by Andover street residents, possesses an element of brutal harshness and lack of consideration for the feelings of the people who will be sent to the institution.

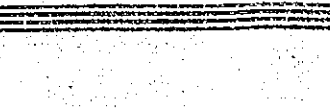

COUNTRY'S WATER RIGHTS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—A fight which is expected to open up the whole question of water power policy, including the federal regulation of prices to consumers and government exaction of tolls, will be begun in the house shortly after the holiday recess. Representative Rainey, of Illinois, backed by comprehensive data from 258 cities of 1000 population or more within a radius of 150 miles of the new $20,000,000 dam across the Mississippi river between Keokuk, Ia., and Hamilton, Ill., will demand an investigation of the effects of that dam upon the section of the country it affects and held it up as a wedge in the campaign for safeguarding the country's great water rights in the pending omnibus bill.

Representative Rainey wants it determined whether the charter of the Hamilton and Keokuk Water Power Co. should be revoked, whether the dam should be removed or changed so as not to interfere with the upper river navigation and whether the government should not regulate the prices for the electric power furnished the public and a toll paid to Uncle Sam.

The many friends of Miss Gertha Bellesore, of Montreal, P. Q., will be pleased to learn that she is now enjoying acquaintances in this city. During her stay in Lowell she will be the guest of Mrs. Louis Gagnon of 49 Crawford street, this city.

In the erection of a contagious disease or isolation hospital. On the other hand the city will have to answer to a bill in equity brought by Qm. Howard & Rogers, attorneys for the remonstrants to the erection of a hospital on the Dr. Pillsbury estate in Belvidere. The situation will be certainly a most unusual one.

UNIFORM MARRIAGE LAWS

The Acts of 1913 Make Many Important Changes in the Laws in This State

Beginning with January 1st, this year, two acts regarding the contracting of marriage and passed by the legislature of last year went into effect. All who intend taking the important step soon should make themselves familiar with the new regulations.

The first stipulation which is contained in chapter 752, acts of 1913, obliges all who would apply for a marriage license to a city clerk or his assistant to take oath as to the truth of certain statements; oath must be made also that there is no legal impediment to such marriage. Whoever violates the provisions by a false oath is liable to punishment by either fine or imprisonment.

The full act governing this matter follows:

An act relative to the contracting of marriages:

Section 17. The clerk or registrar shall require notice of intention of marriage to be given to him in writing, on blanks to be furnished by him, by one of the parties to such intended marriage, or by his or her parents or legal guardian, and shall require the party who gives such notice to make oath before him to the truth of all the statements therein, whereof he or she could have knowledge, and also to make oath that there are no legal impediments to such intended marriage. In cities or towns having an assistant clerk or registrar he may administer the oath. No fee shall be charged for administering such oath.

Section 3. Whoever violates any provision of section 1 hereof, or any provision of section 17 of chapter 151 of the revised laws, as heretofore and hereby amended, and whoever falsely swears or affirms in making any statement required by the provisions of the last named section as amended, shall be punished by fine or imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

Section 4. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, in the year nineteen hundred and fourteen.

Becoming operative at the same time is chapter 360, acts of 1913, providing for the uniformity of marriage in various states. No person residing in this state, or intending to continue to do so, who is prohibited from contracting a marriage here may go to another state or country, become married, and then return here and live. He is liable to fine or imprisonment if this is done.

The full text of this act is as follows:

Chapter 360.

An act to make uniform the law relating to marriages in another state or country in evasion or violation of the laws of the state of domicile.

Section 1. If any person residing and intending to continue to reside in this state who is disabled or prohibited from contracting marriage under the laws of this state shall go into another state or country and there contract a marriage prohibited and declared void by the laws of this state, such marriage shall be null and void for all purposes in this state with the same effect as though such prohibited marriage had been entered into in this state.

Section 2. No marriage shall be contracted in this state by a party residing and intending to continue to reside in another state or jurisdiction if such marriage would be void if contracted in such other state or jurisdiction, and every marriage celebrated in this state in violation of this provision shall be null and void.

Section 3. Before issuing a license to marry to a person who resides and intends to reside in another state or state, the officer having authority to issue the license shall satisfy himself, by requiring affidavits or otherwise, that such person is not prohibited from intermarrying by the laws of the juris-isdiction where he or she resides.

Section 4. Any official issuing a license with knowledge that the parties are thus prohibited from intermarrying, and any person authorized to celebrate marriage who shall knowingly celebrate such a marriage shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 5. This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it.

ORDER ISSUED BY JUSTICE SHELDON

For Mandamus Brought by Attorney General Swift Against City of Lowell at the Instigation of the State Board of Health

In the supreme judicial court before Judge Sheldon at Boston this forenoon the petition for writ of mandamus to compel the city of Lowell to establish and maintain an isolated hospital was heard and the order for the mandamus issued.

Assistant Attorney General Marshall represented the commonwealth and City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy represented the city of Lowell.

The averments alleged in the petition; Mr. Marshall said, were agreed to be substantially true.

He touched on the controversy in Lowell relative to the building of the hospital and he thought it would hasten matters if the order as petitioned for should issue.

Mr. Hennessy said, after Mr. Marshall reported, that while he admitted the facts as represented by Mr. Marshall, he felt it his duty to represent to the court what the attitude of the city government of Lowell has been toward the erection of an isolated hospital as required by law.

He said that attempts had been made many times to procure a site and establish such hospital and that the very day upon which the petition was presented to the court the municipal council passed an order duly authorizing the appropriation of $21,000 for a site for such hospital as is contemplated by law, an isolated hospital.

Mr. Hennessy called the court's attention to the fact that at the present time a bill of complaint which has been entered in the superior court was being heard today.

Justice Sheldon issued the order for the mandamus. He did not hesitate because, he said, he had no alternative. He referred to the fact that the city of Gloucester had been before the court on a like complaint, and the order in that case, too, he said had been issued. "The statute," he said, "is very plain in the matter."

He said it was mandatory upon him to issue the order and now it is mandatory upon the city to establish the hospital.

COURT DISSOLVES THE RESTRAINING ORDER

In Connection With Bill in Equity Brought by Remonstrants to Hospital on Pillsbury Estate

A hearing on the bill in equity brought by fifteen taxable inhabitants of the city of Lowell to prevent the completion of a contract between Dr. Pillsbury and the city for the purchase of his estate as a site for an isolation hospital, came up for hearing before Judge Jenney in the superior court at Boston this forenoon, less than thirty minutes after the supreme court at the other end of the corridor had allowed the order for a writ of mandamus brought by the attorney general to compel the city of Lowell to build a contagious or isolation hospital.

Albert S. Howard, appeared for the petitioners, F. E. Dunbar for Dr. Pillsbury and City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy for the city.

Upon representation of the city solicitor, who, by the way, was a very busy man, having cases in two courts at one and the same time, the restraining order was dissolved and the case will be heard on its merits on Tuesday next.

WANTED IN MANY CITIES

Man Arrested by Lowell Police for Larceny Held in $500 — Other Cases

In Louis Plante the Lowell police think that they have a man who is wanted in several New England cities for breaking and entering and larceny as well as other minor offenses. Plante pleaded guilty this morning to the charge of breaking and entering the house of James Aspinall at 135 Hale street and the larceny of a gold watch chain worth $40 which belonged to Miss Martha J. Aspinall.

Plante's arrest and arraignment was due to the detective ability of Inspector Thomas McCloy of the local force. Inspector Byron of Lawrence came to Lowell on some inter-city police business and while here gave the Lowell inspector a description of a man who was wanted in Lawrence for the larceny of an expensive overcoat.

Inspector McCloy was walking along Middlesex street yesterday afternoon when he met a man who answered to the description given by the Lawrence detective and immediately attached himself to his trail. The man, who later proved to be Plante and the man wanted by the Lawrence police, went into a pawnshop and was in the act of "hooking" a lady's gold watch and chain when the inspector arrested him.

At the station Plante said that he was given the watch and chain by a young lady of Dutch extraction who was a great friend of his. He did not know where she lived, but was of the opinion that she worked in the Boot mills. As no complaint had been made to the police about the loss of a watch Plante was locked up pending further developments.

The developments appeared this morning in the person of Mr. Aspinall, who told the police that a watch had been stolen from his house while the family were all away. When shown the timepiece found in Plante's possession he immediately identified it as that of his daughter.

Plante's case was continued this morning in view of the fact that Supt. Welch wants to learn something more of the man before placing him on trial. His bail was fixed at $500.

Assault Case

Another aftermath of the Yuletide celebration in one of Lowell's foreign quarters was the case of John Korras, charged with assault and battery upon his kinsman, Nepal Martin. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge.

It appears from the testimony offered this morning by Captain Atkinson that both men were drunk when brought to the station. The complainant had a long wound on his face which the defendant admitted he inflicted. A lamp chimney was thought to have been the weapon used in the assault.

One of the physicians from St. John's hospital told the court that eight stitches were found necessary to close the wound and that the complainant would always carry a scar on his battered countenance.

In consideration of the fact that the defendant had already paid his assaulted kinsman the sum of $15 and further agreed to the hospital charges and the costs of the trial, Judge Wright ordered his release this morning.

James P. McDonald has been given several opportunities to care for wife and six children and the local court has put him on probation on three separate occasions. Notwithstanding this fact, however, for the past month he has neglected to give his family any support and even refused to supply them with food and clothing at Christmastime.

U.S. Cavalry Prepared to Force Back Beaten Federals Who Plan Flight to United States—Ojinaga is Expected to Fall—Desperate Fighting

MARFA, Texas, Jan. 2.—General Ortega's 8000 rebels besieging Ojinaga, Mexico, had approached nearer to the fortifications before daylight today and apparently the federals could not hold out much longer. The last word received from Major McNamee, commanding the United States border patrol at Presidio, was that the deserters from the federal army had slackened. The federals had received some of their back pay, Major McNamee said, and this had checked desertions.

Judge Enright told him that his patience was exhausted and that he placed no faith in his promises. McDonald was ordered committed to the house of correction at Cambridge for the term of five months. He appealed.

Find No Work

Alexander Murray stated that he could not find any work and said that he might just as well be in jail as anywhere else under the circumstances. The court asked him if he wished to go back to imprisonment again and the defendant allowed that "he'd just as soon." He was sent to jail for three months.

The non-support case of Frank Richards was continued for a month without a finding. The couple seemed to be at loggerheads over the location of their home. Judge Enright gave the wife some very excellent advice before closing the case.

Alexander Kennedy was arrested for Major McNamee had the situation well in hand in preparing for an expected flight of the entire federal army across the border. The danger of the federals drawing the rebel fire closer to the border in case of a flight was considered but the border patrol had received the promise of General Ortega that the fire would be directed away from the river. General Villa has more ammunition on the way from Chihuahua and hoped to replenish the rebel supply at Ojinaga before it was exhausted. The federals have no way of renewing their supplies.

The federals wounded at Presidio

have all been removed to the mission church there in care of the Red Cross. The federal commander asked Major McNamee to permit the removal of the wounded to Ciudad Porfirio, Diaz, Mexico, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, but the request was refused.

J. P. Morgan Co. Severs Connections With Some of Greatest Corporations in Country

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—J. P. Morgan & Co. today announced that they had severed their connection with some of the greatest corporations in the country with which they have long been connected. This step, the firm announced, was taken voluntarily in response to "an apparent change in public sentiment" on account of "some of the problems and criticisms having to do with so-called interlocking directorates." Among the companies from which they retired are the New York Central and the New Haven railroads.

J. P. Morgan made this statement today:

"The necessity of attending many board meetings has been a serious burden upon our time that we have long wished to withdraw from the directorate of many corporations. Most of these directorships we have accepted with reluctance and only because we felt constrained to keep in touch with property which we have reorganized or whose securities we had recommended to the public both here and abroad. An apparent change in public sentiment in regard to directorships seems now to warrant us in seeking to resign from some of these connections. Indeed, it may be, in view of the change in sentiment upon the subject that we shall be in a better position

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Some weeks ago the management of a Merrimack Square theatre distributed cards upon which was asked the question, "What play would you like to see produced?" The patrons were requested to sign the name of their favorite play and deposit the card in a letter box passing out of the theatre after the current week's bill. Something like 51,000 cards were deposited in the box and of these a little over a third chose Rose Stahl's great play, "The Chorus Lady." So true to a promise, Manager Carroll will, on coming week, give this splendid comedy and elaborate production with Miss Grace Young in the title role. It is a play which one could witness again and again and never grow tired of seeing and that is probably one of many reasons why patrons chose it. If the different members of the cast will be seen to especially good advantage while Miss Young as Patricia "Brien" with a heart of gold, should make the crowning triumph in her career. Watch for new scale of prices.

D. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
That show at the Keith theatre this week has the requisite variety and hold an audience pleased from the moment the Peers do their wonderful comedy bar gymnastic act until Madame Mary's circus closes its series of acts. It really is one all-round show, without a slow moment in it. The sadler is Madame Mary's circus, which holds plenty of first class acts. He ponies are small and sprightly, and the big horses are all thoroughbreds. The dogs, too, will please everybody. Several very funny clowns add to the variety of the act. "His Nerve," highly dramatic sketch, is played admirably by the Broadway Players. If no likes an instrumental act then the Military Maids and Stewart will prove to be the right sort. Kimball & Donagan, banjoists, click out the very latest of melodies, and the Turpin brothers have a little surprise. The Peers are great bar performers, and Brooks and Bowen are funny blackface men. Four more performances of this show. The box office phone is No. 28.

OPERA HOUSE TODAY
If you are in search of a hearty laugh go to the Opera House today and see the excruciatingly funny costume comedy, "Kitty's Knight" from the home of the S. & A. "Pudge" Malone, an artist's model, is in love with Kitty Casey, but Mike McManus is fastening his way into the creature's life's heart. Mike isn't any better looking, but he makes a few dollars a week more than his rival. The night of the masquerade ball Kitty has trouble in choosing Mike, as she has promised "Pudge" she would go with him. Kitty weighs only about 70 pounds, while Mike is a big, strong, healthy six-footer, so he just picks her up and carries her to the dance. "Pudge" is broke, so he borrows a suit of armor from his artist employer. Kitty recognizes "Pudge" and on every occasion the two are together. "Pudge" and his sweetheart win the first prize for their novel and beautiful costumes. This money they decide to use for a license and a ceremony, which causes Mike to make a disturbance, and results in his being placed in jail in the police station for over night. The situations are exceedingly funny and there is action from the last to finish.

THE PLAYHOUSE
The most mirthful week known to the Playhouse will close tomorrow with the final performances of "Maggie Neuse Me." This is the greatest one of the funniest productions known to the burlesque stage, and with a chorus working effectively, the entertainment is one of conspicuous merit. The Landers, Hibern, Pauls, Foyen and John Marlon contribute most of the

ARIZONA METAL MINING

In 1913 there was a record mine production of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc in Arizona, according to preliminary figures of V. C. Helges, of the United States geological survey. The total value of the mine output was about $71,000,000, an increase of nearly 5 per cent. over the value of 1912, which was $67,050,784. The copper output was valued at nearly $64,000,000; the gold at about $3,948,000; the silver at more than $2,263,000; the lead at $612,000; and the zinc at $510,000.

The mine yield of gold in Arizona in 1913 was more than 191,000 ounces, an increase of 5 per cent. over the output of 1912, which was 181,956.91 fine ounces. Of this total, over 42 per cent. was taken from siliceous ores and most of the remainder came from copper ores, which are undoubtedly the source of the increased gold output in 1913.

The three largest producing gold mines were the Tom Reed, Gold Roads, and Vulture. The Tom Reed output was about the same as in 1912, the Gold Roads had a slight increase, and the Vulture a substantial increase. In Yuma county operations were resumed at the La Fortuna mine.

The mine production of silver increased about 8 per cent., amounting to more than 3,774,000 ounces, against 3,490,337 ounces in 1912. Most of the silver was derived from copper ore, but in 1913 the increase is due largely to shipments of lead ore and concentrates from Cochise and Mohave counties. Much silver also comes from siliceous ore. About 500 tons of ore per month was shipped from the Tombstone property and a large tonnage of old tailings was taken from the Commonwealth dump. A 350-ton cyanide mill at this property was completed during the year.

With a mine production of about 411,533,000 pounds of copper in 1913, Arizona led all other copper-producing states. The output in 1913 shows an increase of more than 40,000,000 pounds, or about 12 per cent. over that of 1912, which was 365,938,549 pounds. As the price of copper was slightly lower in 1913, the value of the metal increased only about $3,500,000. There were 11 active copper smelting plants in the state, and ore and concentrate were also sent to 6 copper and lead plants in other states. Of the former, the greatest increases in output were made at the Hayden, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Queen, Old Dominion, Consolidated Arizona, and Swansea plants. At the United Verde and Detroit plants there was little change from the figures of 1912. Those making less copper were the Shannon, Arizona Copper, and Pioneer plants. New plants were completed by the Arizona Copper and Calumet & Arizona companies, and another was in course of construction for United Verde ores. The disseminated copper mines in Gila, Pinal, and Greenlee counties yielded approximately 145,500,000 pounds of copper. Included in this estimate of copper produced are the outputs of the Miami, Ray, Arizona Copper and Detroit mines. The Miami product did not greatly exceed that of 1912. The 3000-ton concentration plant was active and the product went mostly to Cananea, Mexico. The International Smelting & Refining Co. will build a copper plant at Miami to treat this ore and that from the Inspiration mine. Test plants using the flotation process were operated at the Miami and Inspiration, as the saving by concentration alone is not sufficient. The Ray Consolidated Copper Co. greatly increased its output, from nearly 36,000,000 pounds of copper in 1912 to about 52,000,000 pounds in 1913, treating 5000 tons of ore per day. Production from Yuma and Pima counties was not what it could have been, since the Swansea and Pioneer plants were operated only a few months. At Globe greatly increased shipments were made from the Superior & Boston, Iron Cap and Black Warrior mines, and in Pinal county from the Magma mine.

With an increase of more than 104 per cent., the mine production of lead was larger than in any other year. The total output was nearly 14,000,000 pounds, valued at about $512,000, as against 6,805,443 pounds, valued at $206,290 in 1912. The mines at Bisbee produced much lead ore, and in 1913 there was a large increase. The Shattuck mine became a regular producer of silver-lead ore as well as copper ore. In Mohave county an increased tonnage was shipped regularly from the Tennessee mine to the concentration plant at Needles, California. The mine production of recoverable spelter was about 5,102,500 pounds, valued at $510,000, which was an increase of about 340,000 pounds, or nearly 4 per cent., over the production of 1912. On account of the lower price paid for the metal, the total value decreased more than $30,000. The Calconda mine, in Mohave county, formerly the largest producer, was making shipments of zinc ore and concentrates only part of the year, and therefore had a greatly decreased output. Much ore was, however, shipped from the San Xavier mine in Pima county and much concentrate was made from Mohave county ores milled at Needles.

QUITS SMOKING

Solicitor Folk Consumed About Twenty Cigars a Day

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Joseph W. Folk, solicitor of the state department, has sworn off from smoking.

In doing so, he hopes, as he expresses it, to set a good example for the American.

Mr. Folk has for years been an inveterate smoker and his friends were greatly surprised when he declared that he had quit. His daily consumption of cigars averaged from 15 to 20.

BIG MEETING OF OWLS

The business meeting of the Owls in Elks hall last night was well attended. President E. M. Bowers presided. Many propositions for membership were received and referred to committee and a large class of candidates were initiated. The officers elected at the last meeting of the next were duly installed by Past President Edward M. Bowers. The installation ceremony was very impressive. The full ritual of the order was used. Many passages of Scripture were quoted and poems read.

Very impressive and appropriate memorial exercises were then held, under direction of Past President E. M. Bowers. A memorial hymn by The B. Boucher, dedicated to the members who have passed away during the year just closed, was read with much feeling by E. M. Bowers. After these exercises a smoke talk and concert was given, refreshments were served and cigars passed. Those who took part were: Thomas Baxter, William Carvel, James McManus, the "Jelly club" quartet, Edward Lane and James H. Rogers. McGuire's orchestra was in attendance.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was Chairman John McCallum, John H. Rogers, James McManus, John F. Burns, Wm. Hollingworth and Cornelius Harrington.

Miner's, Associate, tonight.

Next week is "Quarter Week" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

BLUNDER OF ILL HEALTH

WHAT PROFESSOR CAROT OF HARVARD SAYS OF OUR HABITS

Most sickness happens because someone has blundered—and that "someone" is apt to be you or me or all of us. Typhoid is a blunder in the water supply or the milk supply, or a blunder of someone who doesn't wash his hands.

Consumption is a blunder of schoolhouse construction and schoolhouse ventilation which makes school children breathe baked, sterile, vitiated air with all the life cooked out of it.

We need real air, not a substitute supposed to be "just as good." We need it in our homes and stores, our factories and offices; but we do not get it. We get furnace heated air, which is about as near to the real article as a furnace heated rose would be to a live rose.

Consumption is one of the punishments which we store up for ourselves when we make the stupid blunder of skipping ourselves on sleep. Sleep, sufficient, sound sleep, in pure air with the windows open, strengthens every organ to resist disease and to throw it off. It fortifies us against tuberculosis and against every other germ disease as well. It helps us to digest our food; it tones up our nerves and muscles; it improves our temper and sharpens our ambitions. It doesn't cost a cent; yet it is worth more than the most expensive medicine. We need just as much of it as we can get—just as much as our system will soak in. If you are still sleepy when it is time to get up, you are making the stupid blunder of wasting vital power by going to bed too late. You are inviting disease to pay you a visit—perhaps a long one.

Public health laws and public health officials can see that our markets, dairies and bakeries give us clean, fresh food. Make them do it. But remember that most of the germ diseases which are caused by our being starved of fresh air, starved of our full sleep and starved of sufficient nourishing food, are our own fault for the most part. This is just as true of food as it is of sleep and fresh air—the three essentials of good health. We blunder about our food and our drink

In the same foolish muddle-headed way that we blunder about air and sleep. Sometimes our food isn't properly cooked. Sometimes we under-eat because we are too tired to eat and have given ourselves no chance to rest. Many times we bolt our food like animals—unchewed. Many times we spoil our appetites with candy or tea or rum, late hours and dissipation.

The government (which means all of us) can do much to provide pure air in schools, stores and factories, proper playgrounds and play masters for children, pure food and water. But government can't make us eat properly and sleep sufficiently. There, we must mind our own business. Public health will always be chiefly a question of private common sense.

Till mothers learn how to feed their babies and how to cook good meals, all the health laws in the world won't keep their families well. Till women learn to eat good food and men learn to drink pure water instead of poisoned rum, we shall never drive out disease through boards of health.

Meantime boards of health can do far more than they do if we, the taxpayers, will give them money and back them up. They can check off diseases in schools, in restaurants and factories and stores by bringing the doctor and the nurse to our aid before we are sick. One of the greatest blunders of our present system is that we don't call the doctor until the disease is well under way. This is like calling the fire engine after the roof has fallen in. We must learn to use our doctors and nurses to keep us whole and not merely to patch us up after we have gone to pieces. This means:

(1) Efficient, well paid school physicians, school clinics and school nurses.

(2) Efficient, well organized insurance against sickness and accidents.

(3) The proper utilization by all the people of hospitals, district physicians and district nurses paid for by all the people for education and prevention as well as for cure.

Why should not the public and the doctors organize to take any steps in this direction which the people of Greater Boston can agree upon?

CONGRESSMAN MAKES REPLY TO ANDREW—NEVER SUGGESTED ANYONE WITHDRAW, HE SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Congressman Gardner yesterday made public the following letter which he has sent to Hon. A. Piatt Andrew in answer to one which he has received from Mr. Andrew dated Dec. 30, 1913.

"My Dear Mr. Andrew: I am in receipt of your letter of Dec. 30, 1913. If I am correct in my interpretation of your words, you raise no objection to my being a candidate for congress against you. If I am wrong in my interpretation, please advise me at once. Unless I hear from you to the contrary I shall expect to become a candidate for re-election to congress in 1914.

Very truly yours,
A. P. Gardner.
"P. S.—I never suggested, either directly or indirectly, that you or any other of the candidates should withdraw from the contest."
"A. P. G."

Owing to unexpected difficulties, the recently organized Club L'Assomption in West Centralville, has postponed its opening. The new club which was to have taken possession of the Bolsovert building at the corner of West Sixth and Emmet streets, had elected George Boucher as president, and all the plans had been completed, but unforeseen difficulties will make the opening of the club impossible at least for the present.

GIRL IS MISSING

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Up to last night no information had been received of the whereabouts of Miss Rose V. Fallon, the 18-year-old telephone operator who disappeared Tuesday. It has been learned that she was seen in Forest Hills square early Tuesday evening, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Fallon of 3882 Washington street, Forest Hills, were informed yesterday that on Wednesday she was seen at the South station.

If she intended to leave the city, however, she divulged her plans to nobody. A friend and fellow-operator, Miss Susie Stearns of Lawrence avenue, Roxbury, received a postcard on Wednesday, postmarked at the Jamaica Plain office at 9.30 Tuesday evening, on which Miss Fallon wrote she was going away, but would first let her friend know where.

Miss Stearns, however, has heard nothing further, and neither the girl's family nor the officials of the telephone company have the slightest clue as to what has become of her. Her parents and sisters are overcome with grief, and only pray that she may come home at once.

institutions was given here last night by Dr. Edwin R. Gould. Mr. Rosenwald is cooperating with Andrew Carnegie and Vincent Astor and others. Dr. Gould said. It is probable that

Dr. Gould will be head of the system of banks, the first of which is to be established in Chicago with a capital of several hundred thousand dollars. Miner's, Associate, tonight.

Lowell People Are Not the Only Ones Who Are Using Coburn's Laundry Blue.

A Westford lady recently wrote an order directing us to send two packages of Coburn's Laundry Blue to a friend of hers in Sussex, King's county, N. B. She says the lady down East had tried it and was so well pleased with it that it is the "only kind she will use." This store receives many orders for its Laundry Blue from remote places. Householders like it because it gives a beautiful flush to linens and laces, bleaches white goods, and preserves the textures. CHILDREN'S HOME EVENT

TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY WAS OBSERVED—ENTERTAINED BY THE CHILDREN

The Children's Home in Kirk street held its 12th anniversary yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 and during the afternoon a great many friends of the institution called to express their good wishes and congratulate the matron, Mrs. Ellen O'Leary on the splendid work she is doing.

The visitors first inspected the house and then attended an entertainment given by the children. The little ones had been well trained and they filled their parts with assurance. Following is the program:

Songs: "Down from Heaven," chorus; recitation, "Twenty-third Psalm," recitation, "Bethlehem," Mabelle Reardon; song, "Shine Out, O Blessed Star," chorus; recitation, "Pure White Room," Catherine Anderson; song, "Jesus Was Born as a Little Child," choir; recitation, "Santa Claus," Alice Morse and Loretta Anderson; chorus, "The Shepherd's Song," piano solo, Mabelle Reardon; chorus, "America."

In the twelve years of its existence the children's home has done a great deal of charitable work and from the business point of view it has been eminently successful. The home was first rented but was afterwards purchased. The work has outgrown the quarter so that at present Mrs. O'Leary is looking round for a more suitable location. One that she has in mind in the same locality could be purchased for $23,000 and this sum she hopes to raise.

One gratifying feature of the anniversary yesterday was that generous friends of the institution remembered it by substantial donations.

A FARM HOUSE SCHOOL

Complete freedom from restraint is the lot of the children who attend the experimental rural school at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., as described by Mrs. Hetty Browne in a bulletin of the United States bureau of education. There are no seats or desks in this school; no class rooms; no rules of silence, but a free activity guided and directed by a woman who is in complete sympathy with country children and country life.

In this and other respects observers have noted a resemblance to the Montessori schools, but Mrs. Browne began her work several years ago quite independently of the theories of Madame Montessori. Furthermore, the Rock Hill school makes no claim to a liberated scientific basis; it is essentially an "experimental" school, where it is hoped to learn by actual experience what kind of a school is best adapted to rural life.

The school building is a farm house, with rooms fitted up as "sitting room," kitchen and workshop. A large veranda surrounding the house is used for the midday meal, which is served by the pupils at the school, and for other purposes. There is plenty of ground about the school, including space for a large garden.

The garden is the centre about which instruction revolves. From the study of soil and seed in the winter time to the actual planting, cultivating and harvesting at the other seasons, the garden remains the centre of the children's interest and activity.

Arithmetic, spelling, etc., are not taught as subjects, but only as the need for them arises in connection with the activities of home and garden. Laying out the garden involves arithmetic, and even geometry, both of which are absorbed by the children without effort. The making of towels for use at the school naturally develops new words having to do with sewing and many other things. And so on. Words and numbers are given the children only as the need for them develops, and then with as little formality as possible. The whole idea is for the children to find out things, if possible, without being told.

The children in this rural school are not assigned to "classes" and "periods," as in the traditional school. A visitor will see one group working in the garden, another group on the veranda, sewing, another in the kitchen at a cooking task, and still another doing "numbers" or reading with the teacher in her room.

The aim of the Rock Hill school is thus summarized by Dr. A. P. Bourland in an introduction to the bureau's bulletin: "The resolve was to make a school that will train the farm children for their future work in the home, on the farm, and in the social life around them. Hence we began frankly with the activities of the farm. The aim was not a cut-and-dried plan, but rather a working idea to enable the teacher to create a growing agency for the development of farm life."

FORMER BALL PLAYER IS MAYOR

RAYONNE, N. J., Jan. 2.—Dr. Albert Bailey, once a member of Conde Mack's Athletics, began work as mayor of Rayonne today. Dr. Bailey is a graduate of the Baltimore medical college and played with the Eastern league. He was with the Newark team in 1902. In Philadelphia he played second base for part of one season. He bought a half interest in the Hartford club of the Connecticut league the next year and acted as manager. After quitting the diamond Dr. Bailey took up politics.

LEWISTON AND AUBURN

Attempt is Being Made to Transfer Brockton Franchise to Maine Cities—Carrigan Behind Move

A group of business men in Lewiston and Auburn, the two live Maine cities which are just across the river from each other, are leaving no stone unturned in an endeavor to break into the playing circuit of the "little old New England league." The proposition is backed by Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox, whose home is in Lewiston, and the proposition is lent a great deal of weight on this account. For several years past there has been a remote rumor sent around each spring, that Lewiston would be the playing home of one of the poorer paying clubs but nothing has come of it. There is a strong possibility next season, however, that the Brockton franchise may be transferred to the Maine city.

In a way it would prove a good thing for the league to have a club established within a short distance of Portland. Last year the teams stayed in Portland for three days as a rule when they made the trip in order to save traveling expenses. With Lewiston a member of the circuit the funny could be made from Portland to Lewiston, or vice versa, without a great deal of expense to the clubs.

The Lewiston Journal has the following story concerning the situation there that will be read with much interest in local baseball circles: "Mr. J. McDonough and Bill Carrigan of Lewiston called at the Lewiston Journal office Tuesday about New England baseball."

Neither of them wants to make a dollar on the proposition but they want to put Lewiston and Auburn on the map. The manager of the Red Sox said little, but the little he did say meant much. "Baseball is wholesome," said he. "It is good for all. Lewiston ought to have a New England team. I will do all I can to help it along."

Mr. McDonough is a known enthusiast for Lewiston and baseball. "I want to see Lewiston and Auburn in this thing," says he. "This Brockton franchise can be brought to Lewiston. There's no question about it. We must have the grounds first. My idea is that we should secure a lease of the grounds on Skinner street, opposite the old Nichols Latin school. You land at the gate from the trolley and the street that runs east and west will be fine for automobile travel. The grounds could be easily leveled and sodded."

"Now what shall we do," continued Mr. McDonough, "to push the thing through. I think it should begin with the chamber of commerce. If these cities want to advertise they can't do it better, cheaper, more efficiently than by the constant repetition of the name of their ball club in all the newspapers of the east. Portland saw it and her business men crowded the first public meeting to talk New England baseball until you couldn't get into the rooms. They looked on it as a good business proposition. Is Lewiston and Auburn cities enterprising?"

"Now the next thing is to enlist the city government," continued Mr. McDonough. "There is hardly a city in

"Yes," interjected Mr. Carrigan, "you ought to do it, too, for the boys and girls. The influence of good sports on boys and girls is the most wholesome thing of the times. 'Tis a heap better than lots of other things they are learning nowadays."

"That's right," added Mr. McDonough. "We've got a good story to put to the city government and what's more everybody I see is ready to stand for it. If the city would appropriate a sum of money to build an athletic field the Lewiston and Auburn team at the New England league would guarantee the interest on the expenditure and more, too."

This is the first authoritative declaration regarding the possibility of a New England team in Lewiston and Auburn. Jos Burns, who holds the franchise, is ready to come here any day to meet the people. Tim Murnane, Bill Carrigan, Hugh Duffy and a big bunch of the leading New England baseball men will be here to help put it through.

Are we to pass this by?

"NO SWEEPING REDUCTION"

New Haven Hunt Replies to Report That it Contemplated Big Decrease in Working Force

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 2.—While "the number of engineers, firemen and trainmen fluctuates particularly with the amount of freight business handled," an official statement from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad here yesterday says "no sweeping reductions in working forces are contemplated."

"Gross earnings for the first half of the fiscal year show a reduction. This means that less men are needed and there have been readjustments of forces and hours to meet existing conditions." The statement is a reply to reports that large reductions of the working forces of the road were contemplated.

IN FAVOR OF SECOND WIFE

Maine Law Court Decides About Insurance Policy Claimed by Son of Original Beneficiary

AUBURN, Me., Jan. 2.—A rescript was received from the law court yesterday in the Androscoggin county case of the A. O. U. W. against Harold M. Edwards and Mahda M. Edwards. The suit was to determine which of the two defendants was entitled to $128.19, due from the order on account of the death of the late Dr. Merton O. Edwards of Lewiston.

When the policy was taken out by Dr. Edwards it was made payable to his wife, Clara E. Edwards. She died in 1902, but Dr. Edwards never had his beneficiary under the policy changed.

Maudie M. Edwards, one of the defendants, being his second wife. The other defendant, Harold M. Edwards, was his son by the first wife. Dr. Edwards died in 1911 and his wife and son both claimed the insurance.

The rescript gives the money to the widow. It is held that a by-law of the order, providing that if the bene-fiary under a policy dies before the insured and the latter has made no other legal designation the policy shall be paid to his widow if living at the time of his death, governs in this case and compels the payment of the policy to the widow.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

TO AVERT STRIKES

There could be no greater message of optimistic assurance to the industrial forces of Massachusetts at this commencement of 1914, than one embodying the hope that for the coming year none of our industries will be paralyzed by a strike of any great magnitude. The time is gone by when we need argue as to the abstract right of the strike in principle or moralize on its too often disastrous effect, but the feeling is growing stronger daily that the time is near when industrial strikes will be very rare. Constructive influences and forces are at work everywhere in an attempt to create conditions that will ensure the settlement of labor troubles without the necessity of long strikes with their financial and moral losses to the community.

For the purpose of averting strikes in Massachusetts in 1914, our state board of conciliation and arbitration has issued a valuable message to employers and employees directing their attention to laws provided for their use in the case of threatened strikes or lockouts, and reminding them that it is a duty they owe to themselves and to the public to exhaust all peaceful and legal methods of settlement of labor troubles before resorting to the strike, which in this measure is called "a breach of industrial peace." The state board lays emphasis on the fact that the public is an innocent third party in all industrial controversies, and therefore entitled to some degree of the protection that should be accorded the other two parties.

At a time of controversy whether over wages, working conditions or shorter hours, the board urges the employer and employee to confer together and try to reach an agreement before delay has widened the breach; if they cannot agree, arbitration is suggested. If conciliation and arbitration both fail and if one of the parties interested refuses to accept the methods suggested, the other party should petition for a public investigation and report before resorting to the strike or lockout. In the words of the board, "If the employer refuses to adopt the board's recommendation, or the employee are not satisfied with it, and both are unwilling or unable to compromise their differences, the parties, having exhausted the methods provided by statute, may then—and not until—then be justified in using strike or lockout as a means to enforce demands."

Although the state board of conciliation and arbitration has been in existence for 27 years, this is the first document of the kind ever brought to the attention of the public carrying its sanction. It is not that there has been any change in the industrial principles involved, but it has become plain that strikes in this section have increased in number and magnitude for the past few years, and it has also been demonstrated that other countries have adopted legislative systems of conciliation that have induced industrial peace, leaving mutual satisfaction among all concerned. In a desire to foster efficient methods of treatment in Massachusetts the state board made an exhaustive study of the laws of other states and Canada, and applied the experience gained by their action on 126 cases of joint arbitration during 1913. The result of their experience and exhaustive investigation is this well considered statement to the public.

The message should be read and discussed by employers and employees collectively and individually, for in it is the kernel of peaceful settlement of industrial differences. In the membership of the third party interested—the public—are many that wonder, when they read of the final agreement after strikes, why it could not have been reached at first. The good that comes with the most justifiable strikes has never been unmixt with evil, and in the knowledge of a common cause, employers, employees, and the public should take to heart the advice given by the state board of conciliation and arbitration, and act on it.

MONTREAL WATER FAMINE

The city of Montreal, Canada, has just had an experience that Lowell might at some future time duplicate were it not for the constructive foresight and enterprise of Alderman Barrett in putting the additional water main across the river. In the Canadian city the main water pipe on which the citizens depended for their water supply burst about Christmas and the result has been that almost up to the present there has been a water famine, and the industry of the city has been at a standstill with an enormous financial loss. The jammer was not entirely unforeseen for one of the public officials there called attention to it a few years ago and requested an appropriation for the purpose of laying a secondary main. The project was considered extravagant and the proposed expenditure was foolishly deemed unwarranted by the majority in the government with the result that there has been discomfort, suffering and serious financial loss. No better illustration need be sought for the "penny wise and pound foolish" policy of many in road at a time when the future was full of seeming prosperity, but the merger has not brought financial return or public approval. The critical public attitude that greeted the monopoly and mercilessly hounded it with the unfortunate results that we all know so well was not liable to subside as long as the interests of the two roads were united, and if there will be a successful unscrambling of the eggs possibly there may be better days ahead for both roads, their stockholders, and industrial New England. The public, however, is skeptical in its attitude and manifests the well known Missouri attribute of desiring to be shown. When shown that the two railroads are sincerely striving to improve their properties with respect for the law, the critical attitude will change to support and approval. May it be soon.

TO PREVENT FIRES

Such good to humanity has come as the result of widely advertised disaster and a probable improvement in the fire laws of Massachusetts following the awful sacrifice of life in the Arcadia fire tragedy of Boston is a case in point. In the annual report of the state board of charity will be a recommendation that the legislature enact a law to put all "cheap" lodging houses under direct supervision of the board. The purpose of such a provision is to prevent or remove conditions that would tend to cause fires, but in all probability it would also make the sanitary standards of such places higher. The investigation following the Boston fire revealed things that called for investigation before the unfortunate victims of the tragedy were roasted like rats in a trap.

Lowell is certainly between the devil and the deep sea in the case of the mandamus of the state board which says "you must build" and the bill in equity which says "you must not build." Which is the devil and which the deep sea you must decide for yourself.

The wise man says nothing to his friends about a New Year's resolution because he discovered years ago that an accusing conscience about January 3rd is quite bad enough without a grinning repetition of "I told you so."

Why not have an Edison reproducer in the municipal council chamber for the amusement of coming generations? Did you say something about a moving picture machine, too?

If you think Lowell is a bad place to live in, go down to Ojibwa for a week or two and get homesick.

B-R-R-R! How do you like it?

THOUGHTFUL AND THOUGHTLESS
Brookline Enterprise: The man at Quincy who killed himself with gas and before dying left a note that his room was gas-filled and for his wife not to light a match, was he really thoughtful, but he would have been even more so had he refrained from taking his life and leaving others to loneliness and sorrow.

A NEW SPIRIT

Lyons News: The year has been marked by very large gifts to educational, philanthropic and religious institutions. Hospitals have been largely remembered and foundations for various kinds of research, in the interests of bettering the condition of humanity, have been dealt with in a generous way. The amounts for all these purposes run up to the hundreds of millions. There is surely something significant about this. The United States may be called materialistic but certainly not one that puts the material as only an idealist can do. For the things that make for brotherhood, and for the things of the spirit, it has large thought. In making up the account of this year, the progress of its manifestations must not be omitted.

THE HATED SKUNK

Foster's Democrat: After many years of abusive treatment the skunk is coming into its own. The department of agriculture characterizes the animal as being of "great importance," and urges its addition to the list of natural resources, before they are entirely exterminated. We agree with the department, "natural resources," but suggest to the government that it lose no sleep over the possible immediate extermination of the savory animal.

WAR HORRORS

Brookline Times: The final settlement of the second Balkan war is said to have been effected by resumption of diplomatic relations between Serbia and Bulgaria. The evil results of the war, however, are still apparent in destitution and disease. To the hundreds of non-combatants who were slaughtered must be added other hundreds who are dying of want. The darkest of the war's history is yet to be told.

MEMORIAL FUNDS

Salem News: That the Gaylor fund in New York languishes, the collections and pledges to date totalling only a fraction more than $700, is not a matter for wonderment. In no wise is the showing to be construed as a reflection upon the esteem in which the late mayor was held. If lagging memorial funds are to be interpreted as evidences of lack of popular esteem, then such men as Grant and Beecher—not to string out a list—were held in slight favor.

GOOD ADVERTISING

Fall River Globe: As might have been expected, Dorothy McVane, the young Boston woman who recently received considerable publicity in the press for her alleged Italian secret police who were laboring under the misapprehension that she was the spy of some foreign government, has announced her intention to return to America to fill an engagement as an operatic star. This Italian episode has lifted the labor of the press agent materially in introducing her to the public here and explaining who the lady is.

TWINS FIRST FOR THE YEAR

Boston Jan. 2.—The first birth record to be filed with the registry department of Boston for the year 1914 came in early yesterday and proved to be of twins, one being born at 12.10 and the other at 12.20 a.m. They are the sons of Vincent J. Guilfoyle of 61 street, South Boston. The obstetrician was Dr. E. J. Denning. The twins and the mother are reported as doing well.

Seen and Heard

When Johnny had finished reading his Sunday school lesson he said to father: "It's too bad it was so long ago that Jonah was swallowed by the whale!" "Why is that, my son?" queried the father.

"Oh, if it would happen now," the son replied, "everybody could see it in the movies!"—Youngstown Telegram.

When Jefferson was starting for business in the morning Mrs. P. asked him to give Potts, the plumber, a call and tell him to look around at once, as there was something radically wrong with the cistern.

Twelve o'clock came and no Potts, and so Mrs. P. was driven to enlist the services of another knight of the soldering iron, who soon had things in trim. When Potts called at 2 o'clock he was informed that the job was done. "I had to send for another plumber, thinking you were too busy," Mrs. P. told him.

"Done," gasped Potts. "Then you've been imposed on, ma'am. I dunno 'ee was or what 'e was, but you can take my word for it if 'ee done the job already 'e won't no plumber!"

DOCTOR HEART
A very good doctor, because he's young. And not the old fellow who feels your wrist. And presses your temple and looks at your tongue. And gives you a kind of a double-twist. And tips you a paper—for all your ills. That the druggist puts up in a box of pills.

Doctor Heart is the fellow to call. When courage is gone and your spirits fall. For he's wise and valiant and all the while. For he looks you over he beams with a smile. And tells you there's nothing the matter at all. But too much trouble and too much bile.

He's fine for young and fine for old. And he makes you over as good as gold. And he puts things in you besides a dose. Of medicine bitter a thousand fold. For when he's helped you the world is bright. The sun is shining, the sweet birds sing. And you feel as fine as a lark in spring.

ANOTHER LEADER GONE

MICHAEL MORRISON, PROMINENT WORKER IN IRISH MOVEMENT, DIES SUDDENLY IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Michael Morrison, the treasurer of the Boston Central branch of the United Irish league, who died when being taken to the Relief hospital in an ambulance early yesterday morning, was for years an active leader in this city in the home rule movement.

The news of his sudden death comes as a great shock to the members of the league, as he had attended a meeting of the Boston branch on Tuesday and appeared to be in the best of health.

Mr. Morrison had been at the services at St. Joseph's church and when returning to his home, 44 West Cedar street, West End, was stricken on Pinckney street with what seemed to be a shock of apoplexy. An ambulance was summoned, but upon its arrival he was found to be dead. He had died while on the way there.

He was born in County Cork, Ireland, and was 55 years of age. When a young man he came to this country and after working for some years for his brother went into business on Portland street.

Last September Mr. Morrison was made a member of the executive committee of the United Irish league, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Patrick J. Timmons of South Boston. He was always active in the home rule movement and for years has been one of the largest contributors for the Irish cause. He was a warm friend of the late John O'Connell.

FALSE ALARMS SOUNDED

YOUNG RUFIANS SOUGHT BY THE POLICE FOR RINGING BOX 65 LAST NIGHT

Two false alarms from box 65 were rung in last night within 30 minutes of each other. Although the fire and police departments have been annoyed by the ringing of false alarms before, nothing quite so daring as this has ever been perpetrated. The box is located at the corner of Bennet street and Lakeview avenue and the first call was sent in at 8.10. The firemen reached the scene of the supposed conflagration only to find everything serene and no sign of a fire anywhere to be seen. Scarcely had they arrived at their respective stations, however, when the same box rang in again, and once more the apparatus thundered out of the stations.

This response was as unsatisfactory as the previous one and the police were gotten in touch with at once. There is a gang of young ruffians in the vicinity of the box which was rung in last night and in all probability the guilty party is a member of this set, several of which have been in the toils of the police recently.

FREIGHT RATES INCREASED

B. & M. WILL CHARGE HIGHER FOR FREIGHT SHIPMENTS FROM THIS CITY

Notification to the effect that the freight rates on the B. & M. railroad have been raised has been received by several Lowell corporations.

This will mean an additional cost of nearly $15,000 yearly on shipments to and from local concerns. The rates will be assessed on a scale of seven to 10 cents per 100 pounds instead of a flat rate of seven and one-quarter cents per 100 pounds as in the past. Objections to this increase have been made but the move was approved by the interstate commerce commission.

IDAHO METAL MINE

In 1913 the metal mine output of Idaho was so much increased that the total value exceeded that of the record year, 1906, according to preliminary estimates of C. N. Gerry of the United States Geological Survey. The value of the gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc mine production was over $22,500,000, an increase of over $2,000,000, or 10 per cent. Record productions were made in silver, lead and zinc, and substantial increases were made in output of all metals but gold, which remained close to the yield of 1912, the figures for 1913 being $1,273,000. The gold yield from quartz mines, especially the De Lamar mine, which was closed in the last part of the year, continued to decrease. To compensate for this loss, the gold output from dredging continued to increase and that from copper ore was greater since the Lost Packer smelter was operated.

The mine yield of silver output increased 20 per cent, from $2,947,715 ounces in 1912 to about 9,370,000 ounces in 1913, a large increase even over the previous record output of 1906. In silver output the state which in 1913 had a value of nearly $4,000,000, was only exceeded by Nevada, Utah and Montana. Nearly all this silver was derived from lead ore and concentrates, shipments of which were unusually large. Another feature which accounted for this record output was the large production from the Greenhill-Cleveland mine near Mars and the Hercules mine at Burke, for the mines of Leland district are notable for high silver content.

The copper output from Idaho mines increased from 7,432,152 pounds in 1912 to about 9,312,000 pounds in 1913, an increase of over 24 per cent. The three main factors in the copper output were the shipments of crude ore and concentrates from the Snow Storm mine at Larson, the yield of copper ores from the Empire copper property at Mackay, and the copper matter produced at the Lost Packer plant at Ivers. Increased yield was made from all these properties and dividends were paid by the first and last. Copper was also recovered from the lead ores of Lemhi and Shoshone counties. Other copper properties are being opened in the Hunter district of Shoshone county. A deposit of interest was that developed by the National Mining Co., which began the flotation process will probably be used.

The lead mine production increased from 254,000 pounds in 1912 to nearly 311,000 pounds in 1913, or over 21 per cent. At the average price for 1913 this total was valued at more than $13,500,000. Probably 85 per cent of the lead came from the Coeur d'Alene region of Shoshone county, and the remainder from Lemhi, Fremont, Blaine, and Custer counties. Shipments from the Greenhill-Cleveland mine more than made up for the abandonment of the Standard-Mammoth at Mace. No great change in production was made by the Hecla, nor by the Stewart mine, but great increases were made at the Buckner Hill & Sullivan, Hercules, Gold Hunter, Ontario, Sierra Nevada, Interstate Callahan and Marsh properties. The Tamarack and Custer was added to the list of important lead silver producers. Shipments began in March and in November 1200 tons of crude ore and concentrates were sent to smelters. The Placer Centre or Nine Mile district, together with the Beaver district adjoining, was notably active in both production and development.

The tonnage for the year is not yet known, but in November nearly 37,000 tons of crude ore and concentrates, including zinc as well as lead, were shipped from the Coeur d'Alene region. Lemhi county, especially the Gilmore region, produced much less lead than in 1912, but the Wilbert mine (which was found to be in Fremont county instead of Blaine) and the property at Clayton in Custer county, compensated for the deficiency. At the Idaho Continental mine in Bonner county, mill building and improvements were in progress but there was no lead output.

The record mine production of zinc ore and concentrates in Idaho in 1913 increased the spelter output from 12,905,562 pounds in 1912 to 23,594,000 pounds in 1913, an increase of nearly 70 per cent. The Success mine was operated throughout the year and not only had an increased zinc output, but preparation was made for using magnetic separation to eliminate the excess iron in the product. At the Morning mine a largely increased output was made by use of the Masquerade tube flotation process. The Greenhill-Cleveland shipped crude zinc ore and made a separation of a zinc product by flotation at the mill at Wallace. Probably the most important increase came from the Interstate-Callahan property. A new 300-ton mill began operation in May and crude ore and concentrates of both lead and zinc were marketed. In August 1015 tons were sent to smelters, largely zinc products. At the Hercules mill at Wallace additions were also made for the separation of a zinc product. Little zinc ore or concentrate

N. Y. Mayor Wants Reformers to do Something First

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A policy of silence among department heads regarding the administration of branches of the city government during their first few months in office was suggested by Mayor Mitchell yesterday as successor of Arthur L. Killeen, who became mayor upon the death of William J. Gaynor.

"We will develop our program slowly," Mr. Mitchell announced in the presence of some of his cabinet, the retiring mayor and others who gathered at the city hall to see the new executive take office.

"I caution the new heads of the departments to self-restraint and simplicity, and I advise them to follow the policy which I have outlined for myself, namely, silence for a few months until we have developed our plans further and can come to the people and point to some accomplishment. I would rather have the government of this city for the next few months inconspicuous than have it heralded from day to day in the papers through promises made as to what will be done."

Mayor Mitchell urged "team work" among the department heads, and promised the fulfillment of the campaign pledges given by the fusion party which elected him to office.

FIGHT FIRE AT 10 BELOW

DEXTER, Me., Jan. 2.—Not until the frozen hydrants were thawed out by bonfires, were firemen able to cope successfully with flames in the planing mill of Eldridge Brothers last night. The temperature was 10 degrees below zero, and the firemen worked on for an hour before the flames were extinguished. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

NEW STATE HOUSE

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—There will be two state houses in Beacon street, within a stone's throw of each other, when the new quarters of several of the most important state departments in the building at 1 Beacon street are completed. C.M.A.C. CLUB ACTIVITIES

NEW OFFICERS WILL BE INSTALLED NEXT WEEK—BOWLING LEAGUE

The newly elected officers of the C. M. A. C. will be formally installed at a meeting of the club which will take place next week. Plans are already under way, and it is the general belief that the new officers will be ushered into office with imposing ceremonies. A varied program, including both vocal and instrumental selections will be given by some of the best talent of the club.

Each one of the new officers as usual will be required to deliver a brief address, and at the close of the exercises, a general good time will follow. It is quite certain that nearly all the members will be present and the affair promises to be a success.

The C. M. A. C. bowling league, recently organized among the members of the club, announced the opening of an extensive schedule for next week. The plans for the opening are almost complete, and the teams have been chosen by the respective captains. Each team will be designated by a certain color chosen by the captain, and interesting matches are looked for as there are many exceptionally good bowlers among the members.

All the teams are well matched, and the different contests promise to be very interesting. The affair will last five weeks and the winner will be awarded a handsome silver cup.

Next week promises, therefore, to be an interesting one for the members of the C. M. A. C.

BALLOT FRAUDS

District Attorney Will Investigate Nomination Papers in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—An investigation will be ordered by the Boston Bar association into the conduct of William C. Pree, counsel for the Municipal League, who refused to testify before the ballot law commission yesterday in connection with the fraud charges which were brought against the nomination papers of Thomas J. Kenny on the ground he would incriminate himself.

This, together with discovery that some of the political leaders feel that regardless of whether Kenny or Curley is elected mayor, the legality of the election will be tested in the courts, are the latest developments in the mayoralty tangle.

Chairman Milton of the election board said last night that all talk of a contest of the choice in the courts after the election would be futile. Judicial discussions, he said, had well established the fact that after the board had prepared the ballot no technical charges invalidating the election could be successfully raised.

Other important developments in the mayoralty muddle yesterday were the withdrawal of the charges against the Kenny and Curley papers by representatives of both rival camps; the decision of the ballot law commission to refer the charges to the district attorney; and the announcement of the latter that he will immediately institute a grand jury probe into the whole matter.

Say Worker Tractor

To add to the sensations of the day, the Kenny forces declared that they were practically certain that one of the lieutenants in their camp was a party to a conspiracy to have Mayorally Candidate Kenny thrown out of the ballot. This was not taken with great seriousness, however.

Yesterday morning the ballot law commission began the hearing it had scheduled for the presentation of the fraud charges against the mayoralty nomination papers of Kenny and Curley.

Robbie Charles Fleischer, Dr. Charles P. Putnam, a well known Back Bay physician, and other prominent Bostonians testified that although some of the Kenny nomination papers made it appear that they had sworn to the same, as a matter of fact they had not done this.

The name of Atty. William C. Pree appeared on these papers as a Justice of the peace, who was supposed to have taken the oaths of the men in question. When Pree was asked to explain he declined to do so on the ground that he might incriminate himself. His testimony, which created a sensation, has been brought to the attention of the Bar association officials, and will be investigated by that body.

Thin, brittle, colorless and straggly hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

MONTANA METAL

The total value of gold, silver, copper, lead, and zinc produced by deep and placer mines in Montana in 1913 was somewhat over $55,000,000, a decrease from $64,764,615 in 1912, over 8 per cent, according to preliminary estimates of V. C. Helges, of the United States geological survey. Metal prices were slightly less than those of 1912, but there was also a large decrease in copper yield and consequently in gold. These were in part offset by a record increase in zinc production and silver output from zinc.

An increase of nearly 4 per cent was made in the silver output of the state, the mine figures being 12,731,438 ounces in 1912 and 13,203,000 ounces in 1913. A decrease of about 10 per cent in silver output from Butte copper ores was largely balanced by an unusual increase in silver from lead concentrate and zinc residues from the Butte & Superior mine, which made a notable record the last half of the year. Over 13 per cent of the total value of the state output was that of silver. The new concentration and cyanide plant of the Butte Central at Butte was idle after a few months operation and results did not affect the gold and silver output.

The copper output declined, about 9 per cent, from 399,735,873 pounds, according to mine reports, in 1912 to 250,000,000 pounds in 1913. This was about 30 per cent less than the output of Arizona, the leading copper producer in 1913. The average price of copper decreased from 15.5 cents in 1912 to about 16.37 cents in 1913, and it is presumed that no efforts toward a record output were made by the larger smelting establishments. According to monthly printed statements, the Anaconda Copper Co. was making an average of 32,000,000 pounds per month and the East Butte Copper Co. about 1,125,000 pounds per month. The February production of Butte was low on account of cold weather and fires in the West Colusa mine, which interrupted work in the Mountain View mine. The October yield was notably low since the fires were drawn at the Anaconda smelter to clean the flues. The East Butte Co. is fast getting out of debt by making $100,000 per month, and plans to enlarge the plant, according to the press. One of the features of the year in Montana was the leaching of low grade copper ores at Butte. At the Bullwhacker operators were experimenting and building a leaching plant. At the Butte and Duluth property the ore was quarried, crushed, treated by sulphuric acid, and the leachate electrolytically precipitated. Leaching is also being tried at the Royal Basin mine at Maxville in Granite county. In Jefferson county the Boston and Corbin Co. had a new 250-ton concentration plant in operation. The value of the copper yield in 1913 was over 72 per cent of the total value of all metals produced in Montana.

The lead output increased from 7,446,749 pounds in 1912, according to mine figures, to 8,547,600 pounds in 1913, or nearly 15 per cent. This increase was largely due to shipments of lead concentrates and residues from zinc concentrates from the Butte & Superior mine at Butte. There was much activity south of Libby in Lincoln county, but principally in development work. At the King & Queen property in Sanders county, extensive work was done and a 75-ton concentration plant was being constructed.

A record production of recoverable spelter was made from zinc concentrates shipped from Montana mines in 1912. From 26,918,351 pounds of spelter in 1912, the output increased to 35,449,227 pounds in 1913, or 217 per cent. This was largely due to results at the Butte & Superior mine. The first half of the year the plant was treating 600 tons per day, but the tonnage treated was increased to 1000 tons per day the latter part of the year. In August the mill treated 30,440 tons of ore, which made 11,300 tons of concentrates having an average zinc content of 49.41 per cent, representing a recovery of 50.9 per cent by concentration and oil flotation. Other zinc shipments were made from the Iron Mountain mine in Missoula county and also from Jefferson county. At the Elm Orlu mine no zinc ore was treated or shipped, copper ore only being sold. There is, however, a large tonnage of zinc ore being awaiting treatment by the new mill being erected south of Butte. Concentration and flotation will probably be used. At the present rate of increase Montana was the electrification of the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific during the year and the use of electricity instead of steam in the mines was found to greatly reduce costs. A survey for railroads was made between Great Falls and Missoula by the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Co.; and the Butte, Wisdom & Pacific railway will build 100 miles of road to connect French Gulch and Elkhorn.

At a meeting of the Centralville Social club, held recently at the headquarters, Lakewood avenue, considerable business was transacted. President Joseph Ellis occupied the chair. "HERE'S WHERE I THROW UP MY HANDS"

I have given up all hopes of any profit whatsoever this season. My six great stores have just passed through the most backward season I have ever encountered. Frankly, the weather man has me on the run. The last four months of 1913 witnessed the most unseasonable temperature ever recorded by the weather bureau. I enter upon the new year, frantically overstocked. It is absolutely imperative that I force immediate selling!

BABY ONE WEEK OLD HAD ECZEMA

On Head and Neck. Kept Getting Worse. Cross and Fretful. Did Not Sleep. Suffered Six Weeks. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

297 Lake St., St. Albans, Vt.—"When my baby was only one week old the back of his head and neck began to look red and swollen. It kept getting worse until the back of his head and neck were just one watery raw sore. The skin around the sores was very red and also inflamed. I think the sores itched and they burned terribly. He was very cross and fretful. He did not sleep only when he had worried himself sick and then he would cry out in his sleep."

"I tried also and I used everything I thought would help it. After he was six weeks old I happened to think of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so I sent for one cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I bathed the sores in very hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment with a soft cloth. I had used them only two or three times when he was relieved and began to sleep. After two weeks he was cured and the back of his head and neck looked as well as any other baby's." (Signed) Mrs. Joseph Cole, May 5, 1913.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

137 Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

U. S. SUPREME COURT

To Consider Case Against the Owners of Titanic and Contempt Case Against Compers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—When the supreme court of the United States meets on Monday next it will face an amount of work that promises to make a record for the ensuing 12 months. In addition to the probable announcement of many decisions the court has set down for hearing on that day or as soon thereafter as possible enough cases to consume the time of the sittings of the court for nearly a week. One of the most interesting of these involves the liability of the owners of the Titanic, which went down after striking an iceberg on April 14, 1912. The owner of the vessel, the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., a British corporation, is seeking to have its liability for the million dollars worth of claims lodged against it for the loss of life and property in the catastrophe limited under American law to the value of the salvage, the freight and passenger fares received on the trip, in all about $50,000. A millionaire's honor roll will be heard when the court calls a series of cases during the week, involving the legality of the Payne-Aldrich tariff tax imposed on foreign built yachts.

The contempt case against Samuel Compers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor will be considered again by the court. About two years ago the court set aside the jail sentences imposed on them by the local courts because of the method of procedure. Among other cases to be argued is the Henry contempt case, growing out of the money trust hearing.

At St. Louis and Notre Dame, de Lourdes the Christmas music will be repeated, and special music has been prepared for the vesper services. At St. Joseph's church a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at 9 o'clock for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Rosa Lima Roy, wife of Isaac Roy, Rev. Avile Amyol, O. M. NO MORE MIXED DANCES

Quincy School Committee and Woodward Institute Trustees to Veto Un-Mixed Dances

QUINCY, Jan. 2.—Not only have the modern dances been tabooed at school functions by the school committee and the Woodward institute trustees, but no mixed dances in the school buildings will be permitted until the present tendency is changed. The trustees of the Woodward institute are clergymen, and many of the school board members are physicians. The action of both bodies came yesterday as the result of a report made by A. J. Barber, superintendent of schools, who said that while in his opinion the dancing he had observed at school functions was the cleanest and farthest removed from the current extreme dancing, this condition prevailed only as the result of ceaseless interference on the part of masters and teachers, and he questioned whether there was enough value attached to repay the rigid censoring which was involved.

HELD REGULAR MEETING

L'Union Garin Nationale Independent held its regular meeting last evening in Grafton hall, Merrimack street and, as usual, considerable routine business was transacted. The reports of the various officers of the society were heard, and were declared acceptable. Three new applications for membership were received by the society, which will be considered before the next meeting. Remarks were made by different members and the meeting adjourned at an early hour. A good number of French societies and clubs had meetings scheduled for last evening, but most of them were postponed, and will take place tonight instead.

PRES. GOMEZ GREETED

CARACAS, Ven., Jan. 2.—President Gomez returned to the capital yesterday after an absence of five months. He brought with him the army of 7,000 men with which he had been encamped at Maracay since early in August when General Cipriano Castro, the former dictator, made an unsuccessful attempt to bring about a revolution. The soldiers marched through the principal streets and were then drawn up in front of Miraflores palace, where they were reviewed by the president. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

BERTHA ELDRIDGE THE COLDEST DAY

Yesterday Worst of the Present Winter - 15 Above Registered

The case of Bertha Eldridge, the companion of James Prindle the "ax-man," came up in juvenile session this morning on continuance. The girl was accompanied by her mother and a Boston attorney. The police were convinced this morning that the girl really does not know where any of the stolen articles which Prindle stole are now hidden. She promised to go back to her home and remain with her parents and upon these terms Judge Enright imposed a suspended sentence of the Industrial school at Lancaster. Armand Guenard, the youth accused of breaking into the store of George Boucher, came up for a hearing this morning, but his case was held over for another week in order that the police may look up his record more thoroughly. On account of the large number of juvenile cases the regular session of police court did not open until a late hour.

APPROVES SEC. LANE'S PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The proposal of Secretary Lane to withdraw all lands of the public domain believed to contain radium in the interest of the public good, meets with the hearty approval of Dr. C. D. Smith, director of the federal geological survey. "Secretary Lane's proposal for legislation," says Dr. Smith in a statement issued today, "is in line with congressional legislation of the last three years in authorizing executive resources and it is a recognition that radium has become one of the most important resources whose real value is not measured by its vital usefulness to mankind."

Their action is the first move in a campaign of the women of Washington against objectionable theatrical productions.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., Jan. 2.

Count Zeppelin's ships are working overtime in order to turn out five new airships by the early part of April. Two are for the German army, two for the navy, and the fifth for passenger and experimental service. The venerable count is undaunted by the long list of disasters to his air craft, and the German emperor is backing him with moral support. On the count's 75th birthday last July he sailed his 20th dirigible, and he expects yet to cross the ocean in a balloon of his own type.

23 SAVED AS BOAT SINKS BOY SHOT CHUM SMITH WON FROM PELKEY

Crew of Fishing Schooner in Night of Terror as Gale Pounds Vessel on False Spit

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Boston fishing schooner John J. Fallon sank late yesterday afternoon in four fathoms of water, just inside Kelley's ledge on False Spit. Her crew of 23 men were rescued by the wrecking lighter Salver and brought in to T wharf.

In the heavy seas rolling in before the driving northeast gale which raged outside, the wreck of the Fallon was pounded all night long.

The Fallon was running into port at 1 a. m. yesterday morning at the end of Captain Thomas Furlong's first trip in her, with 45,000 pounds of groundfish and 2000 pounds of halibut. She was standing too far to the northward after passing Bug Light, and grounded on False Spit near the spindle. The tide was about six hours ebb, and when dawn broke she was discovered on the rocks by the Stony beach life savers who put out to her.

Two of her crew were brought into Boston for provisions, for the larger aboard ship was down to barrel scraps of food, black coffee and the fish in her hold. A tug and a wrecking lighter were contracted for, and in the afternoon an effort was made to drag the stranded schooner off the bar. The strain of the terrific pulling and hauling she put upon her hull from her keel and the vessel filled and sank like a plummet. Her crew had barely time to grab a few of their belongings and scramble aboard the lighter before their vessel settled under to her decks.

The Fallon had had luck on this, her first trip out with Skipper Furlong, having caught her main boom of 20 feet in a squall on the fishing grounds. She was making port under a jery sail rigged on her broken boom when she struck the rocks.

The John J. Fallon is the third fishing schooner from the grounds to strike in the outer harbor in three consecutive days. The Javiera grounded on Ram Head Monday before dawn, the Juno struck at the same point Tuesday morning.

A complaint is being discussed for presentation before the lighthouse authorities early in the month in regard to a rearrangement of the gas buoy in the outer bay.

Sparrow Alighted on Gun Deflecting Course of Bullet

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A sparrow alighting upon the gun of William G. Berry, 15, of 126 Jerome street, West Medford, as he was about to shoot at a target on the wall of a barn in the rear of his home yesterday, caused the weapon to discharge and the bullet struck his companion, Julian L. Fulton, 15, of 110 Sharon street, West Medford, in the back.

The Fulton youth was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in the Medford police ambulance, where it was said last night that unless blood poison develops he will recover. The bullet was of 22 calibre.

The two youths were trying out a new Christmas rifle for the first time and had placed a target upon the barn wall. The Fulton boy was standing just in front of Berry as he was about to shoot, but out of the line of fire.

The second that the gun exploded a small sparrow alighted upon the barrel deflecting the course of the bullet, which lodged in the back of the Fulton boy.

SALEM LID STILL ON

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem did not resign yesterday, as in his opinion the Witch City is in a state of drought. Some few weeks ago, when citizens were about circulating petitions demanding his recall, Mayor Hurley issued a statement in which he said that he would resign on the first of the New Year if the "speak eagles" were not closed.

"Gunboat" Scores K. O. in 15th Cross Put Anderson Away in 7th—Wolcast Won—Other Bouts

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—"Gunboat" Smith, the California heavyweight, scored a decisive victory yesterday when he knocked out Arthur Pelkey, the much-heralded Canadian fighter, in the 15th round of their "white hope" championship battle in the Daly city open-air amphitheatre. The sailor was a strong favorite in the betting at odds of 7 to 10.

Smith's aggressiveness culminated in a clean cut right to the chin and his superior all-round work in all but two or three rounds did much to have his way to victory. Pelkey proved a keen disappointment, being slow and seldom taking the fight to his shifter opponent.

The fight opened with the gunner forcing matters with snappy lefts to the body and face that staggered Smith, and sent him to his corner bleeding from the mouth. The crowd cheered the Canadian and even late were made that he would win.

In the second round Smith scored heavily to the jaw, and in the third Pelkey pounded his man viciously over the kidney.

Rounds 4 and 5 were without feature, but in the sixth Smith forced to the front his bullock with snappy lefts to the body and face. He fought the Canadian to a standstill with left uppercuts, sending him to his corner dazed and bleeding from the mouth.

G.O.P. MAN LAUDS WILSON

There is No Room or Reason for Panic, Says John Wanamaker—Scores Republican Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—"We have lots of room in this country for courage, energy and enterprise, but there is no room or reason for a panic. What the president wants and the country wants are strong men—unselfish and broad visioned able men—to help him and his cabinet to lead the way. The motto for the new year is: 'Don't be blue.'"

With these words, almost at the end of a forceful and spirited address, the Hon. John Wanamaker, ex-postmaster general, yesterday at the Union League urged the members of that stalwart republican organization to give an opportunity to the democratic national administration to prove the worth of the new tariff and currency legislation.

Mr. Wanamaker sounded a note of optimism by declaring that he had no fear of any serious unsettlement of business or of any long disturbance of prosperity. He took to task the leadership of the republican party, which, by broken pledges, he said, had worn out the patience of good republicans.

Mr. Wanamaker expressed the opinion that the present tariff bill is far better legislation than either of the Cleveland bills, and he further expressed the belief that the manufacturers will be able to adjust themselves to the changed conditions in at least two-thirds of the items in the new schedules.

The address of Mr. Wanamaker was made at a private dinner given by the president, vice presidents and board of directors of the Union League. The dinner followed a reception held by members of the League. Mr. Wanamaker said:

"I do not presume to speak to you as a manufacturer, but no other class of men is as closely allied to the user of raw materials who produces merchandise as the commercial men, of whom I am one."

"I have long been of the opinion that the rock bottom foundation of business prosperity is the manufacturer coupled with the distributor of the manufactured articles. Neither ships, railroads nor banking can play much, if any, paying game in any country during the chill silences of mill wheels and forgers hammers."

"Naturally, a change of a long established tariff has a disturbing influence."

The concluding feature was "The Obstinate Family," presented by six people of the Pawtucket Congregational church. The affair was enjoyed by all those present.

The candy table was in charge of Mrs. Sawyer's Sunday school class as follows: John Westbrook, Elliot Knapp, Edith Cochrane, Edward Daly, Ernest Tupper, Harold Stanley, Bruce Knapp, Edward Alcott, Hilbert Platt, Mark Chelwyed.

PAWNSHOP HELPS CUPID

A young couple, exhibiting shyness, vented into the municipal pawnshop yesterday. They paused for an instant just inside the doorway. Ralph Perry, in charge, looked up from his work of making entries in a ledger. An assistant also looked up.

"I'll bet they think they can get a marriage license here," Perry remarked under his breath.

The couple approached the desk, and the man drew his watch from his pocket.

"I want to get $10 on my watch," said the man.

Perry examined the watch, and said he could give no more than $5 on it.

"That isn't enough. We want to get married, and then go down to her home," said the man, nodding to the young woman, indicating for whom the "he" was meant. "We want about $10." At this juncture the young woman stepped forward.

"I can put my watch in too," she said.

Montauks, Associate, tonight.

Harold MacGrath's

JANUARY 4, 1914

Harold MacGrath, the famous author of "The Man on the Box," has written a new story. It is a story so intensely human in its situations, so unusual in its setting, and is told so fascinatingly by this master writer of fiction that it holds you spellbound from the opening sentence to the happy finale on the last page. Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it the greatest novel that MacGrath has ever written.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn"

When the manuscript of this great story was finished the dramatic rights were purchased at once by the Selig Polyscope Co., a famous playwright prepared it for the motion picture stage, and the play is now being witnessed by millions of people at leading motion picture theatres all over the country, with the beautiful Kathlyn Williams—the greatest of all motion picture actresses—playing the part of the heroine. The play is so long that it takes 26 full-length reels to present it, and it is therefore being shown in instalments, two reels at a time, at intervals two weeks apart. It is the longest and most pretentious drama ever put on the motion picture stage.

So now you can get double the enjoyment from this fascinating story that you've ever gotten from a novel before. For you cannot only follow the heroine in the story through all her wonderful adventures—from her beautiful home in California to the dense jungles of Allaha and among the savage tribes of Hindustan—but you can also actually see her in your favorite motion picture theatre—see Kathlyn herself with your own eyes in every hairbreadth adventure and thrilling escape from jungle beasts and Hindu Brigands. Instalments of story will appear in the Globe every Sunday, keeping pace with the dramatized version as it appears at the motion picture theatres.

ON THE HOSPITAL ISSUE

Movement to Force a Special Election to Allow the Voters of Lowell to Settle the Question

As citizens are aware, ever since the present city government voted to acquire the Dr. Pillsbury property for contagious hospital purposes, the Andover street residents have been seeking to prevent this property coming into the hands of the city for that purpose. For some days they have been circulating what they call the people's petitions for a referendum, and many people have signed these petitions in the belief that the voters would have an opportunity to vote upon this question. It now appears that some of these Andover street people are quietly stating that they do not expect the people will finally have an opportunity to vote on this subject, but that the referendum petitions will accomplish their object by suspending under the charter for another ten days the vote of the present city government to acquire the Pillsbury place.

But before these added ten days will have expired the new city government will have become inaugurated, and evidently the Andover street residents have faith to believe that the next city government will not permit the contagious hospital to be located in Belvidere, and the new government can accomplish that purpose by reconsidering and repealing the vote of the present government.

end of any line of street cars which does not pass through Andover street. But their complaint is that a choice residential section like Andover street should not be chosen for contagious hospital purposes. If the people do not ratify the selection of the Pillsbury property, then the whole problem will be reopened and the final resting place for the hospital will become wholly uncertain. The Andover street people have alleged that the city would in the end save money by taking some of the poor farm land on Chelmsford street, but it is well known that this site was examined recently by the state board of health and was not one of the locations which in the report to the city government was called suitable. Perhaps this site was rejected because it stood only 10 feet above a large adjoining swamp which really constitutes the head of Hater's brook and would be a most unhealthful location for victims of tuberculosis.

Furthermore, people suffering from tuberculosis and from other contagious diseases such as measles, chicken pox, scarlet fever, etc., will not wish to be regarded as paupers, as would be the case if they were inmates of a contagious hospital located on the poor farm land. Many people have felt that for this reason the recent enthusiastic endorsement of the poor farm site for a contagious hospital by Andover street residents, possesses an element of brutal harshness and lack of consideration for the feelings of the people who will be sent to the institution.

view of the trouble and delay the city government has had in locating this contagious hospital, the people in each section of the city objecting to every site mentioned in their locality, it begins to look as though the hospital would never be located until the people themselves had fixed the location by their votes. Meanwhile, the attorney-general, under the statute, is proceeding against the city to collect a $500 fine for delay and repeated fines can be imposed upon each added complaint. The Andover street people do not object to the location of this hospital in Centralville or the Highland or Pawtucketville or at the end of the Lawrence street car line or at the

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team went down to defeat last night at the hands of the fast quintet of Manchester players. While the score stood 23 to 17 against the local team, last night's victory is a hollow one for the New Hampshire five. Only one player on the local team was a regular.

The man from Massachusetts did not have much chance with Mr. G. Smith in their little party at the Pacific coast yesterday. Smith improves every time that he steps into the ring, and great things are prophesied of him by many of the ring experts who have seen him in action. Telly couldn't keep away from the sailor's left hand any more than Langford was able to a few weeks ago. By the way, there is still a doubt in the minds of many as to whether Smith is really a better man than the Boston Tar Baby and another match between these two is not at all improbable.

Well, Leach Cross has done this so many times that we shouldn't expect anything else. How Anderson, knowing as much as he does about ring tactics and having his last experience in mind, could ever be drawn in by the Hebrew's stalling is beyond us. Cross has done the same thing many times, but there's one born every minute.

The new pitcher who Manager Stallings of the Braves has secured from the San Antonio club of the Texas league is reported to be one of the largest men playing baseball. His name is Corcoran and he stands nearly six feet and a half in height.

Battling Levinsky knocked out Tom

Daly last night for his third victory by the slam-bang route within the last ten days. Daly outweighed him by nearly fifty pounds but could not stand the punishment passed out by the husky light heavyweight.

It looks as though Harry Breymer, the star backstop of the Lawrence club would be missing from the down river lineup next season. Breymer has written Manager Pieper several letters asking for his release so that he can assume the management of a ball club next season. Pieper has not given him his release as yet and probably will not do so unless the owners of the team Breymer expects to manage come across with the all important figure. Pieper isn't overlooking any side bets by any manner of means.

The Lawrence Military Athletic association is planning for a big track and field meeting to take place in the Lawrence armory this winter. The Lawrence military quarters are fully equipped for a first class track and the idea is meeting with enthusiasm among the followers of track and field games in Lawrence. If the proposed meet goes through Lowell high and Lawrence will probably clash in a mile relay.

Hobe Baker defeated the Toronto team last night at the Boston rink. Of course the Tiger player was accompanied on to the ice by six other Princeton players but they had little to do but take the puck after Baker had dribbled it through the entire defense of the Canadians. The score of the contest was: Princeton 5, University of Toronto 1.

DOORMATS DEPART WITH NEW YEAR'S CALLER WHO IS OVERHAULED IN A CEMETERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—While Lieut. Thompson was at the desk in the West One Hundred and Fifty-second police station yesterday afternoon the door opened slowly and a man entered. The caller was of elderly appearance, whose natural gentility had apparently not only survived but had been intensified by New Year's calls and attendant ceremonies.

With some difficulty the caller voyaged from the door to the railing, on which he leaned, then smiled benevolently upon the lieutenant and all the world.

"Happy New Year, Lieutenant," he observed. "The only trouble I've had in the past year has been due to wet feet. I've resolved to see to it that I keep my feet dry in the future."

The lieutenant acknowledged the greeting, and after philosophical observations on the condition of the world, the caller headed out. As he turned he appeared to drop something, stooped to pick it up, then continued to the door, where he stooped again before going into the street.

A moment later the lieutenant looked over the desk and discovered that two doormats were missing. A glance up the street revealed the New Year's caller in full flight, waving a mat in each hand.

Doorman Kearney, Patrolman Welsh and Detective Galvin were called and pursued the fugitive into Trinity cemetery, at One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, where he was caught after an attempt to hide in the shrubbery.

When taken to the station house the prisoner said he was Frederick Kogel, sixty-one, of No. 521 West One Hundred and Fifty-first street. He was sent to Washington Heights hospital for observation. The doormats were returned to their posts.

Aviator Thornely Escapes Injury, However, in Eastbourne, Eng.—His Machine is Demolished

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Joe Thornely, an aviator, had a miraculous escape yesterday, at Eastbourne, when, while making a spiral flight, his machine fell from an altitude of 2000 feet and crashed into a dike. It was completely demolished, but the aviator was thrown out a few feet above the ground and was not injured.

PREVENT MINE ACCIDENTS KILLED BY AUTO

Steps Taken by State Authorities of Pennsylvania to Lessen Number of Mine Disasters

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—Letters have been sent to the general superintendents and general managers of every coal mine in the state by James E. Frederick, state chief of mines, urging them to take measures to reduce the number of accidents. In the same mail the chief sent letters to the mine inspectors of the state service notifying them of the despatch of the letter and directing them to notify the department at once if they find that suggestions for safety are not being followed out. In case of persistent violation of directions for safety, the inspectors are instructed to institute suits.

During the 11 months ending Nov. last 310 lives were lost inside the mines at Pennsylvania against 463 for the corresponding period of 1912.

MARATHON RACE

Hans Holmer, Who Appeared Here, in Scotland Race Today

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 2.—Hans Holmer, the Canadian long distance runner, who among many notable victories had won the marathon race conducted at the Lowell, Mass., automobile carnival sports, led a large field of professional runners this afternoon in the annual Powderhall Marathon race, winning the 15 mile run in 1:22.12. This is 2 seconds behind the record.

Holmer was followed to the tape by George Dinning of London, England, last year's winner, and Willie Kolchman of Finland, the winner in 1912. The three men were closely bunched from the ten mile mark until they entered the straightaway for home, when the Canadian sprinted and won handsomely.

TAXES BASED ON SOCIETY NEWS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2.—When Governor Cox appointed Charles Doran and Peter McCarthy tax assessors of Hamilton county the two officials decided to place on the taxable list millions of personal property not hitherto included in the tax returns.

To this end they have opened war on the members of Cincinnati's exclusive set and are using the society columns of the local newspapers as a medium through which to determine just what jewels and costly gowns and furs are in the possession of Cincinnati's 400.

They clipped out the newspaper reports of the holiday ball given at the Shinton house on Tuesday evening and noted the few and garments worn on that occasion.

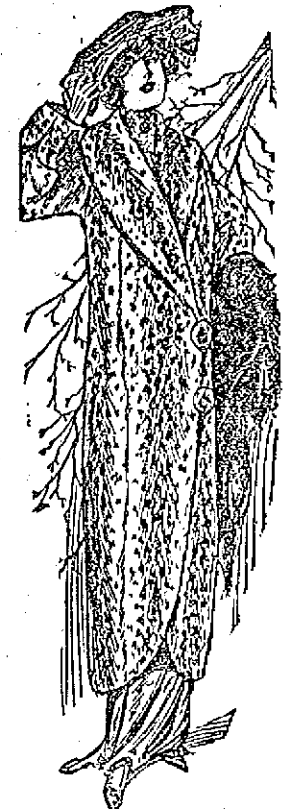

A card index will be made and when the deputy assessors make their rounds the members of society will be asked to include the jewels and gowns they wore on occasions reported in the society columns of the newspapers.

SIGNS OF ECONOMY

"Pipes and pennies among the working people indicate the coming of hard times as surely as the flight of the wild birds to the southland points the coming of winter," said Joseph Batley, of Muncie, Ind., at the Shoreham.

"I have noticed for a generation that whenever the wage-earner walks up to a bar and hands out five pennies for a glass of beer, then fills his pipe from a handful of tobacco, he carries in his pocket, instead of using larger coin and smoking a cigar, business conditions are uncertain.

"Years ago a philosophical saloon-keeper pointed out to me that pennies and pipes instead of nickels and cigars in barrooms foreshadowed the coming of harder times. I have watched for a number of years to see whether that philosophical saloonkeeper was right in his theory, and I have found it so wherever I have been. The reason seems to be that when times are good the workman hands his pennies to the children and smokes cigars, but when the pressure of the lack of funds strikes him he not only refrains from passing over the pennies to his kids, but sometimes even robs the children's banks."—Washington Post.

COAL MINING IN SOUTH

INCREASED PRODUCTION IN 1913 IN MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, ALABAMA AND TENNESSEE

The coal production of 1913 in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the southern Appalachian field showed a normal increase over 1912, according to advance estimates by Edward W. Parker, of the United States Geological Survey.

The production in Maryland was not materially different from that of the preceding year, approximating 5,000,000 short tons, and as the "big vein" of Maryland is approaching exhaustion in many of the larger operations, any material increase in the output of the state is not to be expected, although there still remain important resources of coal in the lower and thinner beds.

In Virginia and in West Virginia the output of coal in 1913 was from 5 to 10 per cent. in excess of that in 1912. Labor troubles in the Cabin Creek and Paint Creek districts of the Kanawha field were settled during the early part of the year, resulting in the securing of a foothold by the labor organizations in some of the coal-mining districts of the southern part of the state. During the spring in addition to the labor difficulties, shipments to the west were cut off to some extent by disastrous floods in the Ohio valley region. The supply of labor in West Virginia, as in Pennsylvania, was not equal to the demand, a condition which tended to restrict the production so that at times the railroads were in a position to handle considerably larger tonnages than the mines were able to furnish. During the first half of the year the demand for coke was insistent and spot prices were good, but the output was also somewhat restricted by the shortage in labor.

INCREASE IN SOUTHERN APPALACHIAN FIELD

In Alabama and Tennessee the production of coal was from 3 to 6 per cent. greater in 1913 than in 1912 and was somewhat evenly distributed throughout the entire year. Market conditions showed some improvement in 1913 over 1912. A number of companies in Alabama were forced into receiverships in 1912, but were able to have the receivership dissolved during 1913. Several new mines were opened in that state and have been furnishing a gradually increased output since the spring of 1913. Other mines have added improvements and extended their workings to provide for an increased tonnage. An encouraging feature reported by some of the mining companies is a better labor supply than is reported from some of the other states, miners having been recruited from other lines of industrial pursuit. The output per man and the efficiency of the employees have shown an increasing tendency because of improved sanitary and living conditions, and because of increased wages put in force last February. The wages for mining and for mine labor which have prevailed during 1913 are said to be higher than ever before in the history of coal mining in Alabama. The slight increase in the output of coal in both Alabama and Tennessee appears to be attributable to the more satisfactory labor conditions and to a better supply of railroad cars that existed in 1912. An increased demand for bunker coal in the Gulf trade also took a part of the increased production. The demand for domestic and steam coals was, if anything, slightly less than in 1912. The production of coal in eastern Kentucky showed a material increase over that of 1912.

MEDAL FOR PROF. KING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—A medal of honor has been awarded by the National Geographic society to the late Prof. F. H. King as a recognition of a warning he gave to the United States to follow the conservation methods of China if it hopes to endure. Professor King has been dead for several months. Announcement of the award was made by the society today.

Prof. King was the author of a volume entitled "Farmers of Forty Centuries," in which he presents what the society believes is an ideal study of conservation. He described the methods by which the Chinese support nearly 600,000,000 persons on an area smaller than the improved lands of the United States, which they have tilled for thousands of years. Prof. King drew an interesting parallel for the farmers of the United States to consider.

INQUIRY INTO EXPENSES DENOUNCES B. & M. PLAN

Of Public Service Corporations—William B. Lawrence Says That Circular Issued by the Public Service Commission it is a Scheme to Plunder the Stockholders

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Jan. 2.—In a new form of blank just issued to the Bay State Street Railway company and the Boston & Maine railroad, the public service commission requires the companies to certify to all "general expenses" assumed by the companies that is not directly connected with the operating of railroads. Similar blanks were sent to all the railroads and street railway companies in Massachusetts.

In their blanks the officials of the company must enter, under an affidavit as to the accuracy of their return, the amounts paid by the companies to all persons who are not engaged in the operation of the road. It is said to be the purpose of the commission to determine if the companies are expending any money to influence legislation, to control any of the political parties of the state, to defeat or elect any certain candidates or to mould public opinion through the newspapers and advertising agencies.

The questions asked of the companies by the public service commission are in part as follows:

"All payments made by it, directly or indirectly, to any newspaper, periodical or advertising agent, or to any employee there or writer thereof, together with all other payments of every kind for advertising or other publicity, excluding, however, expenses contracted for the distributing and printing of timetables, telephone directories, circulars and pamphlets of information, issued directly by such company to its patrons and the general public in the name of the company or one of its officers."

"All salaries and expenses paid to and through its regular legal department to attorneys resident in Massachusetts or doing business for the company in Massachusetts, but not including payments for damages to persons or property."

"All payments for legal services to any person doing business in Massachusetts for the company although not regularly connected with its legal department, and any expenses made and paid through such employee."

"All payments for service of any character rendered to the company in connection with legislation in Massachusetts, as concerning the legislature or any commission, board or public official or state or county."

"All sums paid for influencing the nomination or election of any person to any office in Massachusetts, or for the purpose of assisting any person or political faction."

"A sworn statement of all contracts or agreements for advertising, publicity or legal work in any way connected with proposed legislation or effort to influence public opinion or public officials of the company, representing the company, and outside agents."

"A record of all payments, how covered by the above questions, and which are included by the companies in their 'general expenses.'"

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—William B. Lawrence, arch enemy of the New Haven railroad, denounced yesterday the proposal of Chairman Howard Elliott and the directors of the New Haven railroad to turn the Boston & Maine railroad over to a board of voluntary trustees for 10 years.

Chairman Elliott he referred to as a "dirty finger of Richard Olney and the Morgan gang, who have plundered the Boston & Maine to the extent of many millions of dollars."

"It is a scheme," he declared, "to continue the plunder of the Boston & Maine and the poor stockholders for the benefit of the pocketbook of Morgan, the Standard Oil and Wall Street."

"On the face of it, it is a scheme to throw the Boston & Maine into the hands of the B. & M. by the New Haven, though in a different fashion, and to remove those now in control to a place of safety where they cannot be reached by the federal or state governments or by the stockholders."

"It is not particularly complimentary to the intelligence of the people of New England to propose such a plan. It is only an attempt to obtain government approval of a scheme to control the Boston & Maine just as effectively, yes, even more effectively than now."

"In proposing this scheme, by which they hope to so blind the department of justice that it will approve of it, Chairman Elliott is nothing more than a dirty finger of Richard Olney and the Morgan gang, who have plundered the Boston & Maine to the extent of many millions of dollars."

Beyond Federal Power

"The situation would be far worse than it is now. The dummy directors would be so far removed that it would not be within the power of honest federal or state authority, and they would be out of the reach of the stockholders. No one could be reached to compensate the stockholders who have been financially robbed of their property."

"The New Haven people have deliberately and consistently robbed the Boston & Maine and if they can get approval of their latest scheme, they will continue to rob it without even the possibility of interference for ten years more."

The talk about the possibility of the Fitchburg being sold to the Delaware & Hudson pure nonsense and a wild idea. Years ago the Morgans prevented the

WHITE STAR LINER LASHED BY BIG WAVES ON CHRISTMAS—MEN INJURED

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A New Year's tale of a rough Christmas at sea was brought into port yesterday by the American liner New York, running in the White Star service from Southampton and stopping at Cherbourg and Queenstown.

After the ship left Queenstown Christmas afternoon the gale came on and kept increasing during the night. A wicked sea that combed over the bows washed along everything that was not lashed down. In that class were Quartermaster Frederick Ellis and Julius Warren, a seaman. They tumbled over and over as they were swept aft on the wave's crest. They were flung against the rail, which prevented them from going overboard.

The men were picked up and borne aft by shipmates under direction of Capt. W. J. Roberts. Ellis' left leg was broken and Warren had a deep scalp wound. Dr. William Stump, the ship's surgeon, attended the men. The quartermaster was removed to a shore hospital yesterday.

On Wednesday night at the concert the passengers raised $50 for the men. That night William Russell, a 14-year-old, was knocked from the bridge step by a wave and bruised severely.

For two days the New York fought westerly seas, piled up and driven against her by the gale.

When the New York was made fast to the upper side of Pier No. 61, North river, her sister ship, Philadelphia, lay on the lower side of Pier No. 62. It was the first time in more than a decade that the two ships had been in port together, and Capt. R. M. Mills of the Philadelphia and Capt. Roberts had the first opportunity in years with their officers to splice the mainbrace and wish a happy new year.

NOTES FROM CITY HALL

MANY APPLICANTS FOR CHAUFFEUR LICENSES—1137 MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED DURING YEAR

The requisition for the purchase of an automobile ambulance has been received by Purchasing Agent Foye and he will consider all bids sent to his office before Jan. 3 at 3:30 o'clock. The cost of the machine must not exceed $4000 and the agent of the one purchased must be in a position to deliver it within 90 days after he receives the order.

Applicants for Chauffeurs

Despite the inclement traffic weather this morning about 25 applicants for licenses to operate an automobile were at city hall waiting for Mr. Dolan of the Massachusetts highway commission, who does the examining. When he arrived each man was taken in a machine and his qualities as a driver were given a thorough test.

Draft Year for Culpit

During the past year 1137 marriage licenses were issued at the city clerk's office, this being 22 more than the number granted during the previous year. June and October are the months when Culpit was the busiest, although very few days passed by that none was issued.

The work of the street and engineering departments was continued today, both the police forces and the street and gutter men being on hand at the same hour as they were yesterday.

DEPORTATION OF MOYER

TELEGRAM RECEIVED BY GOV. PERVIS FROM SHERIFF CRUSE CONTAINED NEW INFORMATION

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 2.—A telegram received today by Governor Ferris from Sheriff Cruse of Houghton county dealing with the alleged deportation of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners contained information entirely new to the governor. Cruse said that Deputy Hinesley reported to him that on the night of the alleged attack a crowd had Moyer in front of the Scott hotel and threatened to lynch him and throw his body into the lake.

Hinesley prevailed upon the crowd to send Moyer away on a train, and that they finally agreed to do so, said Cruse in his message. "Hinesley got on the train with Moyer and learned that he was wounded. The conductor wired ahead and had a physician meet the train at Winona. Hinesley accompanied Moyer as far as Channing."

Captain Chester McCormick, in command of the artillery company stationed at Houghton, today telegraphed the governor that the striking miners have disregarded the ultimatum issued by the operators, that they should return to work Jan. 1 or their places would be filled.

ORDER ISSUED BY JUSTICE SHELDON

For Mandamus Brought by Attorney General Swift Against City of Lowell at the Instigation of the State Board of Health

In the supreme judicial court before Judge Sheldon at Boston this forenoon the petition for writ of mandamus to compel the city of Lowell to establish and maintain an isolated hospital was heard and the order for the mandamus issued.

Assistant Attorney General Marshall represented the commonwealth and City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy represented the city of Lowell.

The averments alleged in the petition, Mr. Marshall said, were agreed to be substantially true.

He touched on the controversy in Lowell relative to the building of the hospital and he thought it would hasten matters if the order as petitioned

for should issue.

Mr. Hennessy said, after Mr. Marshall reported, that while he admitted the facts as represented by Mr. Marshall, he felt it his duty to represent to the court what the attitude of the city government of Lowell has been toward the erection of an isolation hospital as required by law.

He said that attempts had been made many times to procure a site and establish such hospital and that the very day upon which the petition was presented to the court, the municipal council passed an order duly authorizing the appropriation of $21,000 for a site for such hospital as is "contemplated by law, an isolation hospital."

Mr. Hennessy called the court's attention to the fact that at the present time a bill of complaint which has been entered in the superior court was being heard today.

Justice Sheldon issued the order for the mandamus. He did not hesitate because, he said, he had no alternative.
He referred to the fact that the city of Gloucester had been before the court on a like complaint and the order in that case, too, he said had been issued.

"The statute," he said, "is very plain in the matter."

"It said it was mandatory upon him to issue the order and now it is mandatory upon the city to establish the hospital."

Third Edition COURT DISSOLVES THE RESTRAINING ORDER

In Connection With Bill in Equity Brought by Remonstrants to Hospital on Pillsbury Estate

A hearing on the bill in equity brought by fifteen taxable inhabitants of the city of Lowell to prevent the completion of a contract between Dr.
Pillsbury and the city for the purchase of his estate as a site for an isolation hospital, came up for hearing before Judge Jenney in the superior court at Boston this forenoon, less than thirty minutes after the supreme court at the other end of the corridor had allowed the order for a writ of mandamus brought by the attorney general to compel the city of Lowell to build a contagious or isolation hospital.

Albert S. Howard appeared for the petitioners, F. E. Dunbar for Dr.
Pillsbury and City Solicitor J. Joseph
Hennessy for the city.

Upon representation of the city solicitor, who, by the way, was a very busy man, having cases in two courts at one and the same time, the restrain-ing order was dissolved and the case will be heard on its merits on Tuesday next.

MAN HANGED FOR MURDER

Arthur Bosworth Executed at Windsor, Vt., Today for the Murder of May Labelle

WINDSOR, Vt., Jan. 2.—Arthur Bosworth was hanged at the state prison this afternoon for the murder of May Labelle at Essex Junction in June,
1911. The drop fell at 1.26.

Bosworth was pronounced dead at 1.13. According to the prison physician the man's neck was dislocated and death was practically instantaneous.

The execution was said by witnesses to have been successful, in contrast to the last two hangings in Vermont. A year ago, when Elroy Kent was hanged, the rope broke and the unfortunate man had to be carried up on the scaffold and hanged a second time.
When Mrs. Mary Rogers was executed some years ago, the rope was too long and the woman's toes touched the floor when the drop was sprung.

Bosworth met death bravely. On the scaffold he shook hands with his spiritual adviser, Rev. Parker C. Manser, rector of the Episcopal church and thanked him for his kindness during Bosworth's stay in the prison.

The condemned man made no remarks from the scaffold, beyond saying, "I have nothing to say," when Sheriff J. H. Kinnear asked him if he desired to make any statement before sentence was executed.

Bosworth shot and fatally wounded
May Labelle, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Labelle on the platform of the railroad station at Essex Junction on June 7, 1911. She died two days later. Bosworth was immediately arrested and was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The case was carried to the supreme court, which affirmed the verdict and Bosworth was sentenced to be hanged Jan.

12, 1912. Under a statute then in force the execution of a murderer was for-bidden until after a session of the legislature had intervened. The session of 1912 had not ended on the date set for Bosworth's execution and Governor Fletcher granted a reprieve until today. The legislature declined to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Bosworth, who was a model prisoner during his long imprisonment, was born in England 29 years ago. His mother is still living in that country.
While in prison Bosworth admitted he had been drinking on the day of the murder and that he recalled having grasped with Mrs. Labelle and shooting her once. He declared that he had no recollection of the three other shots which took effect. He denied that he had threatened or planned to kill the young woman, who was employed as a kitchen maid in a hotel at Essex Junction. Bosworth had worked at the same hotel and had been discharged shortly before the murder.

—AT OJINAGA WIRE
CUT DOWN

MARIA, Texas, Jan. 2.—Reports came this afternoon from Ojinaga, where the federal army is being attacked by rebels under General Ortega, that the battle was still in progress.
The federals were holding their position while the six thousand or more rebels were apparently drawing in closer.

The army's telegraph wire to Presidio,
Texas, has been cut.

MAJOR McNAMEE PREPARED FOR EXPECTED FLIGHT OF FED-
ERALS ACROSS BORDER

MARFA, Texas, Jan. 2.—General Ortega's 6000 rebels besieging Ojinaga, Mexico, had approached nearer to the fortifications before daylight today and apparently the federals could not hold out much longer. The last word received from Major McNamee, commanding the United States border patrol at Presidio, was that the desertions from the federal army had elacened. The federals had received some of their back pay, Major McNamee said, and this had checked desertions.

Major McNamee had the situation well in hand in preparing for an expected flight of the entire federal army across the border. The danger of the federals drawing the rebel fire closer to the border in case of a flight was considered but the border patrol had received the promise of General Ortega that the fire would be directed away from the river. General Villa has more ammunition on the way from Chihuahua and hoped to replenish the rebel supply at Ojinaga before it was exhausted. The federals have no way of

The federals wounded at Presidio
have all been removed to the mission church there in care of the Red Cross.
The federal commander asked Major McNamee to permit the removal of the wounded to Ciudad Porfirio, Diaz, Mexico, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, but the request was refused.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED
NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A verdict for $6000 damages against the New York,
New Haven & Hartford railroad in favor of Mrs. Arthur M. Curtis, widow of the engineer of the Federal express which was wrecked near Bridgeport, Conn., July 11, 1911, was set aside today by the appellate division of the supreme court. In this wreck Curtis and a number of passengers were killed.
The main point at issue is whether the wreck is due to negligence of the engineer or some other employee. The appellate division held that it had not been proved at the trial that Curtis was not negligent. A new trial was ordered. Mrs. Curtis sued for $50,000.

Morgan Makes Statement
J. P. Morgan made this statement today:

"The necessity of attending many board meetings has been so serious a burden upon our time that we have long wished to withdraw from the directorate of many corporations. Most of these directorships we have accepted with reluctance and only because we felt constrained to keep in touch with properties which we have reorganized or whose securities we had recommended to the public both here and

"An apparent change in public sen-now to warrant us in seeking to re-change in sentiment upon the subject that we shall be in a better position

From Lindale, Ga.

Robert W. Van Tassell, formerly of this city and now of Lindale, Ga., arrived in Lowell last night and will remain for a week or ten days. His wife accompanies him. Mr. Van Tassell was connected with the Shaw hosiery, in the position of master mechanic, for several years and was a member of the water board under the old government.

At the present time Mr. Van Tassell is connected with the Massachusetts mills in Georgia, the southern branch of the Massachusetts mills of this city.
He holds the same position as he did in the Shaw Stocking Co., that of master mechanic. He says that the mill business in Georgia is quite brisk and he likes the country very well. Lin-dale, where he is located, is a place of about 5000 inhabitants. The only industry there is the Massachusetts mill.
Lindale is only a little way from Rome,

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE:

Some weeks ago the management of the Merrimack Square theatre distributed cards upon which was asked the question: "What play would you like to see produced?" The patrons were then requested to sign the name of their favorite play and deposit the card in a letter box passing out of the theatre after the current week's bill. Something like $1,000 cards were deposited in the box and of these a little over one-third chose "The Chorus Lady," to be the play which one could witness again and again and never grow tired of seeing, and that's probably one of the many reasons why patrons chose it. All the different members of the cast will be seen to excellent good advantage, while Miss Young as "Patricia O'Brien" with a heart of gold, should make the crowning triumph in her career. Watch for new scale of prices.

D. E. KEITH'S THEATRE:

That show at the Keith theatre this week has the requisite variety and vim to hold an audience pleased from the time the "Pecora" do their "under-the-comedy" bar gymnastic act until Madame Mary's circus closes its series of stunts. It really is one all-around show, without a slow moment in it. The headline is a perfectly good drama, which holds plenty of first class acts. The ponies are small and sprightly, and the big horses are all thoroughbreds. The dogs, too, will please everybody. Several very funny clowns add to the variety of the act. "His Nerve," a highly dramatic sketch, is played admirably by the Broadway Players. If one likes an instrumental act then the Military Mads and Stewart will prove to be the right sort. Kimball & Donovan, banjoists, click out the very latest of melodies, and the "Tupling" singers have a little surprise. The "Pecora" are great bar performers, and Brooks and Bowen are funny blackface men. Four more performances of this show. The box office phone is No. 22.

OPERA HOUSE TODAY:

If you are in search of a hearty laugh go to the Opera House today and see the execrably funny "costume" photographs "Kitty's Knight" from the home of the S. & A. "Judge Malone, an artist's model, is in love with Kitty Casey, but Mike McManus is fast making his way into the crevices of Kitty's heart. He is a little better looking, but he makes a few dollars a week more than his rival. The night of the masquerade ball Kitty has trouble in choosing Mike, who has been named "Judge" she would go with him. Kitty weighs only about 70 pounds, while Mike is a big, strong, healthy six-footer, so he just picks her up under the arm and carries her to the dance hall. "Judge" is broke, so he borrows a suit of armor from his artist employer. Kitty recognizes "Judge" and on every occasion the two are together. "Judge" and his sweetheart win the first prize for their novel and beautiful costumes. This money they decide to use for a honeymoon and a ceremony, which causes Mike to make a disturbance, and results in his being placed in a cell in the police station for over night. The situations are exceedingly funny and there is action from the start to finish.

THE PLAYHOUSE:

The most meritorious week known to the Playhouse will close tomorrow with the final performance of "Madame Xue-Nie." This is positively one of the funniest productions known to the burlesque stage, and with a chorus working effectively, the entertainment is one of complete merit. The Lauder Brothers, Buddy Joyce and John Marion contribute most of the

ARIZONA METAL MINING

In 1913 there was a record mine production of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc in Arizona, according to preliminary figures of V. C. Helges, of the United States geological survey. The total value of the mine output was about $71,000,000, an increase of nearly 6 per cent. over the value of 1912, which was $67,050,784. The copper output was valued at nearly $64,000,000; the gold at about $3,948,000; the silver at more than $2,262,000; the lead at $612,000; and the zinc at $610,000.

The mine yield of gold in Arizona in 1913 was more than $1,000,000 ounces, an increase of 6 per cent. over the output of 1912, which was 181,936.91 fine ounces. Of this total, over 42 per cent. was taken from siliceous ores and most of the remainder came from copper-ores, which are undoubtedly the source of the increased gold output in 1913.

The three largest producing gold mines were the Tom Reed, Gold Roads, and Vulture. The Tom Reed output was about the same as in 1912, the Gold Roads had a slight increase, and the Vulture a substantial increase. In Yuma county operations were resumed at the La Fortuna mine.

The mine production of silver increased about 8 per cent., amounting to more than 3,778,000 ounces, against 3,490,337 ounces in 1912. Most of the silver was derived from copper ore, but in 1913 the increase is due largely to shipments of lead ore and concentrates from Cochise and Mohave counties. Much silver also comes from siliceous ore. About 500 tons of ore per month was shipped from the Tombstone property and a large tonnage of old tailings was taken from the Commonwealth dump. A 350-ton cyanide mill at this property was completed during the year.

With a mine production of about 414,593,000 pounds of copper in 1913, Arizona led all other copper-producing states. The output in 1913 shows an increase of more than 49,000,000 pounds, or about 12 per cent. over that of 1912, which was 365,028,645 pounds. As the price of copper was slightly lower in 1913, the value of the metal increased only about $3,500,000. There were 11 active copper smelting plants in the state, and ore and concentrate were also sent to 6 copper and lead plants in other states.

Of the former, the greatest increases in output were made at the Hayden, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Queen, Old Dominion, Consolidated Arizona, and Swansea plants. At the United Verde and Detroit plants there was little change from the figures of 1912. Those making less copper were the Shannon, Arizona Copper, and Pioneer plants. New plants were completed by the Arizona Copper and Calumet & Arizona companies, and another was in course of construction for United Verde ores. The disseminated copper mines in Gila, Pinal and Greenlee counties yielded approximately 145,000,000 pounds of copper. Included in this estimate of copper produced are the outputs of the Miami, Ray, Arizona Copper and Detroit mines. The Miami product did not greatly exceed that of 1912. The 3000-ton concentration plant was active and the product went mostly to Canada, Mexico. The International Smelting & Refining Co. will build a copper plant at Miami to treat this ore and that from the Inspiration mine. Test plants using the flotation process were operated at the Miami and Inspiration, as the saving by concentration alone is not sufficient. The Ray Consolidated Copper Co. greatly increased its output, from nearly 36,000,000 pounds of copper in 1912 to about 62,000,000 pounds in 1913, treating 6000 tons of ore per day. Production from Yuma and Pima counties was not what it could have been, since the Swansea and Pioneer plants were operated only a few months. At Globe greatly increased shipments were made from the Superior & Boston, Iron Cap

and Black Warrior mines, and in Pinal county from the Magma mine.

With an increase of more than 194 per cent., the mine production of lead was larger than in any other year. The total output was nearly 14,000,000 pounds, valued at about $612,000, as against $606,443 pounds, valued at $206,290 in 1912. The mines at Bisbee produced much lead ore, and in 1913 there was a large increase. The Shattuck mine became a regular producer of silver-lead ore as well as copper ore. In Mohave county an increased tonnage was shipped regularly from the Tennessee mine to the concentration plant at Needles, California.

The mine production of recoverable spelter was about 2,100,000 pounds, valued at $510,000, which was an increase of about 340,000 pounds, or nearly 4 per cent., over the production of 1912. On account of the lower price paid for the metal, the total value decreased more than $90,000. The Gekonda mine, in Mohave county, formerly the largest producer, was making shipments of zinc ore and concentrates only part of the year, and therefore had a greatly decreased output. Much ore was, however, shipped from the San Xavier mine in Pima county and much concentrate was made from Mohave county ores milled at Needles.

QUITS SMOKING

Solicitor Folk Consumed About Twenty Cigars a Day

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Joseph W. Folk, solicitor of the state department, has sworn off from smoking.

In doing so, he hopes, as he expresses it, to set a good example for the American.

Mr. Folk has for years been an inveterate smoker and his friends were greatly surprised when he declared that he had quit. His daily consumption of cigars averaged from 15 to 20.

BIG MEETING OF OWLS

The business meeting of the Owls in Elks hall last night was well attended. President J. W. Bowers presided. Many propositions for membership were received and referred to committee and a large class of candidates were initiated. The officers elected at the last meeting of the club were duly installed by Past President Edward M. Bowers. The installation ceremony was very impressive. The full ritual of the order was used. Many passages of Scripture were quoted and poems read.

Very impressive and appropriate memorial exercises were then held, under direction of Past President E. M. Bowers. A memorial hymn by Thos. E. Boucher, dedicated to the members who have passed away during the year just closed, was read with much feeling by E. M. Bowers. After these exercises a smoke talk and concert was given, refreshments were served and cigars passed. Those who took part were: Thomas Baxter, William Carvel, James McManus, the "Jolly club" quartet, Edward Lane and James H. Rogers. McGuire's orchestra was in attendance.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was Chairman John McCallum, John H. Rogers, James McManus, Thos. F. Buras, Wm. Hollingsworth and Cornelius Harrington.

Miner's Associate, tonight.

BLUNDER OF ILL HEALTH

WHAT PROFESSOR CAROT OF HARVARD SAYS OF OUR HABITS

Most sickness happens because someone has blundered—and that "someone" is apt to be you or me or all of us. Typhoid is a blunder in the water supply or the milk supply, or a blunder of someone who doesn't wash his hands.

Consumption is a blunder of schoolhouse construction and schoolhouse ventilation which makes school children breathe baked, sterile, vitiated air with all the life cooked out of it. We need real air, not a substitute supposed to be "just as good."

We need it in our homes and stores, our factories and offices; but we do not get it. We get furnace heated air, which is about as near to the real article as a furnace heated rose would be to a live rose.

Consumption is one of the punishments which we store up for ourselves when we make the stupid blunder of skinning ourselves on sleep. Sleep, sufficient, sound sleep, in pure air with the windows open, strengthens every organ to resist disease and to throw it off. It fortifies us against tuberculosis and against every other germ disease as well. It helps us to digest our food; it tones up our nerves and muscles; it improves our tempers and sharpens our ambitions. It doesn't cost a cent; yet it is worth more than the most expensive medicine.

We need just as much of it as we can get—just as much as our system will soak in. If you are still sleepy when it is time to get up, you are making the stupid blunder of wasting vital power by going to bed too late. You are inviting disease to pay you a visit—perhaps a long one.

Public health laws and public health officials can see that our markets, dairies and bakeries give us clean, fresh food. Make them do it. But remember that most of the germ diseases which are caused by our being starved of fresh air, starved of our full sleep and starved of sufficient nourishing food, are our own fault for the most part. This is just as true of food as it is of sleep and fresh air—the three essentials of good health. We blunder about our food and our drink in the same foolish muddle-headed way that we blunder about air and sleep. Sometimes our food isn't properly cooked. Sometimes we under-eat because we are too tired to eat and have given ourselves no chance to rest. Many times we bolt our food like animals—unchewed. Many times we spoil our appetites with candy or tea or rum, late hours and dissipation.

The government (which means all of us) can do much to provide pure air in schools, stores and factories, proper playgrounds and play masters for children, pure food and water. But government can't make us eat properly and sleep sufficiently. There, we must mind our own business. Public health will always be chiefly a question of private common sense.

Till mothers learn how to feed their babies and how to cook good meals, all the health laws in the world won't keep their families well. Till women learn to eat good food and men learn to drink pure water instead of poisoned rum, we shall never drive out disease through boards of health.

Meaning boards of health can do far more than they do if we, the taxpayers, will give them money and back them up. They can choke off disease in schools, in tenements and factories and stores by bringing the doctor and the nurse to our aid before we are sick. One of the greatest blunders of our present system is that we don't call the doctor until the disease is well under way. This is like calling the fire engine after the roof has fallen in. We must learn to use our doctors and nurses to keep us whole and not merely to patch us up after we have gone to pieces. This means:

(1) Efficient, well paid school physicians, school clinics and school nurses.

(2) Efficient, well organized insurance against sickness and accidents.

(3) The proper utilization by all the people of hospitals, district physicians and district nurses paid for by all the people for education and prevention as well as for cure.

Why should not the public and the doctors organize to take any steps in this direction which the people of Greater Boston can agree upon?

CONGRESSMAN MAKES REPLY TO ANDREW—NEVER SUGGESTED ANYONE WITHDRAW, HE SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Congressman Gardner yesterday made public the following letter which he has sent to Hon. A. Platt Andrew in answer to one which he has received from Mr. Andrew dated Dec. 30, 1913.

"My Dear Mr. Andrew: I am in receipt of your letter of Dec. 30, 1913. If I am correct in my interpretation of your words, you raise no objection to my being a candidate for congress against you. If I am wrong in my interpretation, please advise me at once. Unless I hear from you to the contrary I shall expect to become a candidate for re-election to congress in 1914.

Very truly yours,
A. P. G.

Owing to unexpected difficulties, the recently organized Club Association in West Centralville, has postponed its opening. The new club which was to have taken possession of the Bolshert building at the corner of West Sixth and Russell streets, had elected George Boucher as president, and all the plans had been completed, but unforeseen difficulties will make the opening of the club impossible at least for the present.

GIRL IS MISSING

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Up to last night no information had been received of the whereabouts of Miss Rose V. Fallon, the 18-year-old telephone operator who disappeared Tuesday.

It has been learned that she was seen in Forest Hills square early Tuesday evening, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Fallon of 332 Washington street, Forest Hills, were informed yesterday that on Wednesday she was seen at the South station.

If she intended to leave the city, however, she divulged her plans to nobody. A friend and fellow-operator, Miss Soile Stearns of Lawrence avenue, Roxbury, received a postcard on Wednesday, postmarked at the Jamaica Plain office at 9:30 Tuesday evening, on which Miss Fallon wrote she was going away, but would first let her friend know where.

Miss Stearns, however, has heard nothing further, and neither the girls' family nor the officials of the telephone company have the slightest clue as to what has become of her. Her parents and sisters are overcome with grief, and only pray that she may come home at once.

institutions was given here last night by Dr. Edwin R. Gould. Mr. Rosenwald is cooperating with Andrew Carnegie and Vincent Astor and others.

Dr. Gould said. It is probable that

Dr. Gould will be head of the system of banks, the first of which is to be established in Chicago with a capital of several hundred thousand dollars.

Lowell People Are Not the Only Ones Who Are Using Coburn's Laundry Blue.

A Westford lady recently wrote an order directing us to send two packages of Coburn's Laundry Blue to a friend of hers in Essex, King's county, N. B. She says the lady down East had tried it and was so well pleased with it that it is the "only kind she will use." This store receives many orders for its Laundry Blue from remote places. Householders like it because it gives a beautiful finish to linens and laces, bleaches white goods, and preserves the textures. Just think, an ounce of this blue powder makes a quart of the most excellent liquid bluing.

Why not make your own bluing with Coburn's Laundry Blue? Once 5c

ANOTHER FIRE

In Section of Montreal
Suffering From Water
Famine

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Fire yesterday in the section of the city suffering from a water famine because of a broken supply main, caused damage estimated at $100,000.

The firemen were compelled to stretch lines of hose nearly a mile. Snow from the streets was used for a time as a makeshift. A supply of dynamite was brought up for use in case the blaze gained threatening headway, but employment of the explosive was unnecessary.

The fire started in a two-story

Attended Housewarming of New Club House of the Vacation Savings Fund of National Civic Association

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—More than 700 working girls yesterday attended the housewarming of the new club house of the Vacation Savings Fund of the National Civic Association. Miss Anna Morgan, one of the leaders of the vacation committee, in explaining the objects of the new building, said it was hoped to make it a place of recreation for those of the 14,000 girls who are depositors in the vacation fund and who are taxpayers. A taxpayer, she explained, contributed one dollar yearly to the support of the house. There are no few restrictions in the entertainments offered and the "hustling" the one-step and the tango will be taught. "We feel," said Miss Morgan, "that it is a great deal better to let these girls learn the new dances under the right conditions than to let them go to the city hall. If we do that it only results in driving the girls to places that are even more vicious."

GENERAL STRIKE TO END STRIKE

Of Coal Barge Men in New York—Want Their Wages Increased

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A general strike of coal barge men it was announced yesterday following a meeting of the barge men's union will begin today. The coal barge men who demand an increase in wages from $50 to $60 a month recently presented their demands to the coal companies. The majority refused the demands.

It is estimated that a general strike of the barge men would tie up $500 coal barges and cut off the supply of the electric light and street railway powerhouses and other companies which handle the coal.

It was announced today. Charles McCormick, borough president of the Bronx announced yesterday that Nixon would accept the office.

FOREIGN MISSIONARY WORK

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 2.—"Ignorance on the part of a missionary will not hold the intellectual respect of the Orientals," declared Prof. Charles Henderson of the University of Chicago in urging better training of missionaries in social study and actual social service before the student volunteer convention for foreign missions here today. The object of the movement is to induce trained college men and women to volunteer for service in foreign fields. "Many kinds of social services are demanded by various situations," Prof. Henderson said, "not only caring for the sick and teaching boys team work in play but also translators of scientific literature are needed, to act as guides of municipal, provincial and national lawmakers who are already aware of the fact that they must learn from western science."

HUERTA CONFIDENT

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 2.—President Huerta, to all appearances, views the outlook for the new year with few misgivings. With his signing yesterday of a decree prolonging the period of bank holidays for 15 days, he is said to regard the immediate financial difficulty as overcome and is reported to have expressed entire confidence in his ability to solve the greater problem in the near future.

CHILDREN'S HOME EVENT

TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY WAS OBSERVED—ENTERTAINED BY THE CHILDREN

The Children's Home in Kirk street held its 12th anniversary yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 and during the afternoon a great many friends of the institution called to express their good wishes and congratulate the matron, Mrs. Ellen O'Leary on the splendid work she is doing.

The visitors first inspected the house and then attended an entertainment given by the children. The little ones had been well trained and they filled their parts with assurance. Following is the program:

Song, "Down from Heaven," chorus; recitation, Twenty-third psalm; recitation, "Bethlehem," Mabelle Reardon; song, "Shine Out, O Blessed Star," chorus; recitation, "Pure White Room," Catherine Anderson; song, "Jesus Was Born as a Little Child," choir; recitation, "Santa Claus," Alice Morse and Loretta Anderson; chorus, "The Shepherd's Song," piano solo, Mabelle Reardon; chorus, "America."

In the twelve years of its existence the children's home has done a great deal of charitable work and from the business point of view it has been eminently successful. The home was at first rented but was afterwards purchased. The work has outgrown the quarters so that at present Mrs. O'Leary is looking round for a more suitable location. One that she has in mind in the same locality could be purchased for $23,000 and this sum she hopes to raise.

One gratifying feature of the anniversary yesterday was that generous friends of the institution remembered it by substantial donations.

A FARM HOUSE SCHOOL

Complete freedom from restraint is the lot of the children who attend the experimental rural school at Winthrop college, Rock Hill, S. C., as described by Mrs. Hettie Browne in a bulletin of the United States bureau of education. There are no seats or desks in this school; no class rooms; no rules of silence; but a free activity guided and directed by a woman who is in complete sympathy with country children and country life.

In this and other respects observers have noted a resemblance to the Montessori schools, but Mrs. Browne began her work several years ago quite independently of the theories of Madame Montessori. Furthermore, the Rock Hill school makes no claim to a deliberate scientific basis; it is essentially an "experimental" school, where it is hoped to learn by actual experience what kind of a school is best adapted to rural life.

The school building is a farm house, with rooms fitted up as "sitting room," kitchen and workshop. A large veranda surrounding the house is used for the midday meal, which is served by the pupils at the school, and for other purposes. There is plenty of ground about the school, including space for a large garden.

The garden is the centre about which instruction revolves. From the study of soil and seed in the winter time to the actual planting, cultivating and harvesting at the other seasons, the garden remains the centre of the children's interest and activity.

Arithmetic, spelling, etc., are not taught as subjects, but only as the need for the arises in connection with the activities of home and garden. Laying out the garden involves arithmetic, and even geometry, both of which are absorbed by the children without effort. The making of towels for use at the school naturally develops new words having to do with sewing and many other things. And so on. Words and numbers are given the children only as the need for them develops, and then with as little formality as possible. The whole idea is for the children to find out things, if possible, without being told.

The children in this rural school are not assigned to "classes" and "periods," as in the traditional school. A visitor will see one group working in the garden, another group on the veranda sewing, another in the kitchen at a cooking task, and still another doing "numbers" or reading with the teacher in her room.

The aim of the Rock Hill school is thus summarized by Dr. A. F. Bourland in an introduction to the bureau's bulletin: "The resolve was to make a school that will train the farm children for their future work in the home, on the farm, and in the social life around them. Hence we began frankly with the activities of the farm. The aim was not a cut-and-dried plan, but rather a working idea to enable the teacher to create a growing agency for the development of farm life."

LEWISTON AND AUBURN

Attempt is Being Made to Transfer Brockton Franchise to Maine Cities—Carrigan Behind Move

A group of business men in Lewiston and Auburn, the two live Maine cities which are just across the river from each other, are leaving no stone unturned in an endeavor to break into the playing circuit of the "little old New England league." The proposition is backed by Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox, whose home is in Lewiston, and the proposition is lent a great deal of weight on this account. For several years past there has been a remote rumor sent around each spring, that Lewiston would be the playing home of one of the poorer paying clubs but nothing has come of it. There is a strong possibility next season, however, that the Brockton franchise may be transferred to the Maine city.

In a way it would prove a good thing for the league to have a club established within a short distance of Portland. Last year the teams stayed in Portland for three days as a rule when they made the trip in order to save traveling expenses. With Lewiston a member of the circuit the jump could be made from Portland to Lewiston, or vice versa, without a great deal of expense to the clubs.

The Lewiston Journal has the following story concerning the situation there that will be read with much interest in local baseball circles:

M. J. McDonough and Bill Carrigan of Lewiston called at the Lewiston Journal office Tuesday about New England baseball.

Neither of them wants to make a dollar on the proposition but they want to put Lewiston and Auburn on the map.

The manager of the Red Sox said little, but the little he did say meant much. "Baseball is wholesome," said he. "It is good for all. Lewiston ought to have a New England team. I will do all I can to help it along."

old Nichols Latin school. You land at the gate from the trolley and the street that runs east and west will be fine for automobile travel. The grounds could be easily leveled and sodded."

"Now what shall we do," continued Mr. McDonough, "to push the thing through. I think it should begin with the chamber of commerce. If these cities want to advertise they can't do it better, cheaper, more efficiently than by the constant reiteration of the name of their ball club in all the newspapers of the east. Portland saw it and her business men crowded the first public meeting to talk New England baseball until you couldn't get into the rooms. They looked on it as a good business proposition. Is Lewiston and Auburn less enterprising?"

"Now the next thing is to enlist the city government," continued Mr. McDonough. "There is hardly a city in

"Yes," interjected Mr. Carrigan, "you ought to do it, too, for the boys and girls. The influence of good sports on boys and girls is the most wholesome thing of the times. 'Tis a heap better than lots of other things they are learning nowadays."

"That's right," added Mr. McDonough. "We've got a good story to put to the city government and what's more everybody I see is ready to stand for it. If the city would appropriate a sum of money to build an athletic field the Lewiston and Auburn team of the New England league would guarantee the interest on the expenditure and more too."

"This is the first authoritative declaration regarding the possibility of a New England team in Lewiston and Auburn. Joe Burns, who holds the franchise, is ready to come here any day to meet the people. Tim Murnane, Bill Carrigan, Hugh Duffy and a big lot more of the leading New England baseball men will be here to help put it through."

Are we to pass this by?

"NO SWEEPING REDUCTION"

New Haven Road Replies to Report That it Contemplated Big Decrease in Working Force

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 2.—While "the number of engineers, firemen and trainmen fluctuates particularly with the amount of freight business handled," an official statement from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad here yesterday says "no sweeping reductions in working forces are contemplated."

"Gross earnings for the first half of the fiscal year show a reduction. This means that less men are needed and there have been readjustments of forces and hours to meet existing conditions."

The statement is a reply to reports that large reductions of the working forces of the road were contemplated.

Major Law Court Decides About Insurance Policy Claimed by Son of Original Beneficiary

AUBURN, Me., Jan. 2.—A rescript was received from the law court yesterday in the Androscoggin county case of the A. O. U. W. against Harold M. Edwards and Maude M. Edwards. The suit was to determine which of the two defendants was entitled to $126.13, due from the order on account of the death of the late Dr. Merion O. Edwards of Lewiston.

When the policy was taken out by Dr. Edwards it was made payable to his wife, Clara E. Edwards. She died in 1902, but Dr. Edwards never had his beneficiary under the policy changed.

Dr. Edwards died in 1911 and his wife and son both claimed the insurance.

The rescript gives the money to the widow. It is held that a by-law of the order, providing that if the beneficiary under a policy dies before the insured and the latter has made no other legal designation the policy shall be paid to his widow if living at the time of his death, governs in this case and compels the payment of the policy to the widow.

TO AVERT STRIKES

There could be no greater message of optimistic assurance to the industrial forces of Massachusetts at this time than the hope that for the coming year none of our industries will be paralyzed by a strike of any great magnitude. The time is gone by when one need argue as to the abstract right of the strike in principle or moralize on its too often disastrous effect, but the feeling is growing stronger daily that the time is near when industrial strikes will be very rare. Constructive influences and forces are at work everywhere in an attempt to create conditions that will ensure the settlement of labor troubles without the necessity for long strikes with their financial and moral losses to the community.

For the purpose of averting strikes in Massachusetts in 1914, our state board of conciliation and arbitration has issued a valuable message to employers and employees directing their attention to laws provided for their use in the case of threatened strikes or lockouts, and reminding them that it is a duty they owe to themselves and to the public to exhaust all peaceful and legal methods of settlement of labor troubles before resorting to the strike, which, in this measure is called truthfully, "a breach of industrial peace." The state board lays emphasis on the fact that the public is an innocent third party in all industrial controversies, and therefore entitled to some degree of the protection that should be accorded the other two parties.

At a time of controversy whether over wages, working conditions or shorter hours, the board urges the employer and employee to confer together and try to reach an agreement before delay has widened the breach; if they cannot agree, arbitration is suggested. If conciliation and arbitration both fail and if one of the parties interested refuses to accept the methods suggested, the other party should petition for a public investigation and report before resorting to the strike or lockout. In the words of the board, "If the employer refuses to adopt the board's recommendation, or the employees are not satisfied with it, and both are unwilling or unable to compose their differences, the parties, having exhausted the methods provided by statute, may then—and not until then—be justified in using strike or lockout as a means to enforce demands."

"Although the state board of conciliation and arbitration has been in existence for 27 years, this is the first document of the kind ever brought to the attention of the public carrying its sanction. It is not that there has been any change in the industrial principles involved, but it has become plain that strikes in this section have increased in number and magnitude for the past few years, and it has also been demonstrated that other countries have adopted legislative systems of conciliation that have healed industrial sores leaving mutual satisfaction among all concerned. In a desire to foster efficient methods of treatment in Massachusetts the state board made an exhaustive study of the laws of other states and Canada, and applied the experience gained by their acting on 125 cases of joint arbitration during 1913. The result of their experience and exhaustive investigation is this well considered statement to the public.

The message should be read and discussed by employers and employees collectively and individually, for in it is the kernel of peaceful settlement of industrial differences. In the membership of the third party interested—the public—are many that wonder, when they read of the final agreement after strikes, why it could not have been reached at first. The good that comes with the most justifiable strikes has never been unmixed with evil, and in the knowledge of a common cause, employers, employees, and the public should take to heart the advice given by the state board of conciliation and arbitration, and act on it.

MONTREAL WATER FAMINE

The city of Montreal, Canada, has just had an experience that Lowell might at some future time duplicate were it not for the constructive foresight and enterprise of Alderman Barrett in putting the additional water main across the river. In the Canadian city the main water pipe on which the citizens depended for their water supply burst about Christmas and the result has been that almost up to the present there has been a water famine, and the industry of the city has been at a standstill with an enormous financial loss. The danger was not entirely unforeseen for one of the public officials there called attention to it a few years ago and requested an appropriation for the purpose of laying a secondary main. The project was considered extravagant and the proposed expenditure was foolishly deemed unwarranted by the majority in the government with the result that there has been discomfort, suffering and serious financial loss. No better illustration need be sought for the "penny wise and pound foolish" policy of many in all municipalities who deem civic advancement on the ground of economy. This experience of Montreal is not unique though in degree its effects have been unusual. During the heat of the last election when Mr. Barrett was being roundly criticized for his administration of the water department, the Boston papers told the story of a great water break in Brookline with heavy property damage, owing to the unrelieved pressure on old pipe. In a slighter degree we have had instances here that showed in a small way what the result of such a disaster as that of Montreal would be locally. We have reason to congratulate ourselves on our comparative security from such an occurrence and we should be generous enough, regardless of political or other differences, to give honor where honor is due.

THE NEW PLAYGROUND

In some respects the coming year ought to be happier for the children of West Centralville than last, owing to the purchase of the new playground by the city. Parks and playgrounds are badly needed in many sections but it is doubtful if the needs of any neighborhood are any more pressing in this respect than those of the sections that will profit by the West Centralville park. Arguments in its favor may not seem so pressing now when the snow is on the ground and when all the streets are availed of by the juvenile population in their winter sports, but the assurance that safe skating can be provided there for the children of Centralville and Little Canada will bring gladness to the hearts of worrying parents and recommend the municipal expenditure. It is in the sultry summer weather, however, that the new park will make its appeal, for the children of this part of the city have been compelled for years to play in suffocating streets and filthy courts and alleys. The riverside park will give them the much needed opportunity to play in the open while breathing pure air in healthy surroundings.

Aside from the direct needs of the children of Centralville and contiguous neighborhoods, the purchasing of a portion of the river bank for a playground is a move in the right direction. Had the city been wise in its earlier days, it could have secured a park system along the Merrimack at a trivial cost, but it lost its opportunity and the splendid park sites given us by nature got into private ownership and degenerated into foul wastes and unlovely slums. Much irreparable damage has been done, but it is not too late to reclaim some of the river bank to its proper use. The purchase of the West Centralville park is a good start.

RADIUM CURE

The supposed theft of 35 milligrams of radium in Chicago while being used in the treatment of a cancer patient gives wide publicity to this new treatment of a disease which has heretofore baffled medical skill. Reports from widely differing sections of the country announce wonderful results which if verified by time will revolutionize some branches of medical science. The rarity and enormous value of the product will keep it out of the reach of any but millionaires and until there is some change it cannot be availed of by people generally. There is a movement on foot, however, to have the government take over our radium-producing lands so that the amazing properties of the little understood substance may be placed at the benefit of the American people.

TO GIVE UP B. AND M.

The inevitable has come to pass in the resolution of the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to surrender its holdings in the Boston and Maine as a means of segregating the systems. It assumed control of the Boston and Maine rail-

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—RESINOL CURED

Atlanta, Ga., April 21, 1913.—"When I received the sample of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment my face was covered with pimples which defied other creams, soaps and cosmetics. They were a source of constant humiliation to me, coming in contact with many strangers as I do, as a business woman. "By the time I had finished a cake of Resinol Soap and half a jar of Resinol Ointment, my skin was soft as velvet, and as smooth. My friends were stunned, and everyone asked me what I had done. When I told them, I think they hardly believed it. For the transformation was simply wonderful. "Since then I have been using Resinol Soap and shall never be without it again, for I have learned the delights of a clear, soft, beautiful complexion that may be attained by its constant use." road at a time when the future was full of seeming prosperity, but the merger has not brought financial return or public approval. The critical public attitude that greeted the monopoly and mercilessly hounded it with the unfortunate results that we all know so well was not liable to subside as long as the interests of the two roads were united, and if there will be a successful unscrambling of the eggs possibly there may be better days ahead for both roads, their stockholders, and Industrial New England. The public, however, is skeptical in its attitude and manifests the well known Missouri attribute of desiring to be shown. When shown that the two railroads are sincerely striving to improve their properties with respect for the law, the critical attitude will change to support and approval. May it be soon.

TO PREVENT FIRES

Much good to humanity has come as the result of widely advertised disaster and a probable improvement in the fire laws of Massachusetts following the awful sacrifice of life in the Arcadia fire tragedy of Boston is a case in point. In the annual report of the state board of charity will be a recommendation that the legislature enact a law to put all "cheap" lodging houses under direct supervision of the board. The purpose of such a provision is to prevent or remove conditions that would tend to cause fires, but in all probability it would also make the sanitary standards of such places higher. The investigation following the Boston fire revealed things that called for investigation before the unfortunate victims of the tragedy were roasted like rats in a trap.

Lowell is certainly between the devil and the deep sea in the case of the mandamus of the state board which says "you must build" and the bill in equity which says "you must not build." Which is the devil and which the deep sea you must decide for yourself.

The wise man says nothing to his friends about a New Year's resolution because he discovered years ago that an accusing conscience about January 1st is quite bad enough without a grinning repetition of "I told you so."

Why not have an Edison reproducer in the municipal council chamber for the amusement of coming generations? Did you say something about a moving picture machine, too?

B-T-T-T! How do you like it?

THOUGHTFUL AND THOUGHTLESS.
Brookton Enterprise: The man at Quincy who killed himself with gas and before dying left a note that he was a gas-filler and for his wife not to fight a match, was in a way thoughtful, but he would have been even more so had he refrained from taking his life and leaving others to loneliness and sorrow.

A NEW SPIRIT

Lowell News: The year has been marked by very few editorial, philanthropic and religious institutions. Hospitals have been largely remembered and foundations for various kinds of relief, but the interests of bettering the condition of humanity have been dealt with in a generous way. The amounts for all these purposes run to the hundreds of millions. There is surely something significant about this. The United States may be called materialistic but it certainly does pour out its money only an idealist could do. For the things that make for brotherhood, and for the things of the spirit, it has large thought. In making up the account of the year, this spirit and its manifestations must not be omitted.

THE HATED SKUNK

Foster's Democrat: After many years of abusive treatment the skunk is coming into its own. The department of agriculture characterizes the animal as being of "great importance," and urges its addition to the list of natural resources, before they are entirely exterminated. We agree with the phaseology of "natural resources," but suggest to the government that it lose no sleep over the possible immediate extermination of the savory animal.

WAR HORRORS

Brookton Times: The final settlement of the second Balkan war is said to have been effected by resumption of diplomatic relations between Serbia and Bulgaria. The evil results of the war, however, are still apparent in destitution and disease. To the hundreds of non-combatants who were slaughtered must be added other hundreds who are dying of want. The darkest of the war's history is yet to be told.

MEMORIAL FUNDS

Salem News: That the Gaynor fund in New York languishes, the collections and pledges to date totaling only a fraction more than $3800, is not a matter for wonderment. In no wise is the showing to be construed as a reflection upon the esteem in which the late mayor was held. It is rather a memorial fund to be interpreted as evidence of lack of popular esteem, then such men as Grant and Beecher—men to string out a list—were held in high favor.

GOOD ADVERTISING

Fall River Globe: As might have been expected, Dorothy McVane, the young Boston woman who received considerable publicity in the press despatches from Rome as having been dogged by the Italian secret police who were laboring under the mistaken belief that she was the spy of some foreign government, has announced her intention to return to America to fill an engagement as an operatic singer. This Italian episode has lightened the labors of her press agent materially in introducing her to the public here and explaining who the lady is.

TWINS FIRST FOR THE YEAR
BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The first birth record to be filed with the registry department of Boston for the year 1914 came in early yesterday and proved to be of twins, one being born at 12:10 and the other at 12:20. They were the sons of Vincent J. Guilfoyle of 61 1/2 street, South Boston. The attending physician was Dr. R. J. Denbury. The twins and the mother are reported as doing well.

Seen and Heard

When Johnny had finished reading his Sunday school lesson he said to his father: "Isn't it too bad it was so long ago that Noah was swallowed by the whale?" "Why is that, my son?" queried the father. "Oh, if it would happen now," the son replied, "everybody could see it in the movies."—Youngstown Telegram.

When Piffleton was starting for business in the morning Mrs. P. asked him to give Potts, the plumber, a call and tell him to look around at once, as there was something radically wrong with the cistern.

Twelve o'clock came and no Potts, and so Mrs. P. was driven to enlist the services of another knight of the soldering iron, who soon had things in trim. When Potts called at 2 o'clock he was informed that the job was done. "I had to send for another plumber, thinking you were too busy," Mrs. P. told him.

"Done," gasped Potts. "Then you've been imposed on, ma'am. I dunno 'oo 'e was or what 'e was, but you can take my word for it if 'e done the job already 'e won't no plumber!"

DOCTOR HEART

A very good doctor, because he's young. And not the old fellow who feels your wrist. And pines your temple and looks at your tongue. And gives you a kind of a double-twist. And fills you a paper—for all your ills. That the druggist puts up in a box of pills.

Doctor Heart is the fellow to call. When courage is gone and your spirits fall. For he's wise and valiant and all the while. That he looks you over he beams with a smile. And tells you there's nothing the matter at all. But too much trouble and too much bile.

He's fine for young and fine for old. And he makes you over as good as gold. And he puts things in you besides a dose. Of medicine bitter a thousand fold. For when he's helped you the world is no more. The sun is shining, the sweet birds sing. And you feel as fine as a lark in spring. —Baltimore Sun.

ANOTHER LEADER GONE

MICHAEL MORRISON, PROMINENT WORKER IN IRISH MOVEMENT, DIES SUDDENLY IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Michael Morrison, the treasurer of the Boston Central branch of the United Irish league, who died when being taken to the Relief hospital in an ambulance early yesterday morning, was for years an active leader in this city in the home rule movement.

The news of his sudden death comes as a great shock to the members of the league, as he had attended a meeting of the Boston branch on Tuesday and appeared to be in the best of health.

Mr. Morrison had been at the services at St. Joseph's church and when returning to his home, 44 West Cedar street, West End, was stricken on Pinckney street with what seemed to be a shock of apoplexy. An ambulance was summoned, but upon his arrival at the hospital it was found that he had died while on the way there.

He was born in County Cork, Ireland, and was 55 years of age. When a young man he came to this country and after working for some years for his brother went into business on Portland street.

Last September Mr. Morrison was named a member of the executive committee of the United Irish league, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Patrick J. Timinias of South Boston. He was always active in the home rule movement and for years has been one of the largest contributors for the Irish cause. He was a warm friend of the late John O'Callaghan.

FALSE ALARMS SOUNDED

YOUNG RUFIANS SOUGHT BY THE POLICE FOR RINGING BOX 65 LAST NIGHT

Two false alarms from box 65 were rung in last night within 30 minutes of each other. Although the fire and police departments have been annoyed by the ringing of false alarms before nothing quite so daring as this has ever been perpetrated. The box is located at the corner of Elm and Lakeview avenue and the first call was sent in at 6:10. The firemen reached the scene of the supposed conflagration only to find everything serene and no sign of a fire anywhere to be seen. Scarcely had they arrived at their respective stations, however, when the same box rang in again and once more the apparatus thundered out of the station.

This response was as unsatisfactory as the previous one and the police were gotten in touch with at once. There is a gang of young ruffians in the vicinity of the box which was rung in last night and in all probability the guilty party in a number of this set, several of which have been in the tolls of the police recently.

FREIGHT RATES INCREASED

B. & M. WILL CHARGE HIGHER FOR FREIGHT SHIPMENTS FROM THIS CITY

Notification to the effect that the freight rates on the B. & M. railroad have been raised has been received by several Lowell corporations. This will mean an additional cost of nearly $15,000 yearly on shipments to and from local concerns. The rates will be assessed on a scale of seven to 10 cents per 100 pounds instead of a flat rate of seven and one-quarter cents per 100 pounds as in the past. Objections to this increase have been made but the move was approved by the interstate commerce commission.

IDAHO METAL MINE

In 1913 the metal mine output of Idaho was so much increased that the total value exceeded that of the record year, 1905, according to preliminary estimates of C. N. Gerry of the United States Geological Survey. The value of the gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc mine production was over $23,600,000, an increase of over $2,000,000, or nearly 10 per cent. Record productions were made in silver, lead and zinc and substantial increases were made in output of all metals but gold, which remained close to the yield of 1912, the figures for 1913 being $1,373,000. The gold yield from quartz mines, especially by the De Lamar mine, which was closed in the last part of the year, continued to decrease. To compensate for this loss, the gold output from dredging continued to increase and that from copper ore was greater since the Lost Packer smelter was operated.

The mine yield of silver output increased 20 per cent, from 3,224,745 ounces in 1912 to about 3,970,000 ounces in 1913, a large increase even over the previous record output of 1905. In silver output the state which in 1913 had a value of nearly $6,000,000, was only exceeded by Nevada, Utah and Montana. Nearly all this silver was derived from lead ore and concentrate, shipments of which were unusually large. Another feature which accounted for this record output was the large production from the Greenhill-Cleveland mine near Mace and the Hercules mine at Burke, for the mines of Lolo district are notable for high silver content.

The copper output from Idaho mines increased from 7,492,152 pounds in 1912 to about 8,215,000 pounds in 1913, an increase of over 21 per cent. The three main factors in the copper output were the shipments of crude ore and concentrate from the Snow Storm mine at Larson, the yield of copper ores from the Empire copper property at Mackay, and the copper matter produced at the Lost Packer plant at Ivers. Increased yield was made from all these properties and dividends were paid by the first and last. Copper was also recovered from the lead ores of Lemhi and Shoshone counties. Other copper properties are being opened in the Hunter district of Shoshone county. A deposit of interest was that developed by the National Mining Co., which began the erection of a large mill in which the flotation process will probably be used.

The lead mine production increased from 23,600,000 pounds in 1912 to nearly 31,000,000 pounds in 1913, or over 30 per cent. At the average price for 1913 this total was valued at more than $13,500,000. Probably 93 per cent of the lead came from the Coeur d'Alene region of Shoshone county, and the remainder from Lemhi, Fremont, Blaine, and Custer counties. Shipments from the Greenhill-Cleveland mine more than made up for the abandonment of the Standard-Mammoth at Mace. No great change in production was made by the Hecla, nor by the Stewart mine, but great increases were made at the Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Hercules, Gold Hunter, Ontario, Sierra Nevada, Interstate Callahan and Marsh properties. The Tamarack and Custer was added to the list of important lead silver producers. Shipments began in March and in November 1300 tons of crude ore and concentrate were sent to smelters. The Placer Centre or Nine Mile district, together with the Beaver district adjoining, was notably active in both production and development.

The tonnage for the year is not yet known, but in November nearly 37,000 tons of crude ore and concentrates, including as well as lead, were shipped from the Coeur d'Alene region. Lemhi county, especially the Glitter region, produced much less lead than in 1912, but the Wilbert mine (which was found to be in Fremont county instead of Blaine) and the property at Clayton in Custer county, compensated for the deficiency. At the Idaho Continental mine in Bonner county, mill building and improvements were in progress but there was no lead output.

The record mine production of zinc ore and concentrates in Idaho in 1913 increased the spelter output from 13,905,502 pounds in 1912 to 23,694,000 pounds in 1913, an increase of nearly 70 per cent. The Success mine was operated throughout the year and not only had an increased zinc output, but preparation was made for using magnetite separation to eliminate the excess iron in the product. At the Morning mine a largely increased output was made by use of the Masquillon tube flotation process. The Greenhill-Cleveland shipped crude zinc ore and made a separation of a zinc product by flotation at the mill at Wallace. Probably the most important increase came from the Interstate-Callahan property. A new 300-ton mill began operation in May and crude ore and concentrates of both lead and zinc were marketed. At the Hercules mill at Wallace additions were also made for the separation of a zinc product. Little zinc ore or concentrate was marketed from the Murray region, but in Blaine county important tonnage came from the Minnie Moore dump. During the year the old Frisco mine near Gen was acquired and operated by the Federal Mining & Smelting Co. The property will probably add greatly to the future zinc output. Two smelting plants within the state were active in 1913, one a lead plant at Clayton now owned by the Iled Bird Smelting Co. and the other a copper matting plant at Ivers. Both are in Custer county. Four dredges were operated, two at Idaho City and two in Lemhi county. The construction of a fifth one on Bohannon bar, Lemhi county, was completed.

RECEPTION TO FRIENDS

Big Event in Nature of a General Jubilation Meeting and Entertainment at Y.M.C.A. Rooms

The Y. M. C. A. entertained its friends to the number of some twelve hundred last night at the spacious quarters of the association between the hours of eight and ten o'clock with the idea of demonstrating how much the association appreciated the help which was extended it in its recent struggle for financial assistance. The affair was more or less of a jubilee over the results of the campaign for funds.

The hosts of the evening were the men who were the most prominent in raising the fund and were headed by E. A. Bowen, president of the association. A large delegation from the Woman's Auxiliary was present and aided in serving refreshments and entertaining.

The evening's program was composed of contests in billiards, swimming, basketball and bowling. E. C. Earle and H. J. Corbin gave an exhibition billiard contest, which was watched with interest. The basketball game between the Sherwood club and the second team of the Y. M. C. A. proved very exciting, the final score being 28 to 26 in favor of the team from the association.

The exhibition swimming events also were a big treat for the crowd. Wrenn, Barton, Johnson and Keroack gave demonstrations of how one should perform in all the various swimming strokes and fancy dives. Fawcett and Thissell were also heard from in their particular events, Fawcett coming within a few inches of the record in his plunge for distance and Thissell

The members of the syndicate believe the wood will give the hull a smoother finish than could be obtained from thin bronze plates exposed to the possibility of buckling away from rivets.

COLORADO METAL

Output of Over $36,000,000—Production of Zinc Decreased

The output of Colorado mines for eleven months of 1913 with an estimate for December, according to preliminary figures by Charles W. Henderson, of the United States Geological Survey, shows a production of $18,395,000 in gold, 9,150,000 ounces of silver, 55,500,000 pounds of lead, 7,624,000 pounds of copper, and 124,680,000 pounds of zinc (in terms of spelter and zinc in zinc oxide), with a total value of $36,200,000, compared with $37,320,396 in 1912. This shows a decrease of $1,120,000 in gold, an increase of 900,000 pounds of lead, an increase of 16,300,000 pounds of copper, and a decrease of 2,546,000 pounds of zinc. The heaviest decrease in value was $1,732,000 for zinc, and there were increases of $140,000 for silver and $377,000 for lead.

The tonnage treated by the Globe, Leadville, Pueblo, and Salsburg smelters showed an appreciable increase for the year. An increased tonnage was also shipped to the Murray, Garfield, and Midvale plants in Utah. Cyanide precipitates were shipped to Omaha. The United States Zinc Co.'s magnetic plant and smelter at Pueblo was operated steadily.

The output of Cripple Creek showed an increase of $16,000 in gold. The Roosevelt tunnel continued to lower the water level gradually. In the Windicator and Golden Cycle mines electric pumps were installed and lower levels were opened during the year.

The Golden Cycle and Portland cyanidation mills at Colorado Springs were operated steadily, with an increased output. Cyanide mills in the district also made an increased yield. The Standard chlorination and cyanidation plant at Colorado City was idle, but the Union cyanidation plant at Florence was operated part of the year on old tailings. The tonnage of smelting ore from Cripple Creek decreased slightly.

Value of Leadville Output Declines

Lake County (chiefly Leadville, but for 1913 including the Lackawanna Gulch district) produced $981,116 in gold, 3,260,000 ounces of silver, 2,900,000 pounds of copper, 28,000,000 pounds of lead, and 28,000,000 pounds of zinc, with a total value of $1,020,000, as against $1,785,131 in 1912. The output of zinc carbonate was 137,600 tons of approximately 27 per cent zinc, against 142,782 tons of 29.2 per cent zinc in 1912. The production of zinc sulphide shipped varied little from the 104,148 tons of 34 per cent zinc in 1912. The zinc carbonate ore was treated at smelters in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin and the zinc sulphide was treated at the Empire Zinc Co.'s magnetic separation plant at Canon City, at the Western Chemical Co.'s wet concentration and magnetic separation plant at Denver, at the United States Zinc Co.'s magnetic plant and smelter at Pueblo, and at the zinc oxide plant at Coffeyville, Kans.

The San Juan region of Dolores, La Plata, Grand, San Juan, and San Miguel counties produced $1,150,000 in gold, 2,347,000 ounces of silver, 21,163,000 pounds of lead, 3,330,000 pounds of copper, and approximately 8,000,000 pounds of zinc compared with $1,115,345 in gold, 2,552,056 ounces of silver, 20,752,157 pounds of lead, 3,000,172 pounds of copper, and 6,753,072 pounds of zinc in 1912. There was an increase for gold of $7,000 in Dolores, $153,000 in La Plata, $115,000 in San Juan, and a decrease of $51,000 in Grand; and of $224,000 in San Miguel county. There was an increase of silver of 105,000 ounces in Dolores, 500,000 in San Juan, and 1,900 in La Plata, while there was a decrease of 93,000 ounces in San Miguel county. Dolores county (Rico) made a large increase in the yield of copper, lead, and zinc, but the production of lead fell off heavily in San Miguel and Grand counties. The yield of gold bullion in Boulder county increased one-half and there was also a decrease of 2,000 ounces of gold in ores smelted, but the silver output increased 100,000 ounces and the lead 470,000 pounds.

Heavy Increase in Chaffee County
Chaffee county produced $290,000 in gold, 154,000 ounces of silver, 2,763,000 pounds of lead, and 200,000 pounds of copper, and a considerable quantity of zinc, a heavy increase for all the metals. Clear Creek county's output was $195,000 in gold, 421,700 ounces of silver, 4,230,000 pounds of lead, 521,000 pounds of copper and approximately 1,500,000 pounds of zinc, an increase for all the metals except zinc. Gilpin county's output decreased about $200,000 in gold and 50,000 ounces of silver, although the bullion produced in Clear Creek county mined through the Newhouse tunnel.

Lead Output of Aspen District Doubles
The Pitkin county (Aspen) yield was $21,000 ounces of silver and 16,750,000 pounds of lead, an increase of 62,000 ounces and of 8,370,000 pounds, respectively.

Creed (Mineral County) produced $52,000 in gold, 700,000 ounces of silver, 3,560,000 pounds of lead, 35,000 pounds of copper, and 510,000 pounds of zinc, which is an appreciable decrease for gold and lead, but an increase for silver, copper, and zinc. The output from Hinsdale county showed a decrease of 403,000 pounds of lead. Owing to the closing of the Gold Links mine at Ohio, Gunnison county's output of bullion, ore, and concentrates showed a very heavy decrease for gold, lead and zinc production also decreased, but there was an appreciable increase in silver output, owing to the opening of mines at Whitepine and on Italian Mountain. The output of gold bullion from dredges and pocket mines at Breckenridge, Summit County, increased $50,000 and gold in smelting ore from Breckenridge, Breckenridge, and Montezuma showed an increase for the county of $14,000, while silver, lead, and copper yields also increased, but the yield of zinc decreased owing to the closing of the wet mill of the Westinghouse Co. during the latter part of the year. The output of the magnetic plant continued to be operated. The output of Eagle county, from Red Cliff and from Eagle (a new producing silver district in 1913), was $42,000 in gold, 300,000 ounces of silver, 1,000,000 pounds of lead, and 5,500,000 pounds of zinc. Park county's output of silver, lead, and copper increased, more than balancing an appreciable decrease in gold.

STRONG BACKBONE

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Charles Dawson, who found the famous Piltdown skull, has made another discovery of considerable interest to anthropologists. He has discovered that the members of a certain Eskimo tribe have literally more backbone than the rest of humanity; that is to say they have one extra vertebrae to which small ribs are attached.

SILENT POLICY

N. Y. Mayor Wants Reformers to do Something First

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A policy of silence among department heads regarding the administration of branches of the city government during their first few months in office was suggested to his appointees by John Purroy Mitchell, upon his inauguration as mayor yesterday as successor of Arthur H. Kline, who became mayor upon the death of William J. Gaynor.

"We will develop our program slowly," Mr. Mitchell announced in the presence of some of his cabinet, the retiring mayor and others who gathered at the city hall to see the new executive take office.

"I caution the new heads of the departments to self-restraint and simplicity, and I advise them to follow the policy which I have outlined for myself, namely, silence for a few months until we have developed our plans further and can come to the people and point to some accomplishment. I would rather have the government of this city for the next few months inconspicuous than have it heralded from day to day in the papers through promises made as to what will be done."

Mr. Mitchell urged "team work" among the department heads, and promised the fulfillment of the campaign pledges given by the fusion party which elected him to office.

FIGHT FIRE AT 10 BELOW

DEXTER, Me., Jan. 2.—Not until the frozen hydrants were thawed out by bonfires, were firemen able to cope successfully with flames in the planing mill of Eldridge Brothers last night.

The temperature was 10 degrees below zero, and the firemen worked encased in ice. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

NEW STATE HOUSE

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—There will be two state houses in Beacon street, within a stone's throw of each other, when the new quarters of several of the most important state departments in the building at 1 Beacon street are completed. Three full floors of the building and part of several other floors are reserved for state offices.

C.M.A.C. CLUB ACTIVITIES

NEW OFFICERS WILL BE INSTALLED NEXT WEEK—BOWLING LEAGUE

The newly elected officers of the C. M. A. C. will be formally installed at a meeting of the club which will take place next week. Plans are already under way, and it is the general belief that the new officers will be ushered into office with imposing ceremonies. A varied program, including both vocal and instrumental selections will be given by some of the best talent of the club.

Each one of the new officers as usual will be required to deliver a brief address, and at the close of the exercises, a general good time will follow. It is quite certain that nearly all the members will be present and the affair promises to be a success.

The C. M. A. C. bowling league, recently organized among the members of the club, announces the opening of an extensive schedule for next week. The plans for the opening are almost complete, and the teams have been chosen by the respective captains.

Each team will be designated by a certain color chosen by the captain, and interesting matches are looked for as there are many exceptionally good bowlers among the members.

All the teams are well matched, and the different contests promise to be very interesting. The affair will last five weeks and the winner will be awarded a handsome silver cup.

Next week promises, therefore, to be an interesting one for the members of the C. M. A. C.

GUILTY OF FAKE ADVERTISING

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Aaron Kasofsky, proprietor of the Hudson Bay Fur company and the Hudson Bay Importing company at 443 Washington street, was yesterday found guilty of making untrue and misleading statements in his advertisements.

Judge Joseph Sheehan placed Kasofsky on probation with the understanding that the fur dealer would change his style of advertising.

BALLOT FRAUDS

District Attorney Will Investigate Nomination Papers in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—An investigation will be ordered by the Boston Bar association into the conduct of William C. Free, counsel for the Municipal league, who refused to testify before the ballot law commission yesterday in connection with the fraud charges which were brought against the nomination papers of Thomas J. Kenny on the ground he would incriminate himself.

This, together with discovery that some of the political leaders feel that regardless of whether Kenny or Curley is elected mayor, the legality of the election will be tested in the courts, are the latest developments in the mayoralty tangle.

Chairman Minton of the election board said last night that all talk of a contest of the choice in the courts after the election would be futile. Judicial discussions, he said, have well established the fact that after the board had prepared the ballot, no technical charges invalidating the election could be successfully raised.

Other important developments in the mayoralty muddle yesterday were the withdrawal of the charges against the Kenny and Curley papers by representatives of both rival camps; the decision of the ballot law commission to refer the charges to the district attorney; and the announcement of the latter that he will immediately institute a grand jury probe into the whole matter.

Say Worker Traitor

To add to the sensations of the day, the Kenny forces declared that they were practically certain that one of the lieutenants in their camp was a party to a conspiracy to have Mayorality Candidate Kenny thrown out of the ballot. This was not taken with great seriousness, however.

Yesterday morning the ballot law commission began the hearing it had scheduled for the presentation of the fraud charges against the mayoralty nomination papers of Kenny and Curley.

Rabbi Charles Fleischer, Dr. Charles P. Putnam, a well known Back Bay physician, and other prominent Bostonians testified that although some of the Kenny nomination papers made it appear that they had sworn to the same, as a matter of fact they had not done this.

The name of Atty. William C. Free appeared on these papers as a justice of the peace, who was supposed to have taken the oath of the men in question. When Free was asked to explain he declined to do so on the ground that he might incriminate himself. His testimony, which created a sensation, has been brought to the attention of the Bar association officials, and will be investigated by that body.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die, then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

MONTANA METAL

The total value of gold, silver, copper, lead, and zinc produced by deep and placer mines in Montana in 1913 was somewhat over $59,000,000, a decrease from $64,754,615 in 1912, over 8 per cent, according to preliminary estimates of V. C. Heikes, of the United States geological survey. Metal prices were slightly less than those of 1912, but there was also a large decrease in copper yield and consequently in gold. These were in part offset by a record increase in zinc production and silver output from zinc ores.

The gold yield decreased nearly 12 per cent, the mine figures being $3,235,235 in 1912 and $3,194,000 in 1913. There was no great change in the placer output, but a decrease is noted in gold from copper ores and from siliceous ores. The North Meconia mine in Fergus county was successfully operated by the Harlow Development Co. and an average of 4000 tons of 10 ore was treated per month. The Ruby Gulch mine in Blaine county was productive until August 7, when the cyanide plant burned. In Deer lodge county the Southern Cross mine, owned by the Anaconda Copper Co., was producing the latter part of the year.

An increase of nearly 4 per cent was made in the silver output of the state, the mine figures being 12,731,638 ounces in 1912 and 13,203,000 ounces in 1913. A decrease of about 10 per cent in silver output from placer areas was largely balanced by an unusual increase in silver from lead concentrate and zinc residues from the Butte & Superior mine, which made a notable record the last half of the year. Over 13 per cent of the total value of the state output was that of silver. The new concentration and cyanide plant at the Butte Central at Butte was idle after a few months operation and results did not affect the gold and silver output.

The copper output declined about 9 per cent, from 309,738,573 pounds, according to mine figures, in 1912 to 280,658,000 pounds in 1913. This was about 30 per cent less than the output of Arizona, the leading copper producer in 1913. The average price of copper decreased from 16.5 cents in 1912 to about 16.37 cents in 1913, and it is assumed that the copper buyers' record output were made by the larger smelting establishments. According to monthly printed statements, the Anaconda Copper Co. was making an average of 22,000,000 pounds per month and the East Butte Copper Co. about 125,000 pounds a month. The February production of Butte was low on account of cold weather and fires in the West Colusa mine, which interrupted work in the Mountain View mine. The October yield was notably low since the fires were drawn at the Anaconda mine to clear the flues. The East Butte Co. is fast getting out of debt by making $100,000 per month, and plans to enlarge the plant, according to the press. One of the features of the year in Montana was the leaching of low grade copper ores at Butte. At the Butte-Bowling operators were experimenting with building a leaching plant. At the Butte and Duluth property the ore was quarried, crushed, treated by sulphuric acid, and the metal electrolytically precipitated. Leaching is also being tried at the Royal mine at Butte. Maxville in Granite county, 125 miles from Butte, in Lincoln county, had a new 250-ton concentration plant in operation. The value of the copper yield in 1913 was over 72 per cent of the total value of all metals produced in Montana.

The lead output increased from 7,447,495 pounds in 1912, according to mine figures, to 8,647,000 pounds in 1913, or nearly 16 per cent. This increase was largely due to shipments of lead concentrates and residues from zinc concentrates from the Butte & Superior mine at Butte. There was much activity south of Libby in Lincoln county, but principally in development work. At the King & Queen property in Sanders county, galena was shipped and a 75-ton concentration plant was being constructed.

A record production of recoverable spelter was made from Montana mines in 1913. From 26,918,831 pounds of spelter in 1912, the output increased to 35,440,297 pounds in 1913, or 27 per cent. This was largely due to results at the Butte & Superior mine. The first half of the year the plant was treating 600 tons per day, but the tonnage treated was increased to 1000 tons per day the latter part of the year. In August the mill treated 30,440 tons of ore, which made 11,800 tons of concentrates having an average zinc content of 42.41 per cent, representing a recovery of 50.3 per cent by concentration and flotation. Other zinc shipments were made from the Iron Mountain mine in Missoula county and also from Jefferson county. At the Elm Orlu mine no zinc ore was treated or shipped, copper ore only being sold. There is, however, a large tonnage of zinc ore developed awaiting treatment by the new mill being erected south of Butte. Concentration and flotation will probably be used. At the present rate of increase Montana was the electrification of the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific during the year; and the use of electricity instead of steam in the mines was found to greatly reduce costs. A survey for railroad was made between Great Falls and Missoula by the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Co.; and the Butte, Wisdom & Pacific railway will build 100 miles of road to connect French Gulch and Elkhorn.

OFFICERS NOMINATED TO BE ELECTED AT THE NEXT MEETING

At a meeting of the Centralville Social club, held recently at the headquarters, Lakeview avenue, considerable business was transacted. President Joseph Elle occupied the chair. The annual nomination of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following result: President, Edward Pelot; vice president, Eugene Boland; recording secretary, Omar Ducharme; financial secretary, Ferdinand Lusier; treasurer, Adolphe Bouchard; sergeant-at-arms, Severin St. George; directors, Andrei Caron, Arsene Trudel, Arthur Contre, and others. The election and installation of officers will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 7, and a general good time is assured for the occasion.

"HERE'S WHERE I THROW UP MY HANDS"

I have given up all hope of any profit whatsoever this season. My six great stores have just passed through the most backward season I have ever encountered. Frankly, the weather man has me on the run. The last four months of 1913 witnessed the most unreasonable temperature ever recorded by the weather bureau. I enter upon the new year frightfully overstocked. It is absolutely imperative that I force immediate selling.

Coroner Believes Bronx Tragedy Reveals Murder and Not a Suicide Pact by Poison

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Jacob Shengut, who retired yesterday as coroner of the Bronx, declared last night that in his opinion Patrolman James Bradley and Mrs. Laura Marsh Gibson, a nurse, who were found dead of hydrocyanic poisoning in Bradley's home on Dec. 5 last, did not commit suicide as was suggested at the time; nor did one kill the other and then seek self-destruction.

"In my opinion a crime was committed in causing these two deaths," the ex-coroner declared to a reporter last night, "and the criminal so cunningly covered his or her tracks that the police in their investigation ran against a stone wall.

Unable to Have Analyses Made

"Immediately following the deaths of the patrolman and nurse the contents of the stomachs of both of them were sent to the office of the district attorney at the request of Assistant District Attorney Deacon Murphy, who was investigating the case. I asked that an analysis be made.

"I was informed by the district attorney that there were no funds available in his office to defray the expenses of such an analysis, and I asked the board of health to make the analysis. I got word from there that the board of health was too busy to devote time to such work. I had no funds in my own office for such analysis and consequently was unable to have the work done.

"However, this was not particularly necessary, already had been proved beyond doubt that the man and woman had met death from poison. What had not been proved was how the poison was administered to them.

"I have no criticism to make of the police; no criticism to make of any one. I simply am convinced that a crime was committed and that the criminal has gone scot free because such cunning was employed by the criminal."

"OH SUSANNAH"

Funniest Play Ever in High School Hall This Evening

There is a great deal of suppressed excitement and anxious expectation in high school circles these days owing to the screamingly funny play, "Oh, Susannah," which will be given by a group of Miss Joyce's pupils tonight and tomorrow night at high school hall. It is difficult to get the real facts of the play in advance because the principals do not wish to spoil the effect by preparing the public for its side-splitting surprises, but enough has leaked out to prepare those who go for an evening of hearty laughter and genuine amusement.

"Oh, Susannah" is a royalty play, patterned along the lines of "Charley's Aunt," which has made thousands laugh for years, with the same bright lines and the deliciously comic situations. It is an English play, with typically English situations. Of course there is a love scene, in which Edward Martin, outshines Jack Barrymore, Donald Brian and the host of romantic romances, and in which Miss Dorothy Alford is all that a beautiful and witty lady should be. Those who have asserted that it is difficult to get a bath on American lines in England are partially supported by the evidence in "Oh, Susannah," for while there is a bathroom scene, it is slightly different from our conception of the popular Saturday night institution. The gallant leading man undertakes to give a bath to somebody, but, horror! there is a truly awful mistake. It is only one of several amusing mistakes, but when all is over the audience will feel that such mistakes make the world go round very smoothly.

BABY ONE WEEK OLD HAD ECZEMA

On Head and Neck. Kept Getting Worse. Gross and Fretful. Did Not Sleep. Suffered Six Weeks. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

237 Lake St., St. Albans, Vt.—"When my baby was only one week old the back of his head and neck began to look red and swollen. It kept getting worse until the back of his head and neck were just one watery raw sore. The skin around the sores was very red and also inflamed. I think the sores itched and they burned terribly. He was very cross and fretful. He did not sleep only when he was worried himself sick and then he would cry out in his sleep."

"I tried also, and I used everything I thought would help it. After he was six weeks old I happened to think of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so I sent for one cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I bathed the sores in very hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment with a soft cloth. I had used them only two or three times when he was red and began to sleep. After two weeks he was cured and the back of his head and neck looked as well as any other baby's." (Signed) Mrs. Joseph Cota, May 6, 1913.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c) and box of Cuticura Ointment (60c) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

127 Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

U. S. SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—When the supreme court of the United States meets on Monday next it will face an amount of work that promises to make a record for the ensuing 12 months. In addition to the probable announcement of many decisions the court has set down for hearing on that day or as soon thereafter as possible, enough cases to consume the time of the sittings of the court for nearly a week. One of the most interesting of these involves the liability of the owners of the Titanic, which went down after striking an iceberg on April 14, 1912. The owner of the vessel, the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., a British corporation is seeking to have its liability for the million dollars worth of claims lodged against it for the loss of life and property in the catastrophe limited under American law to the value of the salvage, the freight and passenger fares received on the trip, by all about $90,000. A millionaire's honor roll will be heard when the court calls a series of cases during the week, involving the legality of the Payne-Aldrich tariff tax imposed on foreign built yachts.

The contempt case against Samuel Compers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor will be considered again by the court. About two years ago the court set aside the jail sentences imposed on them by the local courts because of the method of procedure. Among other cases to be argued is the Henry contempt case, growing out of the money trust bearing.

FEAST OF EPIPHANY

TO BE ELABORATELY OBSERVED IN FRENCH CATHOLIC CHURCHES NEXT TUESDAY

The feast of the Epiphany, which comes on Tuesday next, will be celebrated in most of the Catholic churches next Sunday. In the French churches, "La Fete Des Rois" will be the occasion for special services. At St. Joseph's church the beautiful musical program which was rendered at Christmas will be repeated, including the mass of St. Jean Baptiste de Turner, and the soloists will be the same.

At St. Louis' and Notre Dame de Lourdes the Christmas music will be repeated, and special music has been prepared for the vesper services.

At St. Joseph's church a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at 10 o'clock for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Rosa Lima Roy, wife of Isaac Cyr. Rev. Avyette Amyot, O. M. I., was the celebrant. He was assisted by Rev. Armand Baron, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Charles Deniset, O. M. I., as subdeacon.

In the Province of Szechuen, China in 1913 —Mostly Robbers

PEKING, Jan. 2.—It is officially estimated today that 24,000 executions were carried out in the province of Szechuen alone in 1913. Most of those ordered to be killed were robbers, but in the total were included a large number of political offenders who have been concerned in various movements during the transition period from an empire to a republic. It is hinted by officials that the actual figures regarding the executions would if they could be known, exceed the estimate. The customs collections at the ports during 1913 amounted to approximately $25,892,500. Most of the ports showed an increase over the preceding year and the figures for Shanghai, Hankow and Canton actually constitute a record.

The revenues are said to be sufficient to meet all the charges on them, including the Boxer indemnity.

Quincy School Committee and Woodward Institute Trustees to Veto Un-Wholesome Change

QUINCY, Jan. 2.—Not only have the modern dances been tabooed at school functions by the school committee and the Woodward Institute trustees, but no mixed dances in the school buildings will be permitted until the present tendency is changed. The trustees of the Woodward Institute are clergymen, and many of the school board members are physicians.

The action of both bodies came yesterday as the result of a report made by A. L. Barbour, superintendent of schools, who said that while in his opinion the dancing he had observed at school functions was the cleanest and farthest removed from the current extreme dancing, this condition prevailed only as the result of ceaseless vigilance on the part of masters and teachers, and he questioned whether there was enough value attached to repay the rigid censoring which was involved.

HELD REGULAR MEETING

L'Union Garin Nationale Independante held its regular meeting last evening in Grattan hall, Merrimack street and, as usual, considerable routine business was transacted. The reports of the various officers of the society were heard, and were declared acceptable. Three new applications for membership were received by the society, which will be considered before the next meeting. Remarks were made by different members and the meeting adjourned at an early hour.

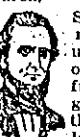

A good number of French societies and clubs had meetings scheduled for last evening, but most of them were postponed, and will take place tonight instead.

PRES. GOMEZ GREETED

CARACAS, Ven., Jan. 2.—President Gomez returned to the capital yesterday after an absence of five months. He brought with him the army of 7000 men with which he had been camped at Maracay since early in August when General Cipriano Castro, the former dictator, made an unsuccessful attempt to bring about a revolution. The soldiers marched through the principal streets and were then drawn up in front of Miraflores palace, where they were reviewed by the president. Great enthusiasm prevailed.

Building Five New Airships and at the Age of 75 is Chock Full of Enthusiasm

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., Jan. 2.—Count Zeppelin's shops are working overtime in order to turn out five new airships by the early part of April. Two are for the German army, two for the navy, and the fifth for passenger and experimental service.

The venerable count is undaunted by the long list of disasters to his air craft, and the German emperor is backing him with moral support. On the count's 75th birthday last July he sailed his 20th dirigible, and he expects yet to cross the ocean in a balloon of his own type.

BERTHA ELDRIDGE THE COLDEST DAY

Companion of Young Prindle Was in Police Court Today Yesterday Worst of the Present Winter — 15 Above Registered

The case of Bertha Eldridge, the companion of James Pringle the "ax-man," came up in juvenile session this morning on continuance. The girl was accompanied by her mother and a Boston attorney.

The police were convinced this morning that the girl really does not know where any of the stolen articles which Pringle stole are now hidden. She promised to go back to her home and remain with her parents and upon these terms Judge Knight imposed a suspended sentence to the Industrial school at Lancaster.

Armand Guenard, the youth accused of breaking into the store of George Doucher, came up for a hearing this morning, but his case was postponed for another week in order that the police may look up his record more thoroughly. On account of the large number of juvenile cases the regular session of police court did not open until a late hour.

APPROVES SEC. LANE'S PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The proposal of Secretary Lane to withdraw all lands of the public domain believed to contain radium in the interest of the public good, meets with the hearty approval of Dr. Otis Smith, director of the federal geological survey.

"Secretary Lane's proposal for legislation," says Dr. Smith in a statement issued today, "is in line with congressional legislation of the last three years in authorizing executive control of the nation's most essential resources and it is a recognition that radium has become one of the mineral resources whose real value is not measured by its vital usefulness to mankind."

23 SAVED AS BOAT SINKS BOY SHOT CHUM SMITH WON FROM PELKEY

Crew of Fishing Schooner in Night of Terror as Gale Pounds Vessel on False Spit

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Boston fishing schooner John J. Fallon sank late yesterday afternoon in four fathoms of water, just inside Pelkey's ledge on False Spit. Her crew of 23 men were rescued by the wrecking lighter Falvor and brought in to T wharf.

In the heavy seas rolling in before the driving northeast gale which raged outside, the wreck of the Fallon was pounded all night long.

The Fallon was running into port at 1 a. m. yesterday morning at the end of Captain Thomas Furlong's first trip in her, with 45,000 pounds of groundfish and 2000 pounds of halibut. She was standing too far to the northward after passing Bug Light, and grounded on False Spit near the sparrows. The tide was about an hour ebb, and when dawn broke she was discovered on the rocks by the Stony beach life savers who put out to her.

Two of her crew were brought into Boston for provisions, for the latter aboard ship was down to barrel scraps of flour, black coffee and the fish in her hold. A tug and a wrecking lighter were contracted for, and in the afternoon an effort was made to drag the stranded schooner off the bar. The strain of the terrible pulling and hauling she got sprung her hull from her keel and the vessel filled and sank like a plummet. Her crew had barely time to grab a few of their belongings and scramble aboard the lighter before their vessel settled under to her decks. The Fallon had had luck on this, her first trip out with Skipper Furlong, having shipped her main beam of 20 feet in a squall on the fishing grounds. She was making port under a jury sail rigged on her broken boom when she struck the rocks.

The John J. Fallon is the third fishing schooner in from the grounds to strike in the outer harbor in three consecutive days. The Laveria grounded on Rain Head Monday before dawn, the Juno struck at the same point Tuesday morning.

A complaint is being discussed for presentation before the lighthouse authorities early in the month in regard to a rearrangement of the gas buoys in the outer bay.

$230,000 NEW YEAR'S GIFT

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Jan. 2.—David D. Stewart of this city, who inherited the vast estate of the late Levi M. Stewart of Minneapolis, a pioneer who died two years ago in that city, has given New Year's gifts amounting to $230,000 to 12 colleges, hospitals and charitable institutions of Minnesota, nine of them being in Minneapolis.

Checks for the entire amount were received in that city yesterday. No restrictions were attached to the gifts. In the last year Mr. Stewart has given away $230,000, practically half of the estate that was left him. On this amount about $400,000 went to churches, colleges and charitable institutions in Maine.

BOYS OUT OF DANGER

Ten Bitten by a Dog in Haverhill to Return to School Today—Pasteur Treatment Given

HAVERHILL, Jan. 2.—City Physician H. Murray Crittenden yesterday pronounced 10 Currier school boys, who were bitten by a dog on Dec. 5, out of danger. They have been under treatment, Alderman Bartlett having secured the passage of an emergency requisition for the Pasteur treatment. With no symptoms developing yesterday, the danger point was passed and the boys will be granted certificates to return to school today.

Sparrow Alighted on Gun Deflecting Course of Bullet

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—A sparrow alighting upon the gun of William G. Berry, 15, of 135 Jerome street, West Medford, as he was about to shoot at a target on the wall of a barn in the rear of his home yesterday, caused the weapon to discharge and the bullet struck his companion, Julian L. Fulton, 15, of 110 Sharpy street, West Medford, in the back.

The Fulton youth was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in the Medford police ambulance, where it was said last night that unless blood poisoning develops he will recover. The bullet was of 22 calibre.

The two youths were trying out a new Christmas rifle for the first time and had placed a target upon the barn wall. The Fulton boy was standing just in front of Berry as he was about to shoot, but out of the line of fire.

The second that the gun exploded a small sparrow alighted upon the barrel deflecting the course of the bullet, which lodged in the back of the Fulton boy.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem did not resign yesterday, as in his opinion the White City is in a state of drought. "I shall not resign," said his Honor last night. "The lid is on and I am sitting on it."

SUMMER IN DENVER

DENVER, Jan. 2.—Denver celebrated New Year's with summer weather, which abruptly terminated an unusual cold spell that had lasted a month.

At 3 o'clock a. m. yesterday the temperature was officially recorded at 57, exactly the average minimum for July for the last three years. Huge banks of snow remaining from the recent record-breaking storm were rapidly dissipated during the morning hours.

"Gunboat" Scores K. O. in 15th—Cross Put Anderson Away in 7th—Wolgaat Won—Other Bouts

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—"Gunboat" Smith, the California heavy-weight, scored a decisive victory yesterday when he knocked out Arthur Pelkey, the much-heralded Canadian fighter, in the 15th round of their "white hope" championship battle in the City city open-air amphitheatre.

The sailor was a strong favorite in the betting at odds of 7 to 10.

Smith's aggressiveness culminating in a clear cut right to the chin and his superior all-round work in all but two or three rounds did much to pave his way to victory. Pelkey proved a keen disappointment, being slow and seldom taking the fight to his shifter opponent.

The fight opened with the gunner forcing matters with snappy lefts to the face, but Pelkey, making his best showing, drove in several hard rights to the body and face that staggered Smith, and sent him to his corner bleeding from the mouth. The crowd cheered the Canadian and men less were made that he would win.

In the second round Smith scored heavily to the jaw, and in the third Pelkey pounded his man viciously over the kidney.

Rounds 1 and 5 were without feature, but in the sixth Smith forced to the front and thereafter was never in danger. In this round he fought the Canadian to a standstill with left uppercuts, sending him to his corner dazed and bleeding from the mouth.

After 30 seconds of fighting in the 15th round, Smith fainted with his left, then swung his right with lightning-like rapidity. The blow landed on Pelkey's unprotected jaw. Pelkey dropped with eyes glassy. Mechanically he struggled to his feet at the count of nine and unsteadily assumed his fighting pose. A left and right to the jaw toppled him on his back, and he was out when Referee Griffin awarded the fight to Smith.

There is No Room or Reason for Panic, Says John Wanamaker—Scores Republican Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—"We have lots of room in this country for courage, energy and enterprise, but there is no room or reason for a panic. What the president wants and the country wants are strong men—unselfish and broad visioned able men—to help him and his cabinet to lead the way. The motto for the new year is: 'Don't be blue.'"

With these words, almost at the end of a forceful and spirited address, the Hon. John Wanamaker, ex-postmaster general, yesterday at the Union League urged the members of that stalwart republican organization to give an opportunity to the democratic national administration to prove the worth of the new tariff and currency legislation.

Mr. Wanamaker sounded a note of optimism by declaring that he had no fear of any serious unsettlement of business or of any long disturbance of prosperity. He took to task the leadership of the republican party, which, by broken pledges, he said, had worn out the patience of good republicans.

Mr. Wanamaker expressed the opinion that the present tariff bill is far better legislation than either of the Cleveland bills, and he further expressed the belief that the manufacturers will be able to adjust themselves to the changed conditions in at least two-thirds of the items in the new schedules.

The address of Mr. Wanamaker was made at a private dinner given by the president, vice presidents and board of directors of the Union League. The dinner followed a reception held by members of the league. Mr. Wanamaker said:

"I do not presume to speak to you as a manufacturer, but no other class of men is so closely allied to the user of raw materials who produces merchandise as the commercial men, of whom I am one."

"I have long been of the opinion that the rock bottom foundation of business prosperity is the manufacturer coupled with the distributor of the manufactured articles. Neither ships, railroads nor banking can play much, if any, paying game in any country during the chill seasons of mill wheels and forged hammers."

"Naturally, a change of a long established thrif has a disturbing influence."

GRACE CHURCH

Enjoyable Party With Victrola Recital Conducted Last Night

The monthly party of the Grace Universalist church, was held last evening, and as usual, met with great success. Under the direction of Mrs. Charles N. Woodward and Mrs. George Randall, matrons, and Mr. Charles N. Woodward, host, supper was served from 8 to 9 o'clock.

One of the features of the evening was a Victrola recital, which rendered the latest selections as well as many of the best operatic records. The concluding feature was "The Oshkosh Family," presented by six people of the First Unitarian Congregational church. The affair was enjoyed by all those present. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. Sawyer's Sunday school class as follows: John Weinbeck, Ellet Knapp, Ed Cochran, Edward Daly, Ernest Zupper, Harold Stanley, Bruce Klinger, Edward Alcott, Hilbert Platt, Mark Chetwynd.

PAWNSHOP HELPS GUID
A young couple, exhibiting phyness, walked into the municipal pawnshop yesterday. They paused for an instant just inside the doorway. Ralph Perry, in charge, looked up from his work of making entries in a ledger. An assistant also looked up.

"I'll bet they think they can get a marriage license here," Perry remarked under his breath.

The couple approached the desk, and the man drew his watch from his pocket.

"I want to get $10 on my watch," said the man.

Perry examined the watch, and said he could give no more than $8 on it.

"That isn't enough. We want to get married, and then go down to her home," said the man, nodding to the young woman, indicating for whom the "her" was meant. "We want about $10."

At this juncture the young woman stepped forward.

"I can put my watch in too," she said, producing a small time piece. The man cast a disapproving glance toward her.

"You give us $10 on both of them?"

Perry allowed them the $10, and the two started toward the court house. —Kansas City Journal.

Harold MacGrath's

STARTS IN NEXT SUNDAY'S GLOBE

JANUARY 4, 1914

Harold MacGrath, the famous author of "The Man on the Box," has written a new story. It is a story so intensely human in its situations, so unusual in its setting, and is told so fascinatingly by this master writer of fiction that it holds you spellbound from the opening sentence to the happy finale on the last page. Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it the greatest novel that MacGrath has ever written.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn"

When the manuscript of this great story was finished the dramatic rights were purchased at once by the Selig Polyscope Co., a famous playwright prepared it for the motion picture stage, and the play is now being witnessed by millions of people at leading motion picture theatres all over the country, with the beautiful Kathlyn Williams—the greatest of all motion picture actresses—playing the part of the heroine. The play is so long that it takes 26 full-length reels to present it, and it is therefore being shown in instalments, two reels at a time, at intervals two weeks apart. It is the longest and most pretentious drama ever put on the motion picture stage.

So now you can get double the enjoyment from this fascinating story that you've ever gotten from a novel before. For you cannot only follow the heroine in the story through all her wonderful adventures—from her beautiful home in California to the dense jungles of Alaba and among the savage tribes of Hindustan—but you can also actually see her in your favorite motion picture theatre—see Kathlyn herself with your own eyes in every hairbreadth adventure and thrilling escape from jungle beasts and Hindn Brigand. Instalments of story will appear in the Globe every Sunday, keeping pace with the dramatized version as it appears at the motion picture theatres.

Athletes and Athletics

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team went down to defeat last night at the hands of the fast quintet of Manchester players. While the score stood 55 to 37 against the local team, last night's victory is a hollow one for the New Hampshire five. Only one player on the local team was a regular.

The man from Massachusetts did not have much chance with Mr. G. Smith in their little party at the Pacific coast yesterday. Smith improves every time that he steps into the ring, and great things are prophesied of him by many of the ring experts who have seen him in action. Pelky couldn't keep away from the sailor's left hand any more than Langford was able to a few weeks ago. By the way, there is still a doubt in the minds of many as to whether Smith is really a better man than the Boston Tar Baby and another match between these two is not at all improbable.

Well, Leach Cross has done this so many times that we shouldn't expect anything else. How Anderson, knowing as much as he does about ring tactics and having his last experience in mind, could ever be drawn in by the Hebrew's stalling is beyond us. Cross has done the same thing many times, but there's one born every minute.

The new pitcher who Manager Stallings of the Braves has secured from the San Antonio club of the Texas league is reported to be one of the largest men playing baseball. His name is Cochrane and he stands nearly six feet and a half in height.

Daly last night for his third victory by the slam-bang route within the last ten days. Daly outweighed him by nearly fifty pounds but could not stand the punishment meted out by the husky light heavyweight.

It looks as though Harry Breyer, the star backstop of the Lawrence club would be missing from the down river lineup next season. Breyer has written Manager Pieper several letters asking for his release so that he can assume the management of a ball club next season. Pieper has not given him his release as yet and probably will not do so unless the owners of the team Breyer expects to manage come across with the all important thing. Pieper isn't overlooking any side bets by any manner of means.

The Lawrence Military Athletic Association is planning for a big track and field meeting to take place in the Lawrence armory this winter. The Lawrence military quarters are fully equipped for a first class track and the idea is meeting with enthusiasm among the followers of track and field games in Lawrence. If the proposed meet goes through, Lowell, Mass., and Lawrence will probably clash in a mile relay.

Hobbs Baker defeated the Toronto team last night at the Boston rink. Of course the Tiger player was accompanied on to the ice by six other Princeton players but they had little to do but take the puck after Baker had dribbled it through the entire defense of the Canadians. The score of the contest was: Princeton 5, University of Toronto 1.

LOOTS POLICE STATION MOB FIGHTS N.Y. POLICE

DOORMATS DEPART WITH NEW YEAR'S CALLER WHO IS OVERHAULED IN A CEMETERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—While Lieut. Thompson was at the desk in the West One Hundred and Fifty-second police station yesterday afternoon the door opened slowly and a man entered. The caller was of elderly appearance, whose natural gentility had apparently not only survived but had been intensified by New Year's calls and attendant ceremonies.

With some difficulty the caller voyaged from the door to the railing, on which he leaned, then smiled benevolently upon the lieutenant and all the the world.

"Happy New Year, Lieutenant," he observed. "The only trouble I've had in the past year has been due to wet feet. I've resolved to see to it that I keep my feet dry in the future."

The lieutenant acknowledged the greeting, and after philosophical observations on the condition of the world, the caller headed out. As he turned he appeared to drop something, stooped to pick it up, then continued to the door, where he stooped again before going into the street.

A moment later the lieutenant looked over the desk and discovered that two doormats were missing.

A glance up the street revealed the New Year's caller in full flight, waving a mat in each hand.

Doorman Kearney, Patrolman Welsh and Detective Galvin were called and pursued the fugitive into Trinity cemetery, where he was caught after an attempt to hide in the shrubbery.

When taken to the station house the prisoner said he was Frederick Kowal, sixty-one, of No. 321 West One Hundred and Fifty-first street. He was sent to Washington Heights hospital for observation. The doormats were returned to their posts.

AT FIRE IN ONE STORY BUILDING—CROWD TRIES TO TAKE PRISONER FROM POLICE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Fire was discovered at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the basement of a one-story building at 142 Claremont avenue, the Bronx.

Before the firemen arrived smoke was pouring from the basement. Capt. John Stokes of No. 45 Engine company dropped into the basement, followed by Firemen Joseph O'Neil, Thomas O'Connor and Frederick Puck.

Stokes and his men dragged a line of hose to the rear of the basement and then all of them collapsed. Firemen and police on the street ran through the smoke and dragged the four unconscious men to the open.

The police swung their clubs, but the crowds broke past them and made it impossible for the firemen to work. Patrolman Silva, arrested Frederick Richman of No. 438 Claremont place and Bernard Rosenthal of No. 464 East One Hundred and Eighty-sixth street, charging them with breaking through the fire lines.

Instantly Silva was attacked from all sides by men and women who attempted to rescue the prisoners. Then the crowds attacked the police and firemen, but Richman and Rosenthal were dragged to the police station.

A very pleasant birthday party was held last evening at the home of Miss Jeannette Cole, 65 Fifth street. During the evening she was presented with a beautiful pendant and chain, the presentation speech being made by Mr. Jack Coffey.

The evening was spent in playing games and there were songs by Mr. Jarlath Dacey and Mr. William Sydeman, accompanied by Miss Winifred Goggin. The party broke up at a late hour, everybody having spent a very enjoyable evening.

TAKES A VEST POCKET WIFE
FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 2.—Oscar Kreuss, seven feet one inch tall, was married to Mrs. Martha Duncan, four feet eleven inches tall, yesterday.

The bride just reached her husband's lower vest pocket, but for all that it was a case of love at first sight. Both say so. Kreuss comes from Ottawa, Kan., where he was called the "Kansas Giant."

He is 45 years old and his wife 50. They met here at the livestock show in November but were seldom seen together in public because of the attention they draw.

PREVENT MINE ACCIDENTS KILLED BY AUTO

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—Letters have been sent to the general superintendents and general managers of every coal mine in the state by James E. Roderick, state chief of mines, urging them to take measures to reduce the number of accidents.

In the same mail the chief sent letters to the mine inspectors of the state service notifying them of the despatch of the letter and directing them to notify the department at once if they find that suggestions for safety are not being followed out.

MARATHON RACE

Hans Holmer, Who Appeared Here, in Scotland Race Today

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 2.—Hans Holmer, the Canadian long distance runner, who among many notable victories had won the marathon race conducted at the Lowell, Mass., automobile carnival sports, led a large field of professional runners this afternoon in the annual Powdermill Marathon race, winning the 15 mile run in 1:22:12. This is 2 seconds behind the record.

Holmer was followed to the tape by George Dinning of London, England, last year's winner, and Willie Kolehmainen of Finland, the winner in 1912. The three men were closely bunched from the ten mile mark until they entered the straightaway for home, when the Canadian sprinted and won handily.

TAXES BASED ON SOCIETY NEWS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2.—When Governor Cox appointed Charles Doran and Peter McCarthy tax assessors of Hamilton county the two officials decided to place on the taxable list millions of personal property not hitherto included in the tax returns.

To this end they have opened war on the numbers of Cincinnati's exclusive set and are using the society columns of the local newspapers as a medium through which to determine just what jewels and costly gowns and furs are in the possession of Cincinnati's 400.

They clipped out the newspaper reports of the holiday ball given at the Sinton house on Tuesday evening and noted the jewels and garments worn on that occasion.

A card index will be made and when the deputy assessors make their rounds the members of society will be asked to include the jewels and gowns they wore on occasions reported in the society columns of the newspapers.

SIGNS OF ECONOMY
"Pipes and pennies among the working people indicate the coming of hard times as surely as the flight of the wild birds to the southland points the coming of winter," said Joseph Bailey, of Muncie, Ind., at the Shorham.

"I have noticed for a generation that whenever the wage-earner walks up to a bar and hands out five pennies for a glass of beer, then fills his pipe from a handful of tobacco he carries in his pocket, instead of using larger coin and smoking a cigar, business conditions are becoming lean." "Years ago a philosophical saloonkeeper kept pointed out to me that pennies and pipes instead of nickels and cigars in barrooms foreshadowed the coming of harder times. I have watched for a number of years to see whether that philosophical saloonkeeper was right in his theory, and I have found it so wherever I have been. The reason seems to be that when times are good the workman hands his pennies to the children and smokes cigars, but when the pressure of the lack of funds strikes him he not only refrains from passing over the pennies to his kids, but sometimes even robs the children's banks."—Washington Post.

N. Y. Girl Walking With Mother Was Struck by Machine

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Ralph Oakley of 741 North Broadway, Yonkers, with his wife, the daughter of E. S. Perot, a millionaire cable manufacturer, and E. S. Perot, Jr., was driving along South Broadway in his automobile yesterday afternoon.

At Lawrence street a street car stopped and an automobile in the rear of the car halted. Mr. Oakley, who was behind this automobile, also stopped his machine, but becoming impatient at the delay, turned to the left side of the street to pass the car and continue on his way.

Just as Mr. Oakley drove his automobile past the trolley car, Mrs. Emma Wolter, accompanied by her eight-year-old daughter Emma of 488 Van Cortlandt Park avenue started across in front of the car.

The child was struck by the machine which knocked her down and ran over her. Mr. Oakley quickly stopped and picked up the unconscious child. He wanted to take her to St. Joseph's hospital, but was arrested by Patrolman Caulfield. The child then was placed in the automobile of W. B. Thompson, a copper manufacturer, and taken to the hospital, where she died as she was being carried to a ward.

A charge of manslaughter was made against Mr. Oakley. He was paroled in the custody of his counsel, J. A. Brennan.

Witnesses of the accident said the child would not have been killed had Mr. Oakley observed the city ordinance which provides that vehicles shall not be driven on the left side of the street.

WASHING COUPLES MARRIED
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The conservative citizens of Rockville, Md., the so-called Gretna Green for Washington, Maryland and Virginia, do not relish the fact that so many eloping couples are being married there. They are indignant, it is said, because the ministers' boast that they married 255 elopers in 1913. They want a stop put to it.

COAL MINING IN SOUTH

INCREASED PRODUCTION IN 1913 IN MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, ALABAMA AND TENNESSEE

The coal production of 1913 in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the southern Appalachian field showed a normal increase over 1912, according to advance estimates by Edward W. Parker, of the United States Geological Survey.

The production in Maryland was not materially different from that of the preceding year, approximately 5,000,000 short tons, and as the "big vein" of Maryland is approaching exhaustion in many of the larger operations, any material increase in the output of the state is not to be expected, although there still remain important resources of coal in the lower and thinner beds.

In Virginia and in West Virginia the output of coal in 1913 was from 5 to 10 per cent in excess of that in 1912. Labor troubles in the Cabin Creek and Paint Creek districts of the Kanawha field were settled during the early part of the year and resulted in the securing of a foothold by the labor organizations in some of the coal-mining districts of the southern part of the state.

During the spring in addition to the labor difficulties, shipments to the west were cut off to some extent by disastrous floods in the Ohio valley region. The supply of labor in West Virginia, as in Pennsylvania, was not equal to the demand, a condition which tended to restrict the production so that at times the railroads were in a position to handle considerably larger tonnages than the mines were able to furnish. During the first half of the year the demand for coke was insistent and spot prices were good, but the output was also somewhat restricted by the shortages in labor.

Increase in Southern Appalachian Field
In Alabama and Tennessee the production of coal was from 3 to 5 per cent greater in 1913 than in 1912 and was somewhat evenly distributed throughout the entire year. Market conditions showed some improvement in 1913 over 1912. A number of companies in Alabama were forced into receiverships in 1912, but were able to have the receivership dissolved during 1913. Several new mines were opened in that state and have been furnishing a gradually increased output since the spring of 1913. Other mines have added improvements and extended their workings to provide for an increased tonnage. An encouraging feature reported by some of the mining companies is a better labor supply than is reported from some of the other states, miners having been recruited from other lines of industrial pursuit. The output per man and the efficiency of the employees have shown an increasing tendency because of improved sanitary and living conditions, and because of increased wages put in force last February. The wages for mining and for mine labor which have prevailed during 1913 are said to be higher than ever before in the history of coal mining in Alabama. The slight increase in the output of coal in both Alabama and Tennessee appears to be attributable to the more satisfactory labor conditions and to a better supply of railroad cars than existed in 1912. An increased demand for bunker coal in the Gulf trade also took a part of the increased production. The demand for domestic and steam coals was, if anything, slightly less than in 1912. The production of coal in eastern Kentucky showed a material increase over that of 1912.

INQUIRY INTO EXPENSES DENOUNCES B. & M. PLAN

Of Public Service Corporations—
Circular Issued by the Public Service Commission

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Jan. 2.—In a new form of blank just issued to the Bay State Street Railway company and the Boston & Maine railroad, the public service commission requires the companies to certify to all "general expenses" assumed by the companies that is not directly connected with the operating of railroads. Similar blanks were sent to all the railroads and street railway companies in Massachusetts.

In their blanks the officials of the company must enter, under an affidavit as to the accuracy of their return, the amounts paid by the companies to all persons who are not engaged in the operation of the road. It is said to be the purpose of the commission to determine if the companies are expending any money to influence legislation, to control any of the political parties of the state, to defeat or elect any certain candidates or to induce public opinion through the newspapers and advertising agencies.

The questions asked of the companies by the public service commission are in part as follows:

"All payments made by it, directly or indirectly, to any newspaper, periodical or advertising agent, or to any employee there or writer thereof, together with all other payments of every kind for advertising or other publicity, including, however, expenses contracted for the distributing and printing of timetables, telephone directories, circulars and pamphlets of information, is-

William B. Lawrence Says That it is a Scheme to Plunder the Stockholders

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—William B. Lawrence, arch enemy of the New Haven railroad, denounced yesterday the proposal of Chairman Howard Elliott and the directors of the New Haven railroad to turn the Boston & Maine railroad over to a board of voluntary trustees for 10 years.

Chairman Elliott he referred to as a "dirty finger of Richard Olney and the Morgan gang, who have plundered the Boston & Maine to the extent of many million dollars."

"It is a scheme," he declared, "to continue the plunder of the Boston & Maine and the poor stockholders for the benefit of the pocketbook of Morgan, the Standard Oil and Wall Street."

"On the face of it, it is a scheme to thwart justice, to continue the control of the B. & M. by the New Haven, though in a different fashion, and to move these now in control to a place of safety where they cannot be reached by the federal or state governments or by the stockholders."

"It is not particularly complimentary to the intelligence of the people of New England to propose such a plan. It is openly an attempt to obtain government approval of a scheme to control the Boston & Maine just as effectively, yes, even more effectively than now."

"In proposing this scheme, by which they hope to so blind the department of justice that it will approve of it, Chairman Elliott is nothing more than a dirty finger of Richard Olney and the Morgan gang, who have plundered the Boston & Maine to the extent of many million dollars."

Beyond Federal Power

"The situation would be far worse than it is now. The dummy directors would be so far removed that they could not be within the power of honest federal or state authority, and they would be out of the reach of the stockholders. No one could be reached to compensate the stockholders who have been flagrantly robbed of their property."

"The New Haven people have deliberately and consistently robbed the Boston & Maine and if they can get approval of their latest scheme, they will continue to rob it, without even the possibility of interference, for ten years more."

"The talk about the possibility of the Pittsburgh being sold to the Delaware & Hudson is pure nonsense and a blind. Years ago the Morgans prevented the

WHITE STAR LINER LASHED BY BIG WAVES ON CHRISTMAS—MEN INJURED

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A New Year's tale of a rough Christmas at sea was brought into port yesterday by the American liner New York, running in the White Star service from Southampton and stopping at Cherbourg and Queenstown.

After the ship left Queenstown Christmas afternoon the gale came on and kept increasing during the night. A wicked sea that combined over the bows washed along everything that was not lashed down. In that class were Quartermaster Frederick Bell and Julius Warren, a seaman. They tumbled over and over as they were swept aft on the wave's crest. They were flung against the rail, which prevented them from going overboard.

The men were picked up and borne aft by shipmates under direction of Capt. W. J. Roberts. Reiss' left leg was broken and Warren had a deep scalp wound. Dr. William Stump, the ship's surgeon, attended the men. The quartermaster was removed to a shore hospital yesterday.

On Wednesday night at the concert the passengers raised $50 for the men. That night William Russell, a line cadet, was knocked from the bridge step by a wave and bruised severely.

For two days the New York fought westerly seas, piled up and driven against her by the gale.

When the New York was made fast to the upper side of Pier No. 61, North river, her sister ship, Philadelphia, lay on the lower side of Pier No. 62. It was the first time in more than a decade that the two ships had been in port together, and Capt. R. M. Mills of the Philadelphia and Capt. Roberts of the New York had their first opportunity to embrace and wish a happy new year.

Throughout the morning the corridors of the court house were filled with men waiting for their turn to enter the clerk's office and express their desire to become citizens of the United States.

The applicants were asked many questions regarding their age and place of birth and also if they were citizens of any foreign country. If they proved eligible they were given their first papers this morning and will have to wait two years before applying for their final papers.

PUNCHED MAYOR IN JAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—After talking the oath of office, Mayor John Miller of Kentworth, N. J., left the Borough hall with several councilmen yesterday afternoon. No sooner had he reached the street than H. L. Finkle, a former assessor, stepped up and punched him in the jaw.

Before Finkle could repeat the blow councilmen grabbed him. He was removed to his home, where Dr. Gilpin of Cranford worked over him for several hours, when Finkle became quiet.

Friends of Finkle said that he has been acting strangely. They said he believed he wouldn't be paid for his services as assessor.

Mayor Miller said last night that he hasn't decided yet whether or not to have Finkle arrested on a charge of assault. He was stunned for an instant by the blow.

CAR WAS DERAILED

TRUCK OF THE CHELMSFORD SPRING COMPANY USED TO CONVEY PASSENGERS

One of the Chelmsford bound electric cars jumped the track opposite the half way house this morning. The trucks on the front of the car were thrown into the road. No one in the car was injured but all received a bad shaking up. As no other car was on to accommodate people going into Lowell, the Bay State company hired the auto-truck owned by the Chelmsford Spring Co. to carry passengers as far as the Lowell line. Mr. Herbert Knowlton drove the car while Mr. Benjamin Cole assisted the conductor and motor man who were obliged to stop the car in boxes in form of steps for all the passengers. The tracks between Stevens street and the half way house have long been in need of repairs. The work is now being done.

TELEGRAM RECEIVED BY GOV. FERRIS FROM SHERIFF CRUSE CONTAINED NEW INFORMATION

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 2.—A telegram received today by Governor Ferris from Sheriff Cruse of Houghton county dealing with the alleged deportation of President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners contained information entirely new to the governor.

Cruse said that Deputy Hinesley reported to him that on the night of the alleged attack a crowd had Moyer in front of the Scott hotel and threatened to lynch him and throw his body into the lake.

"Hinesley prevailed upon the crowd to send Moyer away on a train, and this they finally agreed to do," said Cruse in his message. "Hinesley got on the train with Moyer and learned that he was wounded. The conductor wired ahead and had a physician meet the train at Winona. Hinesley accompanied Moyer as far as Channing."

Captain Chester McCormick, in command of the artillery company stationed at Houghton, today telegraphed the governor that the striking miners have disregarded the ultimatum issued by the operators, that they should return to work Jan. 1 or their places would be filled.

RACING AUTO HITS CHILD

Passenger Thrown Through Windshield and Injured in Collision Last Evening

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Two touring cars raced up Third avenue at 7:30 last night. They dodged street cars and other vehicles, and at Sixty-fourth street were running almost even, when a patrolman of the East Sixty-seventh street station stood in front of them and signalled to stop. The patrolman barely escaped being run down. He sounded his whistle, and the other patrolmen had done further down the avenue. The chauffeurs continued their race.

At Sixty-seventh street one car was guided from the street car tracks to pass a car. A woman and a little girl got in the way and the child was run down. Then the car skidded and crashed against an elevated pillar. The chauffeur was hurled to the street and a man on the seat with him had his head jammed through the windshield. His throat was cut.

The other racing machine did not stop, but turned into an intersecting street and disappeared before its number could be read.
